Teachers' Pays Are Due

Orlean Schools Short Of Funds

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature will find a way to pay New Orleans public school teachers, a leading segregationist legislator said Tuesday.

Rep. John Garrett, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, said at Baton Rouge: "The Legislature wants to see that the New Orleans teachers are paid. We know the vast majority are not in sympathy with school integration."

Garrett, who made his announcement on the eve of the reconvening of the 30-day special session, spoke after Dr. James Redmond, public school superintendent, said no money was in sight for the teachers' November checks.

Sen. Wendell Harris, a member of the State Sovereignty Commission, qualified Garrett's announcement by saying only teachers who teach in segregated schools will be paid.

Dismissals

Harris also said those who taught in the two integrated schools are subject to dismissal.

Dr. Redmond had urged Gov. Jimmie H. Davis to "rise above the noisy emotions of some state legislators" and make the money available.

Many teachers said the announcement of a payless November came as no surprise. The consensus seemed they would continue to work and eventually receive their salaries. Most teachers, attempting to avoid the segregation row, refused to comment.

Veteran teachers recalled the depression of the 1930s when they had been paid in scrip or bonds.

There were unconfirmed reports a group of local businessmen would advance $2 million for the teachers.

Nation Is Watching

"The nation is watching the State of Louisiana," Redmond said. "It has been made clear by state actions that Orleans Parish School Board officials cannot be considered responsible for this plight."

State banks, worried by legal claim and counterclaim, refused to loan $1.9 million to meet the monthly teacher payroll due Wednesday. The loan would have been made against future earmarked tax revenues. It is a normal procedure this time of year.

The legislature, fighting mad over federal-ordered integration of New Orleans schools last week, refused to make state money available. It didn't reply to telegraphed school board pleas last week.

The board squeezed by a $45,000 weekly maintenance payroll last Friday because a New Orleans bank, Whitney National, made available some deposited school funds. The state promptly moved to take state business away from the bank.

The payless payday will affect 4,500 teachers, principals and other school employes.

If it forces a shutdown of the city school system, 93,000 students will be affected.

The schools are closed in New Orleans this week while white and Negro teachers attend segregated state conventions in Baton Rouge.

The Louisiana Legislature resumes its current special session at Baton Rouge Wednesday. Parents of white children at William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 elementary schools—the two buildings integrated last week—plan a big demonstration before the legislature.

Pending is a ruling by a three-judge federal court on motions which would grant a recess to integration, and would upset all orders that forced school integration.

Garner Doesn't Expect Changes In White House

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner, 92 Tuesday, doesn't expect sweeping changes under the Kennedy-Johnson administration, but hopes it will compare with the Roosevelt-Garner team elected in 1932.

Although he shuns an active part in politics, Garner—the only man to hold the offices of speaker of the House and vice president in succession—has some advice for young politicians: "If you want to hold office, don't make any promises."

Garner said the only promise he made during 46 years in office was "I'll do the best I can."

The former vice president was plainly delighted at achieving his oft-expressed desire to live to be 92 so he could say he spent half his life in public service and half as a private citizen.

He chuckled happily as Cele Briscoe, 4, presented him with a cake trimmed in roses and bearing two candles. He laughed when the girl dipped her finger in the icing, licked it and turned to give him a kiss.

'Feel Young'

"God bless you," he said again and again to visitors. Most were residents of this southwest Texas town where Garner entered politics as a county judge when Grover Cleveland was president.

"You make me feel young again" he told members of a high school band which serenaded him with "Happy Birthday" in the driveway of his modest frame home.

Despite his snow-white, wispy hair and bushy eyebrows, Garner had a youthful air about him as he recalled his frequently tempestuous 38 years in Washington—a career that ended when he broke with Franklin D. Roosevelt over the issue of the latter's third term.

"I am the only man who ever walked from the most important office to one that doesn't amount to a hill of beans," Garner said of the day he swore in his successor as speaker of the House, then took the oath as vice president.

"The speaker of the House is second only to the president of the United States in service to our people," he said.

"The vice president is merely a waiting boy in case anything happens to the president, and you can't make anything else of it," he said. "President Roosevelt used to send me around the country and to places like the Hawaiian Islands, but it was just as a representative of the president."

Ike Hunts Quail Atop Mule Wagon

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower rode in a mule-drawn wagon over the Georgia countryside Tuesday, leisurely hunting quail like an old-fashioned Southern gentleman.

Eisenhower and a shooting partner, blasting away with shotguns bagged 15 of the game birds flushed into target range by outriders and hunting dogs during a 3½-hour morning hunt.

They returned to the fields in the afternoon to see if they could boost their total to the legal limit of 10 quail per man.

The President and his host, oilman W. Alton Jones, picnicked in sunny 75 degree weather on quail broiled over an open fire on Jones' 15,000-acre plantation.

Shortway Progress Is Noted

HARRISBURG (AP) — Substantial progress is being made on final design of the Keystone Shortway from White Deer, Union County, to Stroudsburg, Highways Secretary Park H. Martin reported Tuesday.

Martin said engineers are well advanced on the final design for the section of the road from the Tannersville Interchange with the Penn-Can Freeway.

He said right-of-way plans have been approved for two sections of this link in the shortway and it is proposed to ask for bids on these sections before the end of the year.

The secretary said this would bring the shortway to a connection with the Stroudsburg bypass which is under construction.

Many Clubbed And Arrested By Rampaging Congo Army

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu's victorious army roved through Leopoldville Tuesday, arresting and beating scores of United Nations officials in revenge for the death of their field commander in an all-night battle with U.N. soldiers.

With the Congo army attacking the official residence of Ghana, the world organization backed down on its pledge to protect the diplomatic immunity of Ghana's charge d'affaires, Nathaniel Welbeck, an ally of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba. Welbeck flew home on orders from Mobutu after the young colonel's soldiers had forced him from the residence that was guarded by the U.N. force.

Despite this setback, the United Nations reaffirmed its pledge to maintain order in the Congo. Machine gun units were posted at U.N. offices.

But U.N. officials fell victim to rampaging bands of Congolese soldiers. They were pulled from their cars and homes. Some were beaten savagely. One group returning late from a party — including three girls—was locked in a room all night by the soldiers. The group was released in the morning.

Twelve other U.N. officials were held throughout the day at Camp Leopold.

Despite his success in making good on the expulsion order against Welbeck, Mobutu faced the problem of subduing his rampaging soldiers, defying his orders to refrain from violence.

A U.N. spokesman said Mobutu, who is striving to maintain his role as the Congo's strong man, had issued orders to his men to halt the violence.

The United Nations found itself fighting the Congolese army after promising to protect the safety of all officials, Congolese and foreign, including Welbeck.

In the battle, one Tunisian U.N. soldier and at least four Congolese were killed. Eight Tunisians were wounded.

The acting head of the U.N. mission, Indian Brig. Indarjit Rikhye, announced that the United Nations is ready to continue carrying out its mandate to maintain law and order in the troubled nation.

But a question arose on how the United Nations could overcome the critical blows to its prestige during the past 24 hours.

Lumumba's fate was the next matter for concern to both Rikhye and Mobutu. The deposed premier remains entrenched in his official residence under a strong U.N. guard, and Mobutu assured Rikhye that he will not order any attack on the residence.

But neither Rikhye nor Mobutu seemed confident that unruly army elements, encouraged by Welbeck's departure, might not set out after Lumumba without orders.

A new 6 p.m. curfew was imposed on the tense city to prevent further outbreaks of violence. The U.N. ordered all staff members to remain in its headquarters compound throughout the day except on duty trips. Accommodation in the headquarters building was provided for officials living in outlying districts.

Welbeck first was declared unwelcome—persona non grata—by President Joseph Kasavubu in October. The U.N. Command said at that time it would not permit his expulsion by force. A diplomat declared persona non grata normally has no recourse but to leave the country, but Welbeck did not do so.

UN Assembly Gives Seat To Kasavubu

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly Tuesday night gave its vacant Congo seat to a delegation headed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

By a vote of 53-24 with 19 abstentions the assembly upheld a recommendation of its Credentials Committee that it seat Kasavubu.

The vote represented a victory for the United States and other Western supporters of Kasavubu, and a defeat for the Soviet bloc and a considerable number of Asian-African nations.

Just before the vote was taken the U.N.'s Asian-African conciliation Commission decided to delay its scheduled departure Tuesday night for Leopoldville on a peacemaking mission.

The decision to postpone the departure came after Kasavubu sent a letter to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold objecting to dispatch of the mission at this time to the violence-wracked Congo.

The assembly called upon Hammarskjold to disclose its contents, but he refused to do so on the grounds he received it not as secretary-general but as head of the U.N. Advisory Committee that decided to dispatch the Conciliation Commission.

Earlier the assembly beat down a last ditch attempt to adjourn debate pending a report from Hammarskjold on anti-U.N. violence in the Congo. Ghana made the move with support of the Soviet bloc.

The assembly voted 50-34 with 13 abstentions against a motion by Ghana Delegate J. E. Jantuah to adjourn the debate pending an official report from Hammarskjold. Jantuah said it was impossible to consider seating a government "whose militia has attacked the United Nations."

But U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth blamed Ghana for the violence.

Laos Premier To Seek Aid From Soviets

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said Tuesday his neutralist government will ask the Soviet Union for all the aid—economic, military or otherwise—it is willing to give.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander N. Abramov flew into Vientiane a few hours later and said his country will be "only too happy to oblige."

Souvanna told newsmen his hard-pressed government needs "all the aid we can get."

Asked if this would include military aid, he replied: "Yes, all the aid we can get. We are short of everything. Our goods are being held up by Thailand's blockade and we need everything."

Souvanna said he will evade the Thai blockade by flying the Soviet supplies in from the Communist North Vietnamese cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Regular channels through Thailand have been blocked since the Aug. 9 coup that put Souvanna into power. The Thai government has lifted the blockade for brief periods to let in emergency supplies of rice and gasoline.

Souvanna charges that American aid, poured into this Southeast Asian kingdom to the tune of $270 million since 1954, has been going in greater amounts lately to the rebel right-wing regime of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan in Savannakhet.

The U.S. Embassy here says the aid agreement is to supply the entire Laotian army, even though it is split between the general and the premier.

Phoumi is strongly opposed to any compromise with the third element in Laos' three-part internal struggle — the leftist Pathet Lao rebels, who have been fighting guerrilla skirmishes on and off for six years.

Soviet 'Copter Lands In West

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet helicopter apparently lost, plumped down near the U. S. Army headquarters in West Berlin Tuesday.

The machine was on the ground only a few minutes, according to a West Berlin police report. Then it took off and headed for Communist East German territory.

Bonn Refuses To Give Aid On Upkeep Of U.S. Troops

BONN, Germany (AP) — U. S.-West German economic talks became deadlocked Tuesday night over a Bonn government refusal to contribute $600 million immediately toward the upkeep of American troops in this country.

The West Germans argued they would not deliver such a sum on short notice.

Britain was reported planning to make similar demands on the prosperous Germans.

U.S. economic negotiators temporarily brushed aside German offers of increased outlays for foreign aid, which would not release dollars to help the declining gold position of the U.S. Treasury.

The Americans maintained that Washington's balance of payments troubles can best be solved by a healthy German contribution to the annual $700 million cost of maintaining U.S. forces here on the edge of the Iron Curtain.

All told, the Americans are said to want nearly $1.5 billion from Bonn at once to pay for troops and aid the West's program to help underdeveloped countries. The Germans are offering about $1 billion—spread over four years.

As for the troop costs, the Germans offered to pay about one-quarter of the $600 million request and would prefer instead to pay a larger share of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense costs, informants said.

The talks continue for another day, and the U.S. team then goes on to Paris and London for similar discussions.

16th Annual Meeting

Borough Football Teams Clash Thursday Morning

WINLESS Stroud Union High School and East Stroudsburg High School meet Thursday morning at 10 at East Stroudsburg's Memorial Stadium in the 16th Annual Turkey Day Football game.

The Cavaliers, who enter the game with a 5-3-1 mark are heavy favorites. In its last outing, East Stroudsburg held unbeaten Nazareth to a 7-7 tie, while Stroud Union was losing to Northampton 73-7.

Some 4,000 fans are expected to watch the third meeting between Mountaineer coach Walt Bjorn and Jack Kist of East Stroudsburg. Kist has a one game edge on Bjorn in their brief series. Last year's game ended in a 6-6 tie.

Fellman Will Start

Cavalier quarterback Jack Fellman, who twisted an ankle against Port Jervis, was a doubtful starter but Kist said Tuesday night that Fellman will definitely start at quarterback but will do no punting or place kicking.

Harold (Mach 2) Myers, injured in the loss to Hellertown, will be the starting fullback. Myers is the club's leading scorer with 55 points and also tops the team in ground gaining.

Stroud Union, which will have only 22 men in uniform, mainly because of injuries, holds an 8-4 lead in the series, which began in 1945. Three games ended in ties.

Seats Left

There are very few reserved seats left for the game. The general admission sale has been moving briskly but there are still several hundred tickets available.

The stadium gates will open at 9 a.m. Both the parking lot at the stadium and the school parking lot behind Lehigh Valley Dairy, will be open. However, late arrivals are advised not to try to park in the stadium lot.

Fear 'Naked And Dead' Author Is Mentally Ill

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist Norman Mailer, 37, accused of stabbing his wife, was taken to Bellevue Hospital Tuesday for psychiatric observation. A physician said he appeared to be having a breakdown and was both homicidal and suicidal.

Felony Court Magistrate Reuben Levy ordered the mental examination after the author of the best seller "The Naked and the Dead" appeared in court on a felonious assault charge.

He is accused of stabbing his wife with a penknife during a party early Sunday. Mrs. Mailer, listed in critical condition, at first told physicians she was injured when she fell on broken glass.

Asst. Dist. Atty. William Reilly quoted a report by a Park Avenue psychiatrist in asking that Mailer be sent to Bellevue.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Conrad Rosenberg, said he believed the novelist was having an acute paranoid breakdown with delusional thinking.

Mailer challenged the medical report as "gratuitous and presumptuous."

"My pride is that as a sane man I can explore areas of experience that other men are afraid of," he told the magistrate. "I insist I am sane."

Mailer then went on to say that if he were sent to a mental institution "for the rest of my life my work will be considered the work of a man who has a distorted mind. The doctor only examined me for about 30 seconds. I was just looking down at my shoes and I felt depressed and it was all over."

New Polaris Submarine Launched At Groton Base

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The Navy's most powerful Polaris-missile submarine, which will have increased firing range, was launched Tuesday and had its first skirmish—with a group of pacifists.

Two of the pacifists swam to the nuclear-powered Ethan Allen and boarded it minutes after the gaily decorated craft slid down the ways into the Thames River. They were removed quickly.

The Ethan Allen, named for the American Revolutionary War hero, is the first of a new line of fleet ballistic missile subs that will have a firing range of 1,500 miles or more. It displaces 6,900 tons.

The $110 million craft, and the rest of her four sister ships, will carry the new A2 Polaris missile, which is expected to have a range up to 1,725 miles. The older subs have the 1,380-mile A1 Polaris.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a crowd of about 5,000 at the launching ceremony the United States must maintain and increase its military strength in all its forms.

Have Respect

"The Communist leaders have respect for only one thing—military power," he said. "I believe that the only effective restraint now or in the future on the leaders of the Kremlin and Peking is fear of the consequences in the exercise of military power."

The Ethan Allen's power will come from her 16 A2 missiles, each of which will carry an atomic payload. The A2, now undergoing testing at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is scheduled to become operational in 1962. A 2,875-mile model is planned for two years after that.

The two pacifists who boarded the Ethan Allen were William Henry, 27, of Lodi, Wis., and Donald Martin, 20, of Wellesley, Mass. They swam to the side of the 410-foot-long craft and climbed the bunting draped on the sides.

Earlier, Henry and Martin and seven other self-styled pacifists attempted unsuccessfully to interfere with the launching.

Riding two rowboats and a canoe, the demonstrators tried to enter the area directly in front of the ways at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., builder of the submarine. But two Navy and five Coast Guard vessels moved in and the pacifists were put aboard official boats.

The demonstrators had announced in advance they would seek to intervene in the ceremonies. They are members of the Committee for Nonviolent Action, which is protesting construction and use of Polaris submarines. The pacifists demonstrated repeatedly here in the last few months.

Henry, Martin and the seven others were arrested by officials and held for arraignment before federal authorities. Henry and Martin faced government trespassing charges, the others charges of violating a Coast Guard order closing the area near the launching site.

Kennedy Eases Activity Plans

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy relaxed Tuesday after putting off a Thanksgiving Eve labor meeting and taking a look into the Democratic party's depleted coffers.

But bearing down on the Massachusetts senator is the necessity of picking promptly the men who will serve under him in the highest posts in the White House and government departments. Eighty of these positions must be filled on a top-priority basis.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, said, though, that he doesn't know whether there will be a stream of announcements of appointments immediately after Thanksgiving. Kennedy has said there possibly would be none until early December.

Kennedy flies to Washington Wednesday afternoon and back here Thursday night, after spending Thanksgiving Day with his wife and daughter Caroline. Caroline will be 3 Sunday and the celebration of her birthday is being moved up to Thursday so he can take part.

Originally Kennedy had planned to meet with President George Meany and other AFL-CIO leaders after his return to Washington.

But Wilson said a Thanksgiving Eve session was proving to be awkward because it involved bringing in leaders, some from outlying parts of the country, who would have to miss the holiday with their families.

So by mutual agreement, Wilson said, the meeting was postponed until sometime after Meany returns from a trip to Europe.

Kennedy met with Matthew McCloskey of Philadelphia, the finance director of the Democratic National Committee. Wilson said they discussed the state of party finances, which are none too good after a costly campaign.

Nanticoke Trooper Dies

MONTOURSVILLE, Pa. (AP) —A veteran state policeman killed himself with his service revolver in the barracks here Tuesday, his commanding officer reported.

Cpl. Henry Gorka, 45, a native of Nanticoke, was found in his room by fellow policemen about 1:30 p.m. when they looked for him to go on patrol.

Capt. John C. Grey said Gorka, who transferred here from Coudersport a month ago, had been despondent and told fellow officers he was in ill health.

Gorka had been seeing a doctor in Coudersport, Grey added.

Good Morning!

New Experiment

Zoo Visits Children

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It was like no school bus anybody had ever seen before. Instead of wearing the sober orange color of the orthodox bus, this one was bedecked with sportive animal figures.

And the way the driver was behaving, giving his cap a raffish tilt and calling out: "Hey, you animals, stop acting like a bunch of kids."

He wasn't kidding.

In the back of the bus were a cockatoo, a chimpanzee, two small monkeys, a kangaroo, a rabbit, a skunk, a boa constrictor and a baby llama.

The bus was bound from the zoo to a junior high school. At the wheel was William Maloney, superintendent of the special section for children at the zoo. With him were several helpers.

It was the kickoff of an experiment based on the idea that if you can't get the kids to the zoo, take the zoo to the kids. It has the approval of the School Board's Division of Audio-Visual Education, working with the Zoological Society.

Once the lively cargo was delivered, the pupils were freed from regular classes into a special assembly. Howls of joy greeted the animals' appearance on stage, especially when the llama was let loose, the skunk allowed to scamper about, and the kangaroo brought front and center to show how its young are carried in a pouch.

The novel program lasted an hour. The first half was strictly live, the second pictorial. Movies showed lions, tigers, elephants and other animals not easily brought into a school assembly.

The zoo-to-school program—acclaimed a big success—will start officially on Dec. 1. Officials said it is booked solidly for every school day until the end of February.

Charges Pressure Against Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Government Information subcommittee said Tuesday it has evidence that Civil Defense Director Leo A. Hoegh pressured the Army last August to suppress a scientific report on deficiencies in the nation's air raid warning system.

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss, (D-Calif.,) noted that earlier this month Hoegh denied a statement that the report had been suppressed by the Army because of Civil Defense pressure. But, Moses said, the subcommittee has a Hoegh letter urging the suppression.

There was no new comment from Hoegh.

Dud Bomb Sent To Clark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A secretary in disc jockey Dick Clark's office unwrapped a package which appeared to contain a homemade bomb yesterday but detectives quickly found it to be a dud.

The package was obviously the work of a crank, Detective Lt. Howard Dando and Postal Inspector Joseph J. McNabb Jr. said.

Wrapped in brown paper, it was postmarked from New York and delivered to Clark's office while he was on the American Bandstand television show which has made him an idol of the teenagers.

Investigators said the mechanism inside the package had all the appearances of an explosive but did not contain any powder.

Dando and McNabb said the investigation will be continued to try to determine the identity of the sender.

The PTA meeting was held Tuesday, Nov. 15, with ten members and one guest present. A Thanksgiving prayer was spoken by E. G. Wentworth. A letter from Mrs. Mabel Dotey was read in which she thanked the members for their gift of luggage, given her in appreciation of her years of service to the school. Plans for the coming Christmas party were discussed and the Cub Scouts delegated to make favors for the tables. The PTA plans to give as yet unchosen film strips to the school for Christmas. Mrs. Ryder's room won the attendance banner. The next meeting will be held Feb. 21, 1961, which will be Founders' Day.

And speaking of cats, Frances Myck has by all odds the most unusual female cat I have ever heard of. This cat is now two years old and to date has produced but one male kitten. Of course, our Dingman's cats are a highly literate group of felines. This may be her response to the current debate on the population explosion.

Dear Abby

No Rest For The Weary

Dear Abby: I drive a trailer truck for long-distance hauling. I came in off the road after a 2,200 - mile trip and the first thing my wife said was, "Let's go for a ride."

I tried to explain that I wasn't in the mood but she said she didn't care, that she and the kids hadn't been out of the house for nine days and she wanted to get out a little. Do you think I should have taken her for a ride?

TEED OFF

Dear Teed: You should have. But not then.

Dear Abby: I am writing to you with the desperate hope that you can help us with our daughter, who is 11. She is a petit mal epileptic and fairly well controlled by medicine. She is mentally and physically mature beyond her years and is exceptionally talented musically. But she is on the verge of being expelled from public school because she is absent almost every other day. She fakes illness and comes home constantly. We know she does this because she fears the humiliation of having an epileptic seizure before her classmates, although this has never happened. We can't help her at home, Abby. Is there a place we can send her for treatment, education and rehabilitation with experts in this field? We aren't rich but we would mortgage everything we own to help her.

DESPERATE MOTHER

Dear Mother: Write to the Federal Association for Epilepsy, 1729 F Street N. W., Washington, D. C. The Association sponsors the National Children's Rehabilitation Center for epileptics who, for one reason or another, cannot be educated in public schools. The Center admits children from seven to 16 years of age. The fee for your child will be based on your husband's income and family obligations.

Dear Abby: Why did you tell that woman she shouldn't shake her dust mop out the window? If it saves her walking down a flight of stairs and going out to the back yard, I can't see what's wrong with it. If she were my neighbor, I'd say, "Shake it my way, Dearie." I'm for anything that saves work.

"PRACTICAL"

Dear Abby: I see by your column that you are against secretaries going to lunch or dinner with their bosses. How about a salesman entertaining a lady buyer?

I am a salesman, and you know, Ab, a salesman has to sell himself first, and there is no better way to do it than to invite the lady buyer out for a nice lunch or dinner and talk business over a cocktail or two. It doesn't cost me anything because my firm figures this is the cost of doing business. There is nothing shady about it. It's fun for the lady and profitable for the salesman, so why knock it?

NUMBER ONE SALESMAN

Dear Number: A salesman may want to "sell himself"—but all he has to deliver is the product. "A Number One Salesman" doesn't need joy juice to sell anything.

Last British Governor Leaves Nigeria For Home

JACK GELINAS

LAGOS, NIGERIA — Recently Sir James Robertson, Governor-General of the Federation of Nigeria sailed aboard the m.s. Aureol for England, and retirement. He was the last British Governor of the Federation.

Sir James first assumed this role in the Queen's service in 1955, when he was brought out of retirement and handed the huge task of directing Nigeria, each step of the way, to her rightful place among free nations of the world.

His career as British civil servant has been a long one. For eight years he had served as Civil Secretary in the Sudan. He also saw service in Ethiopia.

Liked Him

The Nigerians liked him. In fact, they asked him to stay on in his capacity of Governor-General after independence, to fill the interim until such time as their own Governor-General designate took office.

And today is that day. In a few hours ceremonies will begin on the Lagos Racecourse, which will see the first African ever to be made Governor-General take the Oaths of Office. His name is Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe. The famous "Zik" is probably Africa's best-known campaigner against Colonial rule — but today he becomes the Queen's direct representative.

Dr. "Zik" is former president of the NCNC, the political bastion of the Ibo Eastern Region. He stepped down from politics to assume the status of Governor-General. This is significant. It is probably the most telling of all symbols of — or future indications of — Nigerian unity. It certainly will do much to further balance the more predominate elements of the vast North and the NPC, the party of the Fulani aristocracy.

Son Of Poor Clerk

He was born in 1904, the son of a poor clerk. By the time he was 20 he 'knew' he was 'destined' to agitate for changes. But first he had to get an education. He left Africa to get it. He earned degrees at two American Universities (University of Pennsylvania and Lincoln University), and was an instructor in political science at one of them. When he returned from America ten years later, he had been a boxer, miner, dishwasher and elevator-operator.

He returned to Nigeria and made money, started newspapers, became Premier of his native Eastern Region. He fought bitter fights with internal rivals, but always the main fight was against the principle of Colonial rule. As the leader of the Nationalist movement his themes were simple: Denunciation of imperialism and campaigning for Nigerian unity.

That is why his acceptance of the Governor-Generalship now means so much in terms of a united Nigeria. He is no longer the agitator and campaigner. He has become the father figure.

Erie-Lacka. RR E!-:ts McInnes

NEW YORK (AP) — Milton G. McInnes, 55, Tuesday was elected president of the newly-merged Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

McInnes, who has been executive vice president, succeeds Harry W. von Willer, 64. The road said von Willer resigned voluntarily because of health. He will continue as chairman of the board.

Perry Shoemaker, 54, former president of the Lackawanna, remains vice chairman of the board of directors.

McInnis has been with the Erie since 1930, starting as a dock clerk in the road's freight house in New York after getting out of college.

The railroad reported it had a net loss of $954,281 for October. It was the first earnings statement of the new road, a combination of the Erie and the Delaware & Western.

The figure reflects 16 days of independent operations as separate railroads and 15 days of joint operation. The merger took place Oct. 17.

Thanksgiving Day

Most of us look forward to Thanksgiving Day as a time for family gatherings, turkey dinners, football games and possibly a trip to some distant place during the school recess and work holiday.

Actually, however, the day has a much deeper meaning. As its name implies, it is a day for giving solemn thanks for a bountiful harvest and other blessings that have come to us during the past year.

That is not to say that the gaiety we have long associated with Thanksgiving Day is wrong. It does mean that each of us, in our individual way, should devote some period of the day to offering up thanks to the Almighty in grateful appreciation for sparing our lives and letting us enjoy the greatest freedoms and other rich blessings that any people have ever experienced.

But, as President Eisenhower cautions, let us not forget the less fortunate peoples of other lands on this great American holiday.

"I urge my fellow Americans," he said in a proclamation, "to support and assist the efforts which we as a nation, working individually and in cooperation with other nations, are directing toward the solution of the world food problem . . .

"Let us hope that some day, under a benevolent providence and through the best use of the world's God-given resources, each nation will have reason to celebrate its own Thanksgiving Day."

Governor Lawrence has also called upon us to share our abundance with the less fortunate people of the earth.

Significantly, he points out that the "celebration was initiated by the Pilgrim Fathers as a fitting and appropriate demonstration of our belief in the power and magnanimity of God and our gratitude for the growth of our nation and the natural abundance we enjoy."

Let us not forget this spirit of thanksgiving tomorrow as we observe the holiday with our family reunions, feasting and relaxation through sports and other events.

Chickens Come Home To Roost

President Eisenhower's order to curb U.S. spending abroad is less important for what it does than for what it says.

For what it says—painfully, reluctantly and shamefuly—is that a generation's reckless fiscal policies have at last presented their harsh bill.

The United States is now reduced to the little strategems of an improvident householder trying to stave off the bill collector. The American dollar, once our pride and our strength, must now be propped up, even at the cost of begging from the very nations we made rich.

Thus, the order to bring home the wives and children of servicemen overseas; we can no longer afford to keep them. Henceforth the military stores must "Buy American;" and so must our foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, which was founded, ironically, to pour American dollars abroad.

Missions overseas must be curtailed. And finally we must plead with Britain, Japan, West Germany and others not only to buy American themselves but to come to our rescue with foreign aid programs of their own.

The dollar remains a major currency of the world and its value, though shaken, still holds. There is a crisis only in the sense that we have come to a turning point, a decisive moment in which the illness can go one way or the other.

But make no mistake about that. No government would make the kind of statement about its currency that was made by the President unless it was compelled to do so by the force of events; Mr. Eisenhower himself said that it had been carefully considered for weeks. The U.S. dollar hangs in the balance between the preservation of its value and its devaluation.

And make no mistake in thinking that the small steps taken will alone preserve the balance; at the most they will "save" a billion dollars, and that only in time.

The ailment is rooted in basic fiscal policies of many years' duration and it can be cured only by basic fiscal policies, and that means the policies of the incoming Administration. We are going to have to cut deeply into all our spending, foreign and domestic.

The lesson of all this is an ancient one—no nation, however rich, can go on forever, abusing its financial resources with profligacy. When it does, no man can name the day but any man can be certain that one day the chickens will come home to roost.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Scared Canadians

Many nationalistic Canadians suffer from an inferiority complex which causes them to say and do unrealistic silly things. should war occur again, it will be necessary for the United States to defend Canada from conquest.

A nation with a total population no greater than that of New York State and with an industrial establishment no greater than that of Czechoslovakia cannot hope to defend itself in a modern war. Nor can it remain neutral because it is the easiest access to the United States and therefore an enemy of the United States would wisely seek to knock out Canada first.

The first battles in an attack upon the United States by Soviet Russia or Red China or both are likely to be over Canada. The logistics of war require that both countries act as one and geography has so made it that Canada has no alternative.

Some jittery Canadians, recognizing the peril of such a situation, believe that they can solve this problem by becoming either neutral or anti-American. Were Americans to withdraw their investments from Canada, because of Canadian opposition to the United States, it could be a sorry day for both countries.

What elicits these remarks is an article by Hugh MacLennan in the Toronto "Star Weekly," which, I should say, is as unfriendly an utterance against this country as I have yet seen anywhere. Addressing the President of the United States, MacLennan says:

"It may not surprise you, Mr. President, but it will certainly surprise most of your countrymen, to be told that at the moment the United States is considered a greater threat to world peace than Russia. Such a statement, I suppose, would make me suspected of communism in many quarters. Yet it is a plain fact. Ask almost any foreigner."

This is not taken out of context. It is a bold statement, literally untrue but believed apparently by its author, who says further:

"It is impossible for the rest of mankind to accept a policy which says, in effect, that the whole human past and future must perish merely because two giant countries with big bombs refused to speak to each other save in terms of violent abuse.

"When the giant who is our friend (we admit he has been sorely provoked) says in effect: 'We will blow up ourselves and everyone near us rather than permit Russia to become the most powerful nation in the world,' we weak outsiders tremble."

Does MacLennan prefer that we say that as an extension of the Marxist-Leninist theory of world conquest, the United States capitulate to Soviet Russia and become a satellite like Poland or East Germany?

For that clearly is what every ruler of Communist Russia, Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev, has held to be necessary. I think that McLennan does mean that because he believes that in the next war, all would be wiped out.

He holds that he, quoting Lester Pearson, would "choose to live under Russia and then try to work to improve the situation."

This is precisely where we must differ. From the general character of Mac Lennan's article, it is possible to recognize that he is not familiar with the of world conquest.

The literature on the subject is voluminous and one needs only to study the subject. But the Canadian assumes that during the past 10 years, the Russian purpose has been modified, all evidence to the contrary notwithstanding. He says:

". . . the Moscow conspiracy is already beginning to founder on the familiar rocks of nationalism. Tito broke with Moscow years ago. China, which many Americans seem to regard as a mere extensive of Soviet power, is already beginning to snarl at Russia . . ."

Unfortunately the record shows that Yugoslavia votes regularly with Soviet Russia in the United Nations. From this practical manifestation of Marxist unity, it is obvious that whereas there are differences between Khrushchev and Tito, Marxist unity is not diluted.

As for the ideological quarrel between Khrushchev and Mao Tze-tung over the question as to whether war is essential to the universal success of Marxism the record establishes that this is an inner schism between fundamentalist Marxists and revisionist Marxists but that it does not affect either country's relations to non-Marxist countries.

It is unfortunate that the Canadian people are not better informed about the current situation than this article would indicate.

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

WHILE WE are in the throes of a joyous Thanksgiving Day celebration, it would be a good thing to stop and think what kind of emergency housing would be set up in case of a national disaster.

Plans are underway for a session which will deal with housing as an essential national resource and will include provision for repair and alteration of existing structures, procurement of mobile-type housing, and the erection of new buildings under emergency programs.

Emphasis at the conference which will be held in Baltimore will be on housing as a resource and not on emergency lodging problems.

Resource, as described by Webster's Dictionary, means "A new or reserve source of supply or support; possibility of relief or recovery; or to which one turns in absence of usual means or source of supply."

What it means in simplier words — Let's get ready and be able to meet the situation.

Probably no one has thought of the possible flood of travelers into the Poconos if New York City or Philadelphia happened to be a target of the enemy. It's only a stone's throw from these two metropolitan areas and our vast mountainside offers a better outlook for those who are forced to suffer the troubles of the enemy's barrage.

The Maryland conclave will bring together expert housing minds of Federal, State and Local government agencies. It will be a sincere, thought provoking meeting of officials, including Pennsylvania moguls. You can bet survival will be uppermost in their thoughts.

Despite our so-called resort area tag, the Poconos will be in for a great amount of conservation in the emergency housing program.

After all, what better facilities could be offered to distressed cities and areas.

The Allen-Scott Report

Senate Rule Reform

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President-elect John Kennedy is being asked to throw his full weight behind a bipartisan drive for sweeping changes in the Senate rules and procedures.

A determined group of liberal Democratic and Republican senators, now secretly mapping strategy for the January battle, have agreed informally to seek Senator Kennedy's backing for:

Passage of a committee "bill of rights" designed to restrict the tremendous power that committee chairmen now wield over legislation;

The bipartisan group, that includes Democratic Senators Paul Douglas, Ill., Joseph Clark, Pa., Philip Hart, Mich., and Republican Senators Jacob Javits, N. Y., and Clifford Case, N. J., will meet next month with President-elect Kennedy to warn him that the success of much of his legislative program will depend on whether their proposed rule changes are enacted at the outset of the new Congress.

The Senators will tell Kennedy that their survey shows that without his help they can muster only 36 votes, or 15 less than is needed to pass their sweeping rules changes.

However, if the proposals are supported by him, they can gain the backing of a majority of 28 "undecided" senators who hold the votes needed for passage. Their survey shows that in addition to the "undecided" senators there are 36 members who are opposed to any rule changes and their opposition cannot be altered regardless of what Kennedy does.

Russian Roulette — Already, the bipartisan group has begun circulating their proposed rule changes to the "undecided" senators with a strong appeal for support that reads as follows:

"When the 87th Congress convenes, we will be faced immediately with the problem of what changes should be made in the Rules of the Senate.

"The great difficulty which we had in passing needed legislation in the 86th Congress clearly points up the archaic and undemocratic rules and procedures under which we attempt to legislate.

"There is no other legislative body in the free world as incapable of action, when action is desired by a large majority but strongly resisted by a minority, as the Senate of the United States.

"We will be playing Russian Roulette with our national survival if we do not set our house in order before the next President presents his State of the Union Message?

"Clearly it would be most helpful if substantial bipartisan support were available for many, if not all, of these proposed changes. In any event, we would be happy to receive any comments on these proposals which you might care to make."

Bill of Rights — The bipartisan group's proposed committee "bill of rights" calls for new Senate rules that authorize a majority of each committee to (1) convene meetings; (2) set agendas, and (3) limit debate. In nearly all instances, these powers now belong to the committee chairman.

The plan also provides that a committee may meet during Senate sessions if a majority of its members approve.

Other major changes being proposed by the senators include:

Limitation of individual speeches of senators to three hours except those approved by unanimous consent;

Prohibition of speeches that are not germane to the legislation or subject being considered by the Senate;

The senators are advocating that the fight to outlaw the filibuster be made on the day the 87th Congress convenes. They propose that Senate Rule 22 be amended to provide that a majority of the senators can vote to limit debate after 15 hours. At present, a two-thirds vote of senators present and voting is required.

Unusual trends — Running counter to the usual Washington trend, the workload of one regulatory agency — the Federal Power Commission — may soon begin to shrink noticeably. By deciding that natural gas, when sold by independent producers, is a commodity and not a utility, the FPC erected a new price-setting mechanism that will make its job vastly easier. Producers price will now be figured on an area basis, rather than on a company-to-company basis. Stacks of pending rate filings by independent producers —running at 3,300 or nine-tenths of all pending rate cases—are now due for fast handling and settlement.

The Internal Revenue Service has eased regulations regarding extension of time for filing returns. If you have a really good reason, the odds are better than 50-50 that you can obtain an extension.

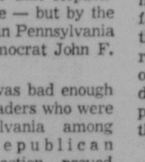
Inside You And Yours

Dear Doctor

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Dear Doctor: What's the difference between a symptom and a disease?

Mrs. T. R.



Dear Mrs. T. R.: Fever is a symptom. It may stem from an infected kidney, pneumonia or just a plain cold.

Drugs can cure the infection and pneumonia. They only relieve cold symptoms — until it goes away.

Some symptoms shouldn't be controlled. Without a cough, every cold would turn into pneumonia.

Dear Doctor: What is chemical balance in the human body?

Mrs. H. W.

Dear Mrs. W,: The body is a chemical bank. When input equals outgo your balance doesn't change. A positive balance means a growing reserve. A sinking balance is called "negative."

In the red or in the blue, you can still be in the pink—until your balance grows too high or too low.

Examination Needed

Dear Doctor: My husband has been coughing up blue phlegm for years. Should he have a chest Xray?

MRS. E. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Yes, if you want to find out what's wrong, a complete medical examination, too!

Patches Around Eye

Dear Doctor: Yellowish blister-like patches are developing around my eye. What can I do to make them disappear?

Mrs. A. S.

Too Much Fat?

You may have so much fat in the bloodstream that some has to settle out. The eyelids are a favorite spot for new settlers. Perhaps you eat too many fats, or perhaps you inherited the tendency to have lots of fat in the bloodstream.

Try eating less fat. Ask your doctor about removing these yellowish patches with "trichloracetic acid." He may even suggest surgery.

The Pennsylvania Story

GOP Problem

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg—Thanksgiving Day 1960 — and indications are that a critical shakeup may well be brewing within the Republican organization in Pennsylvania.

For Keystone State Republicans who have little to be thankful for at the moment, the rumble is a blowoff from the awkward and somewhat disastrous defeat suffered in the presidential runoff earlier in the month.

What has sent blood pressures boiling within top party circles here in the State Capital is not so much the fact that Republicans lost the state — but by the 130,000-vote margin Pennsylvania turned in for Democrat John F. Kennedy.

The loss itself was bad enough to top party leaders who were counting Pennsylvania among the so-called "Republican states." The election proved conclusively otherwise.

It also demonstrated to chieftains at long last the fact that something is wrong in their internal makeup — a fact recognized by most observers here for some time!

It is generally conceded now that Republicans were in effect, engulfed by their own wave of over-zealous "hopeful" optimism.

Effectively rubbed off by the Nov. 8 showdown, Republican leaders now are gearing for the 1962 gubernatorial race — which is bringing to a head the rumbles of the past several months.

To win two years hence they know they have no choice other than to produce a candidate distinctly other than run-of-the-mill. The trend, regardless of the degree in which viewed, was fairly well scrawled two weeks ago — and not in the Republican direction!

Most Republican leaders now are willing to concede this point. Others will not. Therein lies the conflict — and the base for the shakeup that appears to be in the offing.

One school of thought [illegible] the Kennedy sweep of the Keystone State was an almost [illegible] itable "personality fluke" — one which has little chance of recurring for quite some time to come.

The other contends the size of the sweep and the down the line loss of state and local offices is an outright warning and indication of where the Republican Party in Pennsylvania is heading.

Republican State Chairman George Bloom seemingly struck the nail fairly well on the proverbial head the other day—and in so doing underscored the "anxious blow up point" GOPsters have reached — when he commented:

"We are in a struggle to regain power in an age when the weight of the voting population is shifting predominately to the big, sprawling cities. We cannot match our opposition, and meet the real problems of these cities, if we refuse to alter our concepts of political organizations which we inherited from the era when the Court House was supreme."

Mr. Bloom — inadvertently perhaps — seemingly brought out that which too many GOPsters over recent years simply have refused to recognize: the fact that times have changed but the party has not; a fact long recognized by their counterparts on the Democratic side who today are in the saddle while Republicans are still trying to get their foot in the stirrup!

The big city vote of Philadelphia unquestionably has gone to pot — for Pennsylvania Republicans, that is — as the Nov. 8 vote should clearly indicate even to the ancient hard-headed GOP ninincompoops in the big city who still insist "it isn't so!"

Thanksgiving Day 1960 most certainly is not very thanksgiving insofar as Keystone State Republicans are concerned — and at their rate of fumbling at the moment, it may not be in 1961!

Dear Bob:

I've thought of a way to make the "punishment fit the crime" in the case of your coy correspondent, who characterized Stroudsburg's thin Maroon line as "gutless twerps."

If you can ferret out the hiding place of this spineless scrivener, just fit him out with a uniform on Thanksgiving Day and let him expose his tender hide to the ministrations of Messrs. Stann, Patella, Houck, Metzgar, et al.

Seriously, Bob, a guy who expresses such rot obviously never played the game, let alone suffered through the endless torment of a losing season.

It takes a special kind of guts to show up Saturday after Saturday to take an appalling beating, hoping only to salvage enough of a squad to show up for the next game.

I think every one of those kids who toughed out the season should have a special medal struck for him, along with all the honors usually bestowed on an all-winning team, and, though an ardent Cavalier rooter, I hope they play 'way over their heads on Thursday and give Jack Kist's boys a whale of a battle.

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

A new United Nations commemorative stamp honoring the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development will be issued on Dec. 9 by the UN Postal Administration.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (often called the World Bank) was founded at the Economic Conference held at Bretton Woods in July 1944 and began operations in June 1946. Its aim is to assist the economic development of its member countries and so raise the standards of living of the peoples of the world.

The bank may lend to member governments, governmental agencies or private enterprises; if the borrower is not a government, the guarantee of the member government concerned is required for the loan.

The bank's membership consists of the governments of 68 counties, which are the Bank's stockholders, each subscribing to its capital stock in accordance with their economic strength.

The bank makes loans out of its own resources in cases where private capital is not available on reasonable terms. The bank's first loans, made in 1947, were for European postwar reconstruction — a total of $500 million was lent by the bank for this purpose.

In 1948, the bank turned to lending for development, an increasing proportion of its funds being directed to the less-developed areas of the world. By June 1960, the bank had made 257 loans totalling over $5 billion to finance more than 600 projects in 52 countries or territories.

The bank's loans are mainly directed to helping its member countries to build the foundations of economic growth. Approximately one-third of the bank's development lending has been for electric power and has helped to finance the addition of over 11 million kilowatts to the world's generating capacity.

Another third has been for transport improvement — railways, highways, air and waterways. The remaining third of the bank's loans has been for steel production; and for general development purposes.

The stamps to be issued honoring the International Bank will be printed in sheets of 50 in both the 4c and 8c denominations by the Government Printing Bureau, Tokyo, Japan, in quantities of 3,000,000 and 2,750,000 respectively.

Bridge Opening Depends On Tests

A WAITING PERIOD in which time testings will be made, is all that remains prior to the opening of the new Broad St. bridge, Stroudsburg.

The bridge is being constructed by J. H. Beers, Inc., of Bangor. It traverses the new Stroudsburg By-pass presently under construction.

Waiting Period

A spokesman at the work site said that after concrete is poured, a waiting period is necessary to determine the strength of the concrete.

It usually is several weeks time before any definite decision can be made regarding whether the bridge can be opened or not.

Westbrooks Speak At E-burg High

Peter Westbrook spoke to John Eckert's 11th grade English Class at East Stroudsburg High School yesterday morning, sharing with them some of his experiences in Italy this summer. Since many of the boys in the class will be entering the Armed Services after graduation, he spoke primarily of the advantages of Italy as a place for foreign service.

Among them he listed a perfect climate, good food, pro-American people, and the fact that American money goes a long way in Italy. Train travel is cheap and good, bus travel is cheap but crowded, plane travel is fast and inexpensive.

He described some of his own adventures on a motor scooter and some of the sports events—notably the sports car races at Modena.

"Italy has some of the world's best drivers," he said, adding that they have to be to stay alive with Italian traffic the way it's run.

Mrs. Horace Westbrook, his mother, also spoke, outlining some of the historical background of places within easy reaching distance of the American naval base at Naples and the army base at Livorno.

ESSC Junior Will Attend Mfg. Congress

HAROLD Palastas, a junior at East Stroudsburg State College, will attend the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Assn. Congress as guest of the Monroe County Mfg. Assn.

A resident of Moscow, Pa., he is a graduate of North Pocono Joint School District.

In New York

The PMA Congress will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, December 7, 8 and 9. Attendance, made up of the nation's leading industrialists, usually exceeds 3,000.

Pennsylvania will be represented at the 66th annual congress by a delegation of four educators and six students. The group will attend as guests of PMA and six of its affiliated local associations.

Educators in the delegation will be Ossian MacKenzie, of Penn State Univ.; Dr. Albert L. Bell, of Franklin and Marshall College; Bertha P. Boyd, president of Pennsylvania State Education Assn.; and William B. Herbein, superintendent of schools, Berks County.

CAB Seen Faulty, Scanty

WASHINGTON (AP)—A firm of outside consultants said Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board fritters away too much of its time and resources.

Reporting on a six-month study ordered by the Budget Bureau, McKinsey & Co. Inc. of Washington said it found that the agency's organization was faulty and its planning was scanty. It said the board should have seven instead of five members and badly needs a top level policy and planning staff.

The five CAB commissioners and the 750 staff workers regulate and promote the airline industry.

"Denial of Justice"

McKinsey said the board takes so long to decide air fare and route cases that there has been "denial of justice in some cases and economic losses in others."

Also, it said the board should be more aggressive in developing research programs directed toward the prevention of future air tragedies. It said work in this direction is hampered by the amount of manpower required to investigate past accidents.

On this point, the consultant group said 80 per cent more manpower is needed to investigate an accident involving a turbo-prop or jet plane than is the case with piston-driven aircraft.

Report Submitted

The report was submitted to the Budget Bureau and the CAB, which will decide what action may be necessary. The cost of the study hasn't been determined but is not to exceed $53,200.

Noting the heavy backlog of unfinished business facing the board, McKinsey said the CAB has failed to make full use of its staff. The report said board members spend less than 1 per cent of their time in giving administrative direction to the staff.

Water Co. Installs 10-Inch Main

INSTALLATION of a 10-inch water main to south Stroudsburg via Broad St., bridge and under the new Thruway route has been completed by the Stroudsburg Water Co. The 10-inch line replaces an 8-inch main now serving the area.

William A. Curnow, manager of the company, reported yesterday that the 10-inch main is the first of two lines eventually feeding the Stroudsburg southern sector.

He reported that the 8-inch line will be discontinued temporarily while work on the Seventh St. Bridge is completed by the Thruway constructors. The new line will be used while old one is discontinued.

To Be Reinstalled

When all the work is completed on the Thruway in the area, the 8-inch line will be reinstalled to join the 10-inch main in supplying the residents.

Curnow also reported that the water company has installed more than 17,000 feet of new mains in the area during the past year.

Water through the new main will be turned on sometime next week, Curnow reported.

Urges Building Up Sub Fund

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A candidate for president of the United Steelworkers suggested Tuesday that a wage hike due steelworkers on Dec. 1 be used to bolster the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits (SUB) fund.

Donald C. Rarick said part of the wage hike could be used to build up the SUB fund so that payments to unemployed steelworkers can be restored to normal.

Rarick suggested the USW's International Executive Board hold an emergency meeting to study the possibility of reopening negotiations with steel companies to reallocate money earmarked for the wage hike.

He said that the money could be diverted to the SUB fund only so long as large numbers of steelworkers are laid off.

Steel Spills, Blocks 4 Lanes

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A truckload of steel spilled onto the highway blocked all four lanes of the Pennsylvania Turnpike for an hour early Tuesday. The tractor-trailer upset three miles east of the Norristown Interchange.

The tractor-trailer scraped a bridge abutment, swerved across the eastbound lanes and overturned on the medial strip. The back wheels came off, and another tractor-trailer ran into them, increasing the confusion.

Clarence Klinger, 29, of Sacramento, Schuylkill County, Pa., whose rig carried the steel, was treated for minor injuries in Montgomery Hospital. The other driver, Nelson Heims, 49, of New Freedom, York County, was not hurt.

It was found lying beside King St. by Connie Fox last Wednesday or Thursday. She didn't get around to turning it over to police until yesterday, however.

One police spokesman said that the instrument, used in surveying, appears to be valuable. It apparently fell from a truck, the spokesman added.

Anyone who has lost such an instrument may claim it by making proper identification at East Stroudsburg police headquarters in the Municipal Building. Inquiries may be made by calling HAmilton 1-5500.

Colonial Home Displays Outstanding Features

THROUGH the years the Colonial home has retained its popularity not only for its pleasing architectural lines, but also for its spacious living qualities. For example, this week's selection is a home with many exceptional features.

Social center is a tremendous "L" comprising the Family Room, living-dining room and study behind the fireplace which features an open hearth in two rooms. When entertaining you have a king size social area, however, separation may be achieved if desired through the use of a folding wall, behind the three foot stub wall planter. This would shut off the study for use as a bedroom. Guest room on the first floor is near lavatory.

The kitchen has a built-in oven and range next to the door leading to basement stairs. Cupboards, sink and broom closet form a right angle at opposite wall.

The family room has an open shelf china built-in with access to the garage. As you can see, traffic circulation in this home eliminates unnecessary steps.

The second story sleeping area is well-appointed. Bedrooms are spacious, windows placed to provide cross-ventilation and closets with sliding doors meet all your storage requirements. Front bath serves both front bedrooms — sliding doors are used throughout for added convenience. The other full bath has excellent location at the end of the hall.

Such extras as cedar closet, walk-in closet in master bedroom, a double linen closet between the two rear bedrooms and a smaller linen closet near bath and a handy clothes chute near cedar closet are just a few of the reasons for the increasing popularity of the two - story home. The more you study this plan the more you discover the convenient living facilities and dollar value in this plan.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan contains 1,089 square feet, 29,601 cubic feet, and 513 square feet for the garage. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square or cubic foot in your area.

"Complete Building Plan, including Detail Sheet, Material List and Specification Guide for Design No. H-466 may be purchased for $9.75 for first set; two for $18.25; three for $26.25; or four for $33.75. Ideal Christmas Mural For Your Picture Window

THIS CHRISTMAS Mural measuring four feet high by six feet long is a paint it yourself project. By tracing the full size painting guide on Homasote or other waterproof panelboard, anyone can make this colorful Christmas scene for less than $5. Since the pattern is full size and shows exactly where and when each color is used "everyone makes like a pro."

It makes an ideal mural for placement behind a picture window, on the outside of the house or it can be placed on the lawn. One of the nice things about Christmas is the gay spirit that seems to touch everyone who believes in Christmas. Making this Christmas decoration can provide many, many hours of complete relaxation.

Another interesting way of making this Christmas Mural is by painting the actual pattern with the colors the pattern specifies. The pattern can then be fastened to a light frame; step-by-step directions explain how to build it.

The entire mural is then sprayed with three in one oil which not only makes it translucent but also waterproof. This frame can then be placed in your picture window and by placing a bright light behind it, the illumination gives the effect of a stained glass window.

Send $1 in check or money order for Christmas Mural Pattern No. 942A to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send additional 35 cents for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other Build-It-Yourself projects.

Use It Anywhere

LUMBER and lumber paneling are excellent "mixers," as many home-owners know. They combine beautifully with stone and brick, and they lend warmth and softness of tone.

Furthermore, lumber works well in formal or informal settings, and it does much to set off the color and texture of other furnishings.

New Idea Reduces Cost Of A Gutter

THE ruggedness of asphalt roll roofing, the same material used to make asphalt shingles, has led a prominent East Coast architect to design a unique, low-cost gutter for new homes.

As the drawing shoes, 90-pound asphalt roll roofing is used to line a gutter that is constructed on the job with strips of lumber.

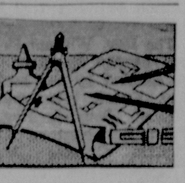
The asphalt roll roofing, like asphalt shingles, is impervious to water, as well as to the wearing effects of ice and snow.

The architect, Stanley Shaftel, of Jamaica, N.Y., says the gutter lining will last for years, eliminates costly and tedious painting, and can save considerably on the overall cost of a house.

11 Kinds Of Wood

THE 11 KINDS of wood from the western pine region are particularly adaptable in building since they offer a considerable variety in their own natural characteristics — their color, grain, and knot formations. They also respond beautifully to any type of finishing treatment.

ON THE HOUSE



BUYING A POWER tool for someone for Christmas?

Please . . . please don't make it a secret—unless you're very certain you know exactly what the recipient wants or, at least, the kind of work for which the machine will be used.

Many power tools will perform a number of workshop operations. Generally, however, each tool is basically suited for a particular type of work. The following will give you some idea of the uses of many of the most popular electric tools:

Portable drill — Anybody can use it. Once primarily used for drilling holes quickly and easily, it now also will sand, buff, polish, hone, bore, saw and do dozens of other things with the aid of accessories and attachments.

Table saw—For heavy duty straight sawing. Often called the workhorse of the shop.

Drill press — Basically for drilling holes, but can be used for cutting mortises, grooves and tenons, shaping and other operations.

Wood Lathe — For making "turnings;" that is, the shaping of table legs, bowls, etc.

Bandsaw — Also a curve cutter, but handles heavier work than the jigsaw.

Portable jigsaw — Like the portable drill, it can be held in one hand while working. Blade has an up-and-down movement. Especially useful for cutting curves where the work could not be brought to a regular jigsaw.

While most of the above machines also will do sanding of a limited nature, anyone who will be sanding much wood preparatory to finishing it will treasure one of the many types of electric hand sanders on the market.

And, finally, if the budget will stand it, consider the possibility of buying a complete power workshop. This type of unit comprises five or six of the basic power tools mentioned above.

Does Two Jobs

MAGNETIC door seals on new electric refrigerator-freezers serve a double purpose; they provide a tight seal that keeps cold air in and warm air out, and they add a safety factor, opening easily from the inside as well as from the outside.

Insulate Against Cold Floors

COLD FLOORS in a home built over a crawl space usually mean insufficient insulation in the floors.

The same is true when owners of split-level houses are troubled with cold floors in the sleeping area over an unheated garage.

Fortunately, this construction flaw can be remedied quickly and easily by the home owner himself, using mineral wool batts or blankets and a few rolls of hardware cloth or chicken wire. Here's how insulation engineers say the job should be done:

Start in one corner of the crawl space or garage, securing the end of a roll of chicken wire or hardware cloth to the sill. Wedge a section of insulation tightly between the joists with the vapor barrier up and the lower side on a level with the bottom edge of the joists.

Continuing along the joists, fitting the insulation in place and stapling the wire to the lower edge of the joists so that it supports the batt or blanket. Keep this up until the opposite sill is reached, then continue the job in the other direction.

It's important to make sure there are no gaps between sections of insulation, and that it fits snugly between the joists.

Time can be saved if chicken wire or hardware cloth is purchased in 48-inch rolls. This width permits the wire to cover three joist spaces.

After the insulation is in place, cover the bare ground in a crawl space with 55-pound asphalt roll roofing lapped at least three inches between sections and at the edges of the foundation. The asphalt keeps moisture from rising out of the ground into the crawl space.

The Green Thumb

Mulching Baffling, Least Understood

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

WINTER MULCHING — Few things are more baffling and least understood than the practice known as mulching. A mulch is nothing but of some material, such as sawdust, peat, straw, evergreen boughs, etc., applied at the base of a plant mainly for the purpose of keeping the soil frozen (rather than keeping it warm) and in this way protect plants from suffering from alternate freezing and thawing, the real killer of most plants.

Some mulches are added to protect plants from deep freezing, as well as heaving (which results from alternate freezing and thawing of soil). Heaving is worse in heavy, clay soils. Young plants or newly set plants tend to heave or raise out of the groud much worse than older ones or mature plants. A mulch cover keeps the soil frozen and prevents the alternate freezing and thawing which lifts the plants out.

It's better for most plants to freeze up solid if cells are wet than when dry, and a mulch helps accomplish this by conserving soil moisture in the fall.

Not All

Not all plants should be mulched. Chrysanthemums, delphiniums, iris and dozens of others will die out when covered with a mulch, mainly because a mulch packs around the base and smothers the plants. Such plants need no mulching. In fact, most perennials will die from suffocation and need no mulch cover. It's useless to mulch hardy bulbs such as tulips, daffodils, etc.., if planted at their proper depth.

Most established shrubs are hardy enough to go without a winter mulch, although a 3 inch mulch will help newly planted shrubs merely by conserving soil moisture, and by keeping the soil frozen solid which in turn prevents heaving out of the soil.

If I haven't made myself clear as to what "heaving" is, let me explain. As the term implies, it means plants are actually raised or thrown out of the soil, exposing roots to coldness and dryness, and killing many of the plants. Since heaving is caused by alternate freezing and thawing, a fall mulch prevents this.

Strawberries Need

Strawberries are one of the few fruits which need a mulch to protect the buds. Roses, mulched with soil are often saved from freezing and thawing injury. Lawns and hedges need no mulch.

A summer mulch is used to conserve moisture and keep weeds out. If you can work the mulch into the soil in fall this helps prevent winter injury from heaving, since a soil containing a high amount of humus will leave less than those with a low humus content.

There is some disagreement as to best time to apply a fall mulch, but generally from Mid-November to 1st of December is about the most advantageous time. Some apply it before the ground is frozen, some after.

Question Box

Question Of The Week— D. F. of Bangor: "I heard you can actually plant sweet peas in the fall and get better flowers than when you plant in the spring. Is that true?"

More and more gardeners are resorting to fall planting of sweet peas, mainly because they can get seed in the ground quicker. The seed can be sown now and it will remain dormant until spring when the ground warms up and starts germination.

The secret of getting good blooms is to plant early because sweet peas demand a cool soil and a cool atmosphere for best growth. They are not a hot weather crop. Dig a trench about 10 inches deep, mix peatmoss with the soil and mix well. Also use about a half pound of lime if the soil is slightly acid, or no lime has been used in past 2 or 3 years. Open a small trench with a rake handle and sow the seed about 2 inches apart, covering with fine soil.

over With Boughs

After the soil freezes you can cover with evergreen boughs and leave it on until spring. Support your vines early, when about 4 inches high because if they topple over, they seldom seem to grow as well as when supported early. Chicken wire or twiggy branches stuck in both sides of the row make good supports, and these can be erected now, when gardening chores are few.

Never use barnyard manure for sweet peas because manure supplies disease spores which attack the peas. For my money, peatmoss and compost are safer to use when growing sweet peas.

S. J. of Stroudsburg: "I own a Schefflera plant but do not know what care it needs. It has little specks on the foliage. What will kill these pests.?"

The Schefflera or Australian Umbrella tree makes a nice little novelty for dish gardens, which it soon outgrows. This item likes a soil of 1/3 sand, 1/3 peat and 1/3 loam. It does well in fairly dark rooms (I've seen giant specimens in dark lobbies).

Biggest complaint is dropping or yellowing of leaves. This is due to overwatering. For best results, grow Scheffleras on the dry side, and in a warm room, 70 or more.

Probably Aphids

The tiny pests you have are probably aphids which can be controlled readily by spraying with malathion or by using any of the aerosol sprayers. As with all foliage plants, the leaves should be sponged regularly to keep the dust off. A half and half mixture of milk and water makes a good material for sponging the foliage. You can use one of the prepared "shines" which give a glossy effect. Never use lard or olive oil as these collect dust.

Orders Retake Of Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos. (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma said yesterday he has issued orders for the recapture of Luang Prabang, the royal capital held by forces loyal to Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, rightist rebel.

The neutralist premier declined to say when an attack might be launched on Luang Prabang, 130 miles north of this administrative capital. But reports circulated that both sides were massing their forces and a showdown may come this week.

Bears Are Still Around Pike, Protector Notes

PIKE COUNTY has been high on the Pennsylvania bear kill list for years. These happenings, reported by Game Protector Daniel McPeek, indicate there still were bears in the eastern county.

Said McPeek:

"Early on the morning of October 6, a black bear wandered into the center of the town of Milford. After upsetting garbage cans, making dogs bark and generally causing a commotion, bruin took refuge in a large tree one block from the main street, which is also busy highways 6 and 209. People came from miles around to see the bear which eventually settled down and draped itself over a limb of the tree. Local police, Deputy Game Protectors and I kept the audience at a safe distance to prevent people from molesting the animal. At 9:30 p.m., after the people had left, the bear came down and streaked eastward, out of town.

"Toll collectors on the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge between Milford and New Jersey enjoyed a treat early one morning. A large bear crossed into New Jersey at a time when there was no traffic on the bridge. (No attempt was made to collect toll.)

"A large mother bear and three cubs attempted to cross Route 209 near Dingmans Ferry on October 22. One of the cubs didn't make it.

"On October 30, a motorist driving the same highway near Milford, suddenly found six bears in his path. The car struck and killed two of the cubs, then swerved up the side of the mountain and upset. Fortunately, no one in the car was hurt."

Ike Will End '27th' Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)— President Eisenhower ended his 27th—and perhaps last—official Georgia vacation yesterday with a quail hunt.

The President got in a final round of golf in sunny 70 degrees weather Monday after arranging to fly to Albany, 250 miles southwest of Augusta, to test his skill with a shotgun.

The White House announced the President would fly direct to Washington Wednesday afternoon from Albany, ending a rest which began the day after the election.

Just Between Us — —

We're glib enough about our blessings: health, strength, work, enough to eat with some left over for guests; friends, some leisure, and a capacity to enjoy it. Sometimes, when we are reminded by Thanksgiving, we even get down to counting the small blessings that add up to happiness:

The extra fifteen minutes for drowsing when the morning sun wakes you before the alarm goes off; the pre-breakfast stirrings of a family home for the holidays breaking the lonely quiet; the sting of tears that always comes when the massed borough bands play "We Gather Together," at the football game;

The fact that there's nothing so serious on our minds that we can't get all wrought up about the results of the game; the fragrant warmth of a house where turkey is cooking; the delighted discovery of unexpected talents in members of the family you thought you knew by heart; and the blessings of a good digestion.

Oh we can count our blessings all right but most of us stop right there. Gratitude is a burden not easily borne. There is something of willful pride that makes us unhappy to be always on the receiving end.

One of the infuriating things about people is that the man who owes a big bill at one store will take his cash business to another store; a woman will tend to avoid the neighbor who has done her many small kindnesses which have never been repaid.

Even blessings can fester in a heart too small to acknowledge the debt and to try, however feebly, to repay some small fraction of what we have never merited.

Miss Mabel Francisco Is Bride Of John C. Eckley

Saylorsburg — Miss Mabel Louise Francisco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Francisco of 47 West Third St., Wind Gap became the bride of John Claude Eckley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eckley of Saylorsburg on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Harold L. Ulmer officiated at the wedding held in St. Peter's Ev. United Brethren Church, Saylorsburg.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Donald Francisco. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta, made with a sabrina neckline embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with tiers of scalloped lace, and flowed into a lace-trimmed chapel train. She carried a Bible with a white orchid.

Mrs. Doris Altemose of Nazareth RD 3 was matron of honor, and Miss Kay Huffsmith of Nazareth RD 3 and Miss Wenda Schankel of Bangor were bridesmaids. The bride's sister, Miss Carol Ann Francisco, was junior bridesmaid.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore gowns of orchid nylon over taffeta with matching headpieces and carried orchid and white pompons.

The junior bridesmaid wore a dress of canary yellow nylon and taffeta with a matching headpiece and carried yellow and white pompons.

James Eckley Jr., Saylorsburg was his brother's best man. Russel Kresge and Robert Seip, also of Saylorsburg, served as ushers. Scott Hagerman, Snydersville was ring bearer.

Music was provided by Mrs. Ford Warner, organist, and Miss Tanya Jean Alfred, soloist.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Eckley will reside in Saylorsburg.

The bride was graduated from Pen Argyl High School and is employed in the proofreading department of the Mack Printing Co., Easton.

Mr. Eckley, an alumnus of Stroudsburg High School, works with his father doing painting and paperhanging.

Part-Time Work Solved One Mother's Problem

By Anne Heywood

If you're not appreciated don't just sulk and complain about it —do something about it.

I've believed this for a long time, but the other day I encountered a wonderful example of it. It involves a mother and daughter who live in a three-room apartment in a big city.

Mom Stayed Home

The daughter has a pretty good job, and the other always stayed home and cleaned, did the laundry, marketing and cooking.

"But," the mother told me, "as far as Edith and the rest of the world were concerned, Edith worked and I didn't! People seem to think that housework just does itself!

"I was so hurt and resentful that one day I decided something had to be done.

Received Invitation

"Just about that same week, I got a letter from an old friend, a widow with no children, who lives in another big city about 250 miles away. She wanted to know if I would like to come and visit her for a month. She said she'd love to see me and we could have such fun.

"'You'll have some privacy, too,' she added, 'because I work three days a week.'

She Went

"Well, that floored me, because Madeline had no more business training than I. But I decided to go—even though my daughter looked sort of flabbergasted.

"When I got there, Madeline told me about her job. She does cleaning but, believe me, this is no ordinary cleaning woman! She gets $10 a day, and she will only take working couples, and she is treated with as much respect and affection as any professional worker.

"She told me she was sick of sitting around with just barely enough money, so she put an ad in her local paper. It said, 'Cleaning by the day—fast, thorough, careful and scrupulously honest. Only working couples need reply.'

"She got loads of replies and took the three nicest.

Money And Fun

"It gives her money and fun and a sense of being needed."

You can guess what happened.

With Mother Working, Daughter Shares Household Chores

Expected Co-Operation

She said that from then on she intended to work three days a week, and while she would be happy to do their apartment on her free days, she expected co-operation on Monday through Wednesday.

"After all," she said brightly, "when we're both working, we'll just share the cooking and marketing and dishes."

It's a much happier household today!

Y Gradale Members Use Craft Shop

The members of the Y Gradale Sorority of the YMCA put in a busy night on Monday when after their opening session they adjourned to the craft shop at the YMCA where they wove placemats and learned how to enamel copper, each of them making a pin.

At the business meeting, plans were made for a rummage sale to be held Dec. 9 and 10 at the Grand Theater building. Members who have rummage to pick up may call Mrs. Arthur Henning HA 1-6325 or Mrs. Gail Fegley, HA 1-6744.

There were three guests at the meeting: Mrs. Richard Transue, Mrs. Carl Albertson and Mrs. Lester Klass.

Mrs. Richard Greiner was chairman of refreshments.

Aux. Rummage Sale

A rummage sale has been scheduled for Friday and Saturday by the Int. Typographical Union Aux. next to the Grand Theater building in East Stroudsburg. Members are asked to bring their donations to the storeroom either Wednesday night or early Friday morning.

Mrs. Kennedy Sketches Own Ball Gown

By Frances Lewine

Washington (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy announced Monday that her inaugural gown will be made by Bergdorf Goodman of New York from her own suggestions and sketches.

The wife of the President-elect, who is known for her interest in art and her ability to sketch, said she has sent suggestions to Bergdorf Goodman on style, color and material of the dress. She also sent rough sketches of her own.

The New York specialty store will submit designs to Mrs. Kennedy in accordance with her sketches, it was reported by Mrs. Glady Uhl, Mrs. Kennedy's press spokesman.

Mrs. Kennedy expects to decide on the final model for her dress within a week or 10 days. Andrew Goodman, president of Bergdorf Goodman, declined to comment on the order from Mrs. Kennedy.

He did say his firm has done business with the Kennedy family "for many years."

There have been many inquiries to Mrs. Kennedy for information on the gown she will wear at the Inaugural Ball which will be the fashion highlight of the three-day inaugural ceremonies.

Her predecessor, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wore a Renoir pink peau de soie gown embroidered with 22,000 pink rhinestones at her first inaugural in 1953. It was designed by Nettie Rosenstein of New York. For her second inaugural, she chose a citron-yellow princess silhouette dress of lace over net and matching taffeta by the same designer.

Pocono Council GOP Women Plan Holiday

Mount Pocono — Plans for the annual Christmas party of the Pocono Mountain Council of Republican Women got underway at the November meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Halstead Ellison, Debigh Hill Day Camp in Paradise Valley.

The party will be held at Pocono Manor Inn on Dec. 19 with a short business meeting preceding the buffet dinner. Mrs. Ellison appointed as a Christmas committee: Mrs. Theodore Beadle, Mrs. Gray Carpenter and Miss Eloise Bryan to plan arrangements and entertainments. Humorous gifts will be exchanged by members. The newly-appointed telephone committee will go into action to make reservations.

November 29 will be "A Day in Harrisburg" for members and delegates attending the annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women. Planning to go are Mrs. Ellison, Miss Bryan, Mrs. William Seeley, Mrs. Mervin Fontanella, Mrs. John Specht and Mrs. Blan Walker Jr.

Mrs. Robert Boutilier of East Swiftwater was introduced as a new member by Mrs. Fontanella.

Master Readers, Films Add Life To Literature ES Secondary PTA Told

Some things are more "audio" than "visual," particularly poetry was one of the things demonstrated in the program for the East Stroudsburg Secondary Parent-Teachers Assn. on the use of audio-visual aids in the teaching of literature in Junior High School.

Robert Neyhart, assisted by Paul Bartholomew demonstrated the use of both for two specific poems.

Studying about Paul Revere's ride in an eighth grade history class, the film-strip of the poem "Paul Revere's Ride" was shown. In literature class the poem read by a master reader, Scourby, was played on the tape recorder, and a film-strip of the biography of Longfellow was shown, and the class studied another poem by the same author; and heard the recitation of "Evangeline" by Mary Martin.

Teaching literature in this way gives the student a better understanding of the poem, the author and the historical background of both, it was pointed out.

At the business meeting with Paul Bartholomew presiding, Mrs. Raymond Courtright reported a balance of $166.53 in the general fund of the PTA. The membership approved the payment of a bill presented by the Elementary PTA for $452.25 for the purchase of a steam table for the J. M. Hill elementary cafeteria.

Mrs. Frank Meyers, membership chairman, reported a membership of 127 members.

The group voted to present the teen-age code to a joint Junior-Senior High School Student Council meeting for their consideration.

Bartholomew appointed a committee to raise funds to purchase new books for the library: Mrs. Frank Meyers, Mrs. Donald Berger and Charles Buenzli.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Meyers and her committee.

Coolbaugh PTA Meets At School

Tobyhanna — The Coolbaugh High School Parent-Teachers Assn. launched a membership drive at the meeting which followed open house at the school last week.

It was announced that the school nurse has scheduled medical examinations for the students after the holidays. The new dish washer and potato peeler will be installed in the church kitchen.

"What Makes a Good College Student" was the subject of the program which followed the business meeting.

Stroud School Board Runs Million Dollar Business Without Pay, PTA Learns

Unpaid volunteers who devote many hours to running a million dollar business and assume all the obligations and responsibilities without recompense: that is the definition of a school board which came out in the Stroud Union Parent-Teachers Assn. program on "Let's Get Acquainted with the School Board" on Monday night.

Every seat in the music room was taken for the program which preceded the business meeting of the group. Harold Hosier, program chairman for November introduced members of the panel.

Edward Rahn explained the general set-up of the school board whose official school year starts on July 1. Board members are elected for six year terms in November and the board is organized in December.

The Stroud Union board meets the third Wednesday of every month and members usually serve on at least two committees each year such as finance, hiring and setting the salaries of teachers.

All services of board members are free, he pointed out, except the secretary who serves a one year term at $1200 a year and the treasurer at $600 a year.

"These members put in many hours of hard work and have a great responsibility in running a school district whose budget is over a million dollars a year," Rahn said.

His opinion was echoed by Edward Williams, legal advisor to the board, who explain how the board is elected: directors are elected from Hamilton, Stroud Twp., Delaware Water Gap and the Borough of Stroudsburg according to population. Stroudsburg has approximately 6,000 voters; Stroud Twp., 5,000; Hamilton, 2,000; and Water Gap, 550.

In listing the general qualifications needed to be a school director, Williams said: "someone willing to work unsparingly, devoted a great deal of their time without pay, and to become involved in the detail of committee work which involves many hours in addition to the monthly meetings.

The mechanics of becoming a director include getting a petition from the County Commissioners signed with 15 signatures and filed at the designated date before election: and then to win the election.

The duties and the powers of the board is big business, Williams said. The board sets the budget, levies taxes, and attends to any business of the school district. School board meetings are open to the public, he said. The board can go into executive or closed session at any time, he said, but added that no official action can be taken in the closed meetings.

That million dollar budget was explained by Herbert Crane, financial advisor to the board. Last year local taxes brought in $542,000 and state aid $560.00 for a total of $1,102.000.

Crane pointed out that schools in Pennsylvania cannot operate without state aid unless the residents would be willing to be taxed locally for the amount now coming from the state. He also gave detailed explanation of millage and other financial information.

Mrs. James Kitson presided at the business meeting when the PTA budget was presented by Mrs. Joan Weber, treasurer and accepted by the PTA. Mrs. Elwood German, membership chairman, reported 421 PTA memberships and announced that printed programs for the year have been distributed.

Mrs. Durrell Mader, chairman of ways and means, announced that the PTA rummage sale will be held March 9, 10 and 11 at Richards' Garage, Main St., and asked members to save items for the sale.

Robert Hellmann, publications chairman, reported that 21 subscriptions for the National PTA magazine has been sold. Ten gift subscriptions were presented to members: Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. William Wyckoff, Mrs. Lester Klass, Mrs. Norman Dennis, Mrs. Victor Koch, Mrs. Orien Reish, Mrs. Joseph Yutz, Arthur George, Mrs. Alvin Williams and Mrs. Donald Metzgar.

Ten more subscriptions will be presented at the January meeting, Hellmann announced.

Mrs. Andrew Keiser announced that the January meeting program will be "Let's Get Acquainted with the 4 aRts": representatives from the art, music, physical education and dramatic and public speaking departments will be featured.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Chorus 'Try-Out' In Harrisburg For Local Show

The Stroudsburgs are big time as far as the Pocono Community Chorus goes. The chorus will present "This is Christmas" a program included sacred as well as secular music, on December 10 at Stroud Union High School.

The concert is sponsored by the Business and Professional Woman's Club for the benefit of their welfare fund.

The Pocono Community Chorus is composed of about 40 men and women with Howard Atwell, a member of the faculty of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, as narrator and Ethel Lynn Werkheiser as accompanist for this program.

On December 9 the group will present the same show in Harrisburg, a "dress rehearsal" for the big show at home, they term it.

Turkey Tips For The Bride, Which Grandma May Like

By Mrs. William Pipher
422 Colbert Street,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

By the looks of the social page the past year there will be a lot of Pocono brides cooking their first Thanksgiving turkey tomorrow.

So that they won't lose any sleep tonight worrying whether it will be done on time, here's an easy chart to follow:

Weight	Temperature	Time
8 to 10 lb.	325	3 to 3½ hrs.
10 to 14 lb.	325	3½ to 4 hrs.
14 to 18 lb.	300	4 to 4½ hrs.
18 to 20 lb.	300	4½ to 6 hrs.

Roast the stuffed turkey in an open pan (no lid); if breast gets too brown, cover with foil or a piece of cheesecloth that has been dipped in the drippings.

Some women prefer to roast turkey enclosed in foil. The high temperature and short time tends to keep turkey more moist, and it cuts roasting time in half which is nice for the mother who wants to see the Battle of the Boroughs!

Weight	Total Cooking Time
6 to 9 lbs.	2½ to 3 hours
10 to 13 lbs.	3 to 3½ hours
14 to 17 lbs.	3½ to 3¾ hours
17 to 21 lbs.	3¾ to 4 hours
22 to 24 lbs.	4 to 4½ hours

To test a turkey for doneness, wiggle the drumstick. If it feels loose or breaks, the turkey is done. Also you can feel the flesh around the drumstick; if it is soft, it's ready to take out of the oven.

What smells more tantalizing than a roasting turkey permeating every nook and cranny of the house! To make it extra special, show it off on your prettiest platter and garnish it with lemon or orange cups (cut tops off fruit, scoop out insides) filled with your favorite cranberry relish.

Or for something different, try apples hollowed out and heaped high with a spicy sweet fresh chutney (doubles for a salad, too!):

Apple Chutney: Slice off tops and bottoms of eight tart apples. With a sharp paring knife remove the cores and enough of the apples to leave only ½ inch thick shells. Brush cut surfaces of the apples with a little lemon juice. Chop remaining apple and combine with 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup white seedless raisins, ½ cup broken walnuts, ¼ cup chopped candied citron, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Stir in ½ cup strained honey, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill apples and chutney mixture until ready to serve. To serve, place each apple shell in a crisp lettuce cup. Heap apples high with the chutney mixture. Yield 8 servings.

Serve with a flourish, then burst with pride; have a nice Thanksgiving!

The Wyckoff Shopper
"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

The big talk in our employees' lunch room, as I write this on Monday, centers around three events, two of them joyous—the marriage of Carol Kerlin, and the birth of their fifth child, a daughter at last, to the Bill Possingers; one of them sad—the sudden death of Frank Weller. When I first knew Mr. Weller he was associated with the advertising department of Wyckoff's. Later he became head of the shoe department, a position he held for a number of years before resigning to accept a county office. Mr. Weller was a brother-in-law of Cora Albertson, head of our Wyckoff lingerie department.

* * *

Speaking of Cora reminds me of all the many beautiful articles, newly arrived in her department to make a bid for an important place on your Christmas gift list. Even a casual tour cannot help but impress one with the elegance of corduroy for lounge wear, and the fact that fur fabric is just as important for casual wear at home as it is for trim on dresses, coats or handbags.

Modestly priced, but smart as the dickens and soft as a kitten, is a leopard fabric duster collared and cuffed in black washable velveteen. Another, almost identical in styling, is of paisley print, red or blue predominating. Both are 8.98, and come in sizes 10 to 18. The paisley has self collar, and both have a throw-tie at the neckline, ¾ pushup sleeves and a very full gathered back that swings gracefully from a wide yoke. All of this —and a Julliard fabric! What more could any woman ask?

* * *

I can't quite believe it's true, but it is. For 5.98 you can buy one of the most charming floral taffeta print dresses you've ever seen, from our Wyckoff budget dress department on the Main Floor. The dress, pictured before me as I write, has a rounded neck with narrow collar and self-flower, buttons down the bodice, a neat tailored belt, and a wonderfully full skirt, gathered into side draped pleats. The print completely covers the fabric, and comes with blue or plum predominating, in sizes 12 to 20 and 14½ to 22½.

At 6.98, the same budget department presents the "backbone of a wardrobe" in a shirtwaist dress of comed cotton, with butterfly sleeves and unusual tab-button trim on the bodice. This dress, in 10 to 20, comes in green, blue, or maize, ombre striped.

Where but at Wyckoff's could you find values such as these?

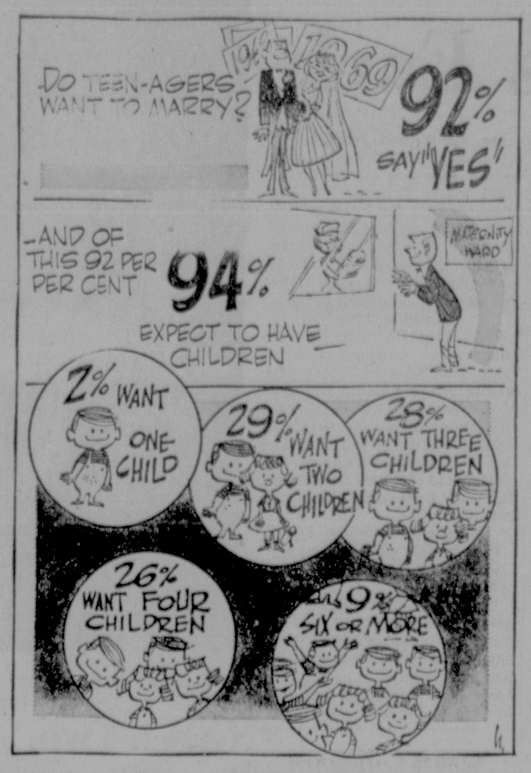
* * *

Cora also advises me that she has just received a new shipment of the very popular 3.98 Nip 'n Tuck dresses. These cottons are all made over the same front-zippered style with a choice of cap or set-in sleeve. Wyckoff's has carried them for a long time, and they are always on our best-seller list.

As a matter of fact, one woman came in recently and asked for a Aip 'n Tuck dress, thinking it was a maternity style in which you simply ripped out the tucks as one's tummy expanded. The idea is good—maybe we'll sell it to the company!

Teens Have Definite Plans For Early Parenthood In Suburbia

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.



IF YOU'RE planning on getting married, having two to four children, and living in a big city suburb, you're a rather typical teen-ager.

There's no question that marriage figures in the future of today's teeners. We interviewed more than 1,000 young people across the nation and asked them if they hoped to be married one day. Ninety-two percent said yes. And almost all of them thought they certainly would be wed before the 1970's end.

"Every person should have a mate in life, said Douglas Johnston, 18, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., whose comment is typical of the majority.

"I believe every girl hopes to marry someday," was the way Mary Brant, 15, of Pomona, Calif., put it.

The typical teen-ager also plans to have children. Ninety-four percent of those questioned said their hopes for the future included building a family. "What's a marriage without children?" Tom Rubel, 17, of Dallas, said. And a Dallas girl, Martha Dillard, 17, replied "That's one of the main purposes of marriage."

"A family is like cultivating a garden. With every addition one glows with pride," said Maxine Morrin, 15, of New York City.

Lone Child Not Favored

What is the ideal sized family?

Families consisting of two, three or four children were the favorites. The idea of a single child seems to run against the grain since only two percent thought this would be ideal. Only nine percent—most of them girls—hoped to have families with six or more children.

Twenty-nine per cent of the teeners went for the two-child family, 28 percent for three children and 26 percent for four children. Some of the comments:

"Four," said Jill Hankins, 14, of Indianapolis, who explained, that is not too many children and not just one to get spoiled."

"The ideal sized family is the well supported one," said Carol Baldwin, 14, of King of Prussia, Pa., expressing an attitude shared by a number of others.

One fifth of the girls want to have their first child when they are 20. On the other hand, less than one-eighth of the boys want to be fathers at 20. But the majority — 86 percent — said they want to start a family no later than the age of 28.

The Suburbs for Them

The prevalent feeling was that they didn't want to be too old to enjoy their children.

When they begin building their families, they hope to have children at two year intervals. That's the preference of 43 percent. Those favoring one year between children accounted for 27 percent of those questioned. The notion of having children three or more years apart found favor with only 12 percent.

Mary A. Tenfelder, 18, of St. Louis, said she would want her children to be one or two years apart because "if I am to have a large family, this is necessary."

On the question of preference for sons or daughters, 40 per cent of the boys said they wanted two sons and 44 percent said one daughter. The girls for the most part favored having two sons and two daughters. Forty-six percent said two sons and 45 percent two daughters.

While 30 percent of those interviewed now live in a big city suburb, 39 percent chose the suburb as the place they would like to live after marriage and starting a family. The second most popular choice was the big city itself. Thirty percent favored the city.

Though only one percent now live on farms, 6 percent thought that's where they would like to live one day. The reasons for the various choices followed lines similar to these responses:

"In a big city suburb," said Sue Anderson, 16, of Pomona, Calif., "A small town or farm is too dull and a big city is too crowded."

"On a farm," said Bobby DeAngelo, 17, of Brooklyn, who considers it a place of "peace and tranquility."

Presley Show At Grand

TODAY is the day when Elvis Presley—acknowledged monarch of popular song—comes marching back into the waiting arms of his countless fans in our town as the star of his first picture in two years, "G. I. Blues," which opens at the Grand Theatre. The Hal Wallis Technicolor musical romance, released by Paramount, marks Elvis' return to cinematic life following his period of service in the Army.

"G. I. Blues" constitutes a reenlistment in the U. S. Army for Presley in that the story concerns a G. I. in peacetime Germany in the same outfit in which the singing star served abroad, the Third Armored (Spearhead) Division. In the actual unit Presley held the rank of sergeant. For his movie role, he has been "demoted" to specalist. To give his fans an idea of how it was for their idol in the service, Producer Wallis started shooting the film while Elvis was still on duty.

Mrs. Rebecca J. Jusko, 24, and her son, Charles, 3, were found suffocated in the bedroom of the three-room house set above a garage in Canton Twp.

Injuries, Grades Reduced Mounties Chances Early

By CURT PRINS
Sports Editor

INJURIES, scholastic difficulties and discipline problems prevented Stroud Union High School from knowing what type of football team it might have produced.

Even before the season opened the Mountaineers lost halfback Doug Wright for a month and a half because of grades.

And Lehighton used its dazzling double-wing attack to drop the Mounties 30-0 in the opener, and then the injuries began to mount.

Mountie coach Walt Bjorn lost Cleve Keller, Bob Somers, Jim Coleman, Gary Rinker, Jerry Shanley and a handful of others to injuries and Warren Loney and Gary Reish have also been on the injured list but will probably play Thursday.

Size Problem

Now a size problem is hampering Bjorn. John Taylor, Al Hennet and Jim Farry are his heaviest linemen. The trio averages about 193 pounds a man. But in the backfield, Bjorn has no heavyweights. Fullback Tom Schatzman weighs about 160 pounds, while his halfbacks, Bob Starner, Glen Bisbing and Wayne Bond barely top the 140 mark. Loney, who will probably play on defense only Thursday, weighs 140 pounds and quarterback John Baylor is a 150 pounder.

Starner, who has been out for several weeks with a charley horse, will start in place of halfback Wayne Bond. Bisbing will start at the other halfback post and Schatzman, the best runner on the club, will be at fullback.

Bjorn will have only 22 players in uniform tomorrow. The smallness of the squad has hurt the club in the second half, when there were no fresh players to substitute.

The Mounties will probably throw a great deal of passes tomorrow. Of the 50 points Stroud Union has scored this year most of them have been by passes or the touchdown set-up by a pass.

Baylor has hit on about a third of his attempts this season, with most of the tosses of the short variety.

End Ed Nevil is a good receiver along with Freddy Frantz and Bisbing and Schatzman is effective on screen passes.

The Mounties have not been able to produce an inside running game and their sweeps have not accounted for big yardage, two reasons the club has had trouble keeping sustained drives going.

Never Led

Stroud Union has never been ahead in a game this year. If the Mounties jumped in front of East Stroudsburg it could trigger the attack they have lacked all season.

Twelve seniors wind up their high school careers tmorrow but not all of them will be in the game.

Taylor, Barry Bond, Reish, Farry, Larry Heller and Deiter Roy are all seniors, who will probably play, while Somers, Keller, Coleman, Rinker and Shanley are the injured seniors.

Sophomore Don Baylor, who doesn't play too much offense, could cause trouble for East Stroudsburg. Baylor, has been outstanding on kickoff returns. Although he is not fast, Baylor, younger brother of the Mounties' quarterback, is a good faker and can follow his blockers.

Rushing Plug

The Mounties will have to plug their rushing defense. They have allowed an average of 37.7 points a game and most of the scores have been recorded on the ground. Northampton bombed the West Main Streeters 73-7 and all the Konkrete Kids' touchdowns were on the ground. The Kids rushed for more than 500 yards.

Bangor was the only team that had to go to a passing attack to open up the Mounties.

The Stroud Union kicking game has been only average. Nevil does the punting. He is capable of booming the ball but has been erratic. The Mounties have not developed a place kicking or kickoff specalist.

Bangor, Knights In 41st Renewal On Thanksgiving

By ARMON WILLIAMS

BANGOR'S SLATERS and the Green Knights of Pen Argyl High have all but completed preparations for the annual Slate Belt Classic to be staged Thursday afternoon at Bangor Memorial Park. Some 6,000 fans are expected to view the 41st renewal of a school boy rivalry that started in 1922.

After 38 years of annual contests, all of which have been thrill-packed, Bangor holds the edge with 19 wins, Pen Argyl has 18 and three have ended in ties. The reason for the 41 games is noted in the recapitulation in which two games were played in 1923 and 1924.

A few superstitions sprung into existence during the formative years. As an example, the first to score invariably triumphed. Also no school was able to hold the area title more than two years in succession.

For a time, action authoritatively supported these beliefs. Over the initial eleven games, ending in 1930, it remained a neck and neck vendatta with five contests apiece and a single deadlock.

Knights Lead

The great breakaway started the following year when the regime of Levan Smith, presently principal of Reading High School, gathered momentum. His departure for other fields after the 1937 clash found Pen Argyl enjoying a 10 to 6 edge in games.

In the next ten years, during which the third and last standstill to date occurred, Bangor shaved only one game from the Green's margin.

In 1948 Pen Argyl under Fred Leonard picked up speed and made the game spread to six as well as shattering the tradition that no team had won three years in a row.

The tide turned finally for the Slaters with the arrival of the late Granville Evans on the Thanksgiving stage. In seven games under his supervision, the Slaters lost but one, that in 1956, 6-0. Bangor had won five years in a series.

Evans won again in 1957 by a 12 to 0 count, and with the coming of David "Dakey" Pritchard as head coach has spread the current win skein to three and the team is shooting for the fourth this year. The only game won by the Green Knights since 1950, was won in 1956 on a recovered kick-off in the Bangor end zone.

Two Trophies

Two trophies will be at stake in the game. The annual Ike Resh trophy, a new trophy this year since Bangor retired the other last year after three consecutive wins. The other is The Daily Record Trophy, presented for the winner of the most games between Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Bangor and Pen Argyl. Bangor has two legs at present and by winning Thursday would retire the Record award.

Eleven Bangor seniors will don the maroon and white for the last time on Thursday. They are Barry Warrick and Dick Shoemaker, ends; Jack Williams and Dennis Perelli, tackles; Bob Owens and Earl Van Doren, guards; James Rehrig, end; Bob Dawe, quarterback; Bob Collura and Bun Reimer, halfbacks and Phil Falcone, fullback.

East Coach Hopes To Use Everyone

JIM MILLER, East coach said Tuesday night that he will try to play every man on his 25-player team in Thursday's Gem City Bowl at Erie.

Two East Stroudsburg State College players, center Dick Wolslayer and guard Sterling Brown are members of the East team.

Miller will not name his starting line-up until Wednesday afternoon. The club will only have two days of practice before the game.

"We won't have any contact work," Miller told the Daily Record by phone last night, "so it's hard to find out who can do what."

Miller added that Wolslayer is one of two centers on his club. George Washington University's Joe Barbini is the other. There are only three line backers on the club, which means Wolslayer had a good chance at a defensive assignment. Brown is one of six guards.

The game will be played under unlimited substitution rules. The East club will be split into an offensive and defensive team with several players going both ways, Miller, the University of Detroit coach said.

Straight T

The East will run from a straight T formation with split ends and occasionally will use a halfback in the slot.

This will be the Third Gem City Bowl. The West won the first game and last year West Chester's Bill Shockley kicked a 27-yard field goal to give the East its first win.

Some 150 players are nominated for the bowl each year but only 50 are selected. East Stroudsburg's Jake Piatt, was picked as an alternate guard.

Some 35 graduates of the bowl have gone on to pro football.

Bowl Picture Clears

THE No. 1 team in major college football is Navy. Not in the polls, but in the bowls.

All sights are set on the Middies —including the eyes of Texas— and all that stands between Navy and its fourth post season appearance is a victory over Army in in the service classic at Philadelphia Saturday.

That would give Navy a 9-1 record and group the Midshipmen with Washington, Arkansas, Baylor, Missouri, Penn State and Oregon as the big time teams headed for bowl play.

Oregon in Liberty

Oregon (7-2-1) Tuesday accepted a bid to face Penn State (6-3) at Philadelphia Dec. 17 in the Liberty Bowl — the only major bowl that has two teams signed.

Each of the other section committees still are in search of at least one entry in a bowl picture that breaks down like this:

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., has Washington (9-1) safely picked and Navy would be a natural opponent. The Middies were the only club to beat the Huskies (15-14). They also played a 14-14 tie in the 1924 Rose Bowl.

Minnesota (8-1) and Iowa (8-1), co-champions of the Big Ten, also are in the running. By picking Minnesota, the grandday of the bowls might be able to set up a new pact with the Big Ten.

MAKING SEVEN (FEET) THE HARD WAY—Marques Haynes uses a height assist from Josh Grider to dunk two points in last night's Harlem Magicians-Pocono All-Star game at Stroud Union High School. Stars' Walt Bjorn (45) looks on.

Haynes, Wheeler Lead 72-53 Harlem Magician Victory

MARQUES Haynes, scored 30 points and Sam (Boom) Wheeler posted 300 laughs as the Harlem Magicians gagged their way to a 72-53 win over The Pocono All-Stars at Stroud Union High School last night.

Some 950 people saw the Magicians pull away from the Stars near the end of the first half and then open up with their laugh-getters.

It was the 41st straight win of the season for the Magicians, who move on to Perth Amboy, N. J. for a game tonight.

Haynes, billed as the "World's Greatest Dribbler," looked like the world's greatest set shot. He canned 11 long set shots and bagged five in a row at one stretch.

Drop Kick

Wheeler, the comedy boss of the seven-man traveling squad posted 10 points and missed by a foot on a drop-kick attempt from mid court, after a five yard "off-side" penalty moved the ball to the free throw line.

In addition, Wheeler belted a homerun with two strikes on him (he's never struck out) in the baseball sequence and his ball handling in the pivot was fantastic.

Bob Wert, Stroud Union basketball coach led the Stars with 19 points, most of them on soft arching set shots. Carl Adelman trailed with 10 points.

The game was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to finance treir local projects.

L. A. Move Off

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League Tuesday night agreed to postpone moving into Los Angeles until 1962 if the National League would expand immediately to nine clubs and consent to start unprecedented interleague play in 1961.

Washington would be the ninth club in the American League, with the new club filling the vacancy created by the transfer of Calvin Griffith's Senators to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Houston appeared to be out front as a possibility for a ninth team in the National. Both Houston and New York had been accepted for expansion to 10 clubs in 1962. However, it was believed the Houston club would be the more logical choice if it can iron out its problems with the owners of the American Association franchise in that city.

For a second team to enter New York or Los Angeles, the present major league territorial rule would have to be changed. Both leagues would have to agree or the commissioner would cast the decisive vote on an amendment.

Frick Considered

Commissioner Ford Frick's insistence on a "fair and equitable" amendment was an important factor in the American League's decision to forego moving to Los Angeles in 1961 as planned.

If the National League should refuse to go along with the nine-club idea for 1961, the American League reaffirmed its decision to enter Los Angeles that year.

Joe Cronin, American League president, said the nine-club operation would be for one year only. Each team would play a total of 166 games, 14 with each of the eight other cities (112) in its own league and six with each of the nine clubs (54) in the other league. All games would count in the regular league standing.

The American League asked the National for a decision by Dec. 5. It probably will come at the regular Natonal League meeting Dec. 5 in St. Louis with some American Leaguers invited to attend. In the meantime, the American League has been urged to draw up a sample schedule with dates.

Green Twp. Law May Halt Hunters

HUNTING in Green Township, Pike County, may be seriously curtailed, if a proposed law by the Township board of supervisors is passed.

The law would prohibit hunting except with the written permission of the land owner, where the hunting is taking place. A $100 fine would be tagged on violators.

Since most of the land owners do not live in the area, the law would knock out hunting almost completely.

The Township supervisors will meet tonight to discus the new law. If passed, it will go into effect in five days.

Nora Murphy Top Picker In Contest

MRS. Nora Murphy, 53, Ransberry Avenue, East Stroudsburg, took top honors and first prize money in last week's Daily Record Football Contest. Mrs. Murphy picked 19 winning teams from the list of 23, and o the four incorrected picks two were tie games.

Mrs. Frank Bocko, Mt. Bethel and Carrie Posten, RD 1, Stroudsburg, tied for second place prize money. Both picked 18 winning teams and each selected 53 to be the high score of the week. Auburn was high scoring team for the week with 57 points.

The last and final Football Contest for this year appeared in the Monday edition of The Daily Record and today 5 P.M. is the deadline for entries to be submitted. The reason for the Wednesday deadline of course, is the many games played on Thanksgiving Day.

AP Picks Cavaliers

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP)—Traditional rivalries, undefeated seasons and a dash of conference titles make up the entrees on a Thanksgiving Day menu that winds up the regular 1960 high school football season.

Clifton Heights over Yeadon—A breeze for undefeated Clifton Heights.

Moss Clinches Third Position

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—England's Stirling Moss clinched third place in the world automobile driver standings Sunday when he won the United States Grand Prix, the final race of the year on the Formula One circuit.

Moss earned $7,500 in prize money as he averaged nearly 100 miles per hour in his Rob Walker Lotus and finished 45 seconds ahead of Scotland's Innes Ireland, who drove a Lotus. New Zealand's Bruce McClaren, in a Cooper, was third.

The race was 75 laps over a twisting 3.275-mile course.

The second place gave Ireland fourth in the world standings.

First and second had been clinched in earlier races by Brabham and McClaren, respectively.

Kelso Named Best Horse

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, who won eight of nine races this season for the Bohemia Stable of Mrs. Richard C. Du Pont, was named 1960 horse of the year Tuesday in the annual poll of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

Kelso, a gelded son of Your Host-Maid of Flight, by Count Fleet, also was named best 3-year-old, although he did not win one of the Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown races. Kelso won his last six starts, and earned $293,310 for the season.

In the voting of 31 staff experts, Kelso received 22 votes as best of the year, while Bald Eagle from Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable got nine votes. For the 3-year-old crown, Kelso got 25 votes, Preakness winner Bally Ache received five, and T.V. Lark one.

Top Offense Helps Oilers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Houston's Oilers have defensive troubles, but their defensive deficiency is more than offset by an explosive offense.

The Texas club leads the American Football League in total offense, trails in defense—and holds a two-game advantage over the Eastern Division field.

Although the Oilers' defensive yield is a high 362.9 yards per game, they have surrendered only 207 points—lowest total in the league next to Buffalo and Dallas.

The Oiler offense leads in passing with 233.5 yards per game, rushing with 129.5 and total yardage with 363.0.

The foolproof wishbone you can buy for just 63¢ a day

Inside every holiday turkey is the opportunity to make a wish. But if it's for a new home, or college for the kids, or a nest egg for the future, you need a different kind of wishbone: a sound plan for saving.

U.S. Savings Bonds provide such a plan. As little as 63c a day buys a $25 bond a month (cost $18.75). In 40 months you'll own Bonds worth $1000 at maturity—a mighty good start toward making your wishes come true.

U.S. Savings Bonds dollars help your government pay for the Peace—another wish you can do something about. Why not get started today?

Some advantages you might think about

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. Tell your company how much to set aside from your pay for Bonds. This way you won't forget to save and your savings will add up automatically.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 23, 1960

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — While matters seem to become too annoying, stop, reflect upon those in areas where real oppression, privation exist. We always have more than many; smile, but firmly determine action.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — The commonplace is sometimes necessary but never the ordinary in that higher education, respect for self and obligations are forsaken. Do abandon complacency and lack of faith.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's aspect says watch out for schemers that try to use your ingenuity against wise purposes. Go along with bright ideas (you have many yourself), but know when to say "no."

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Less favorable matters may tempt you to forget your inherent good humor and sense of fair play. Do not feel badly at discrepancies; your best demeanor will boost day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your energetic nature is sometimes taken for overaggression. We all present a less favorable side occasionally so be on guard for flaws, minor faults that could grow. Your top versatility in demand.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — One of your strongest "be careful" days this month. Heed sound hints, don't think you have all the answers or you will get into difficulty. Follow instructions thoughtfully.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Venus' auspicious position promotes your helpful attitude, general sense of awareness and how to bring a matter out of mediocrity. Don't tangle with time — or money wasters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — "To the pure all things are pure" is true, but can misguide. We must recognize dangers, subversion, not standing up against wrong opponents. This day needs YOUR strength.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — History eventually proves many things not understood now, but we are daily making that history, so we are charged with responsibility, guarding veracity, protecting, developing.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Do your primary job or chores first, then get into extra activities you may enjoy more. The irksome task usually is vital and rewards are great for it. Study situations.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be judicious in money matters, children's, oldsters' affairs. Property, possessions, work issues call for vigilance, reviewing in part. Your intuition and quick-thinking big aids.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) —Manifest throughout the good will you inherently feel at the onset of anything; remain as strong at finish of a project as at beginning. Thus does persistence carry weight.

YOU BORN TODAY: first sector of Sagittarius. Resolute character, willing to work, but sometimes streak through a matter, should tone down drive to a steadied unstained course. On the other hand, you are truly sincere, often profoundly serious, cautious. A diplomat of first sector is normally wise in speech, military in bearing. Religion, statesmanship, civic activity, personal enterprises attract your interests. This date carries waning Apollo's enthusiasm to add to Sagittarius', meaning plenty of action, initiative, and need for restraint, conserving resources. Birthdays: Franklin Pierce, 14th President of the United States; Sir Gilbert Parker, 19th century Canadian novelist.

Give Thanks in Church on...

THANKSGIVING

. . . from our historic past comes the rebirth and reminiscence of a day of gratefulness celebrated with the Indians by our early settlers. They gave thanks for a bounteous land. It was as if all their prayers had been answered. It is, perhaps, fitting that we who have so much, in such a great land, should give thanks to GOD for it in Church on Thanksgiving.

TIME TO REJOICE AND BE THANKFUL

Savings Results In Speed Up Of Road Constructions

SAVINGS through the use of new machinery and other cost cutting devices, has resulted in the speeding up of interstate highway constructions.

The money saved is re-routed back into the highway fund. In this way, the state can pay for the projects with money it supposedly did not have.

7 Percent Below

In Illinois, for instance, the interstate highway construction costs per mile now are running about 7 percent below 1959. Lower costs so far this year have saved the state $6.3 million, and it's using this money to accelerate road building.

An indext of highway building costs, compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for all Federally-aided highways, provides further evidence the trend is down. It shows new roads constructed so far in 1960 cost 134.9% of the 1946 average, down from the record high of 142.9% reached in 1957.

The interstate program is getting a powerful push, too, from stepped-up spending. The Federal government foots 90% of the cost of these roads; states pay the balance and contract for the construction. Contract awards in the first half of 1960 dropped below 1959. But awards in the third quarter jumped 45% above a year earlier, so the total for the first nine months was nearly $1.2 billion, 8% above a year ago.

The sixteen year old interstate program was started in 1956. The program this year is expected to account for 40% of the value of all road contracts under which the Federal government will pay part of the cost of contract and costs per mile on all Federally aided highways is.

Will Determine

President-elect Kennedy and the new Congress will determine how heavy a flow of Federal funds are available in the government's next fiscal year, beginning July 1. Highway builders and state officials, however, predict the new Administration won't let the program slow down and may step it up.

Motorists will benefit from the construction speedup by getting use of these super highways quicker. Taxpayers have a high state also. Lower costs will ease pressure on the new Administration for additional funds to finance the program.

The recession helped trim the highway building costs by making contractors hungrier for road construction jobs. One Midwestern contractor said that bidding is about as tough now as it has been in the last six to 10 years.

State highway departments are stiffening bidding competition and thereby trimming costs by dividing the work into bigger portions. Illinois's Ralph R. Batelsmeyer, chief highway engineer, says a big reason the state's highway costs have fallen is that a larger proportion of the work awarded during 1960 consisted of large contracts.

Increased Interest

The result was increased contractor interest. During the last three years the average number of bids per project in Illinois has increased to 4.47 from 3.66.

It has been proven that larger contracts attract more bidders, and the increased competition keeps prices down, a Western highway engineer reported.

Soviet Educators Visit Britain's Famed Rugby

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Two Soviet educators visited one of Britain's snootiest boys' schools Tuesday looking for ideas to take back to the proletarian Soviet Union.

They snooted some of the snootier traditions.

The Russians also will visit Eton and Harrow, two other schools whose graduates include kings, dukes and prime ministers.

Doesn't See

Through an interpreter, Alexseenko told Rugby headmaster Dr. Walker Hamilton: "As a teacher, I don't see any use in a younger boy having to do certain service for another. I think it should be the other way around."

Acquainted with the British school system of corporal punishment—whacks with a ruler of a birch switch — the Russian said: "It's degrading."

With that, Hamilton asked his visitors to walk through the school and meet some of its 700 students.

"Do the boys here look degraded?" asked Hamilton afterward.

"Nyet," chorused the Russians.

"Yet most of them have been caned at one time or another," said Hamilton.

Looked Impressed

The visitors looked impressed. They said the U.S.S.R. was rapidly expanding its boarding school system and they hoped to take back many ideas from Britain.

But they'll be switched if they'll go in for fagging and caning.

Crippled Children's Report

MRS. CARL B. Rosenkrans, immediate past president of the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Assn., and member of the State Board, recently attended the board of directors meeting in Harrisburg.

Reports were given on the 8th World Congress for Crippled Children and Adults held in New York City. It was also reported at the meeting that Pennsylvania Society has to date given 54 scholarships totaling $18,300.

Detailed reports were given concerning the four camps operated by the society. The camps are Camp Easter Seal; Camp Lend-A-Hand, Camp Harmony Hall, and Camp Daddy Allen.

Camp Daddy Allen

The camp most widely used by the Monroe County organization is Camp Daddy Allen, which just closed its 20th season. Some 163 children from eastern Pennsylvania, with 20 different diagnostic classifications, were represented. This year Camp Daddy Allen participated in a foreign exchange program with the Girl Scouts of America.

Monroe County was represented at Camp Daddy Allen by 5 children at a cost of $638 and two at Camp Harmony Hall at a cost of $250, all financed by the local society.

Funds raised from Easter Seals maintain the camps, but fund raising has not kept pace with program needs and planning, an official reported.

Letters To The Editor

Not Too Happy

Nov. 22, 1960

Bob Clark,
City Editor,

Dear Sir:

To the gutless, individual jellyfish, with a backbone.

The letter you have written to Bob Clark concerning our Stroud Union football team, was only written because you wanted to create a controversy, which can be a very little but usually a big thing. You don't wish for the facts, you merely wanted a controversial article started.

Thank goodness jelly-fish like you are few and far between. My only regret is that there is no appropriate award for such a gutless instigator such as you.

It is my personal hope that your conscience will repay you in due time for referring to our football team as gutless twerps.

"Win or lose,"
A faithful fan,
Mrs. John Andress

P. S. I use your word gutless as you seem to enjoy it.

Upholds Eastburg

Nov. 22, 1960

Mr. Robert Clark, City Editor,

Dear Mr. Editor:

In view of the fact that you have printed letters and parts of letters in your paper regarding the interboro game, I thought perhaps you would also oblige by printing this in behalf of the Eastburg fans and team.

I'm not quite sure just who Stroud Union High School's opponents are going to be, because it seems to me that I've been reading only about Stroudsburg's team. How poor they have been, how scrappy they are, how determined they will be, etc. This is all well and good but please let's not forget that their opponents on Thanksgiving will be East Stroudsburg High and that they too have a football team. A team that has given it's fans a respectable season, a team that has a good spirit and a fighting heart. A team that realizes it has it's work cut out for it but will "show-up" for the game ready to give out with all it's heart. A group of boys we of East Stroudsburg are happy to have represent us on any grid iron. A group of boys who have worked hard, long, and faithfully ever since August 18th. A group of boys who realize they must be at their best for this one last test in order to win. These are "our" boys, and knowing that they will scrap with every ounce of muscle in their bodies, we of Eastburg are behind them 100% always.

I now trust that everyone realizes that Stroud Union is playing a worthy opponent on Turkey Day, namely, East Stroudsburg.

Respectfully yours,
A Loyal Eastburg Fan
Mrs. Ida Gray

Kennedy Election 'Hits' UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —John F. Kennedy's election as president of the United States has awakened echoes in the U. N. General Assembly, even though he will not be inaugurated until Jan. 20.

The Soviet Union, discussing disarmament in the assembly's Political Committee, has offered to enter into negotiations with his government on that subject.

When Democrat Kennedy was elected to succeed Republican Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Khrushchev cabled congratulations and said he saw "no insurmountable obstacles to the preservation and consolidation of peace."

Government Ready

Reading Khrushchev's cablegram to the committee a few days later, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said his government was ready for "constructive negotiations on general and complete disarmament with the new United States government."

Blaming the current disarmament deadlock on the Eisenhower administration, he expressed hope "the new United States government will seriously ponder the situation which has been brought about through the fault of its predecessor and that it will draw the necessary conclusions."

He said if that happened, a special summit session of the General Assembly on disarmament March or April—as proposed by Khrushchev—should be able to achieve positive results.

All Speculating

U. S. chief delegate James J. Wadsworth, an Eisenhower appointee, denied the United States was against general disarmament. He expressed regret Zorin had made remarks "about what the next government of the United States might possibly think."

Despite what Wadsworth said, Zorin was only doing publicly what other delegates had been doing privately. Nearly all have been speculating on what Kennedy's foreign policy will be.

Year-End Tax Selling

By William A. Doyle

Q. After following the stock market for a number of years, I imagine we will soon be reading about a lot of "tax selling" at the end of the year. This is a bit silly to me. Do many people really sell their stocks just to get some cash to pay their taxes?

A. Some people do. They may have earned big salaries or made a lot of money in one way or another. When tax payment time rolls around, they need cash. So, they sell some of their stocks.

But that's not what is generally called "tax selling." As that expression is used in the financial district, it is something entirely different.

If you buy some stock and the market value of that stock rises, you are not subject to Federal capital-gains taxes until you sell that stock.

And, if you buy some stock and it goes down in market value, you cannot establish a loss for tax purposes until you sell the stock.

Most people file Federal income tax returns on a calendar year basis. So during December, many will sell stocks for tax purposes.

The main idea in tax selling is to establish losses for tax purposes. Those losses can be used to offset profits. To some extent, the losses can also be used to offset ordinary income—salaries, etc.

If a person can establish enough losses, he can cut down on his tax bill.

Tax selling leads to such things as switching from one security to another. Anyone who tries it should study up on the whole situation and make sure he has good, individual tax advice.

Q. Was it tax selling that caused stock prices to fall late last year?

A. There was some tax selling late in 1959, just as there is in every year. But your memory is a little short. Stock prices, as measured by the "averages," hit an all-time high at the very end of last year. For most of 1960, we have seen most stock prices take a slide.

Q. Can we expect a lot of tax selling late this year?

A. That's a reasonable expectation. Many stocks are now trading at prices well below their previous levels. But, with stock prices taking wide moves both up and down lately, it's impossible to even try to guess what affect tax selling will have on over-all stock prices.

Q. Is it customary for a corporation to insure its top officers for twice their annual salaries—with the insurance payable to the widows or estates of the officers?

A. Many corporations do have arrangements such as that. It one way of compensating (if that's the right word) top officials. Very often companies find they must provide something more than straight salaries and bonuses, if they want to hire and keep top executive talent.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

S-Burg Man Pleads Guilty

JAMES Hilbert, of 327 Main St., Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to a charge of avoiding identification at a hearing before Justice of the Peace John Foelker.

Held on several traffic violations, Hilbert was specifically charged with turning out his automobile lights to avoid identification when stopped by the Stroudsburg police. He was arrested on Nov. 14 at 7:45 p.m. in Stroudsburg.

He was reprimanded to the Monroe County Jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Court To Hear Blue Law Plea

THE U.S. Supreme Court will hear an appeal from enforcement of Pennsylvania's Sunday Blue Laws in Lehigh County, instituted in Federal District Court by Two Guys From Harrison Inc., on Dec. 7.

The case is an appeal of the firm from a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision of last December. The company is attacking the 1794 Blue Laws and the new Pennsylvania statute passed last year banning Sunday sales of certain items and providing a $100 fine for the first offense.

Bangor Students To Participate

BANGOR — Miss Gail Teel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Teel of Lock Heights, and Kenneth Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Bangor R.D., both members of the Senior High Mixed Chorus of the Bangor Area Joint High School, have been accepted as participants in the All-Eastern Division Chorus of the Music Educators National Conference to be held in Washington, D.C., January 13th-16th, 1961.

While geographical representation entered into the picture, the ability as a performer, interest in the music program of both school and state, and citizenship were all taken into consideration when these students were chosen to represent Bangor Area Joint High School, Bangor.

Security Aide At Credit School

Doris Day To Star At Sherman

DORIS DAY'S performance in "Midnight Lace," the suspense drama in which she stars with Rex Harrison and John Gavin, is a complete change of pace for the famous blonde actress who received her first Academy Award nomination for best actress in the comedy hit, "Pillow Talk." Doris plays a straight dramatic role in "Midnight Lace," which opens today at the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg, and is a Ross Hunter-Arwin color production, released by Universal-International.

In her 12-year screen career, Miss Day, unknown except as a band singer, before 1948, has become the top feminine boxoffice attraction of motion pictures. The former vocalist with the Bob Crosby, Fred Waring and Les Brown orchestras, she's a favorite recording soloist with disc jockeys from coast-to-coast, with her records always among the best-sellers.

Enacting a highly emotional dramatic role in "Midnight Lace," Doris Day, as the American wife of British financier Rex Harrison, is the target for terror in the most shocking game ever played with a woman's sanity.

BETTY and Blace Hotalen, who moved into their new home Nov. 12, were surprised a week later when 25 friends and relatives turned out for a housewarming party. Cake, ice cream and coffee, made the gathering a warm and friendly affair with good wishes overflowing for the happiness and success of the young couple in their new home.

Mrs. Fred Brombacher of Monte Rosa is back at the Orthopedic Hospital in Orange, N. J. Her friends around the village will be interested to learn where they may send greetings and wishes for a quick recovery.

Following the regular meeting, E. G. Wentworth, local Civil Defense director, and his assistant, Art Ogden, spoke on the measures families should take to provide for themselves in case of an attack. Refreshments were served by Pauline Lentz and Frances Myck.

Last week, when water was low in the village and Turtle Hall was bone dry, I let my head cat Myriah write the column while I went out of town for a bath. This week, Myriah has been receiving fan mail and it has gone to her head. I mean, I don't mind her eating at the table, but now she's demanding a fork! She has not allowed me to read her letters but has secreted them in a mouse hole which she previously depopulated and is, I believe, keeping them to use in case she gets her claws on my typewriter again.

GIFT WRAPPING SUGGESTIONS! Select paper to match the size of the gift—a small design, for instance, to cover a tiny package. Keep in mind the taste and personality of the recipient. And, choose wrapping aids, such as the "knotless bow" shown here, to simplify wrapping.

Let Your Banker Help You Play 'Jolly Santa Claus'

Even if your list of presents is longer than your bankroll . . . you can still fill Christmas stockings bountifully. .

Banks today grant loans for almost any reasonable need — and that includes the cash to pay for the high cost of Yuletide giving.

You don't have to be a depositor of the bank of get a personal loan. Having a substantial savings account makes it easier. But all you need really show is your ability to repay the loan safely and comfortably out of current income.

Save For '61

Don't hesitate to borrow this Christmas, but don't get caught short of funds again. Start saving for next December 25 now! You'll have a year to save, a little at a time.

To help you stick to good intentions, many banks around the country now provide special accounts under programs called Christmas Clubs. They make you save for Christmas in spite of yourself: You save in much the same way as installment loans.

The big difference is that you save ahead to buy later instead of vice versa. Also, you save paying interest charges on the loan.

Most clubs require you to save on a weekly or bi-monthly basis. The amount you save depends on your final savings goal.

Remember, your banker may not look like Santa, but when you are short of cash at Christmas, he's the next best thing.

SHARE WITH "CARE"

Share your Christmas with the less fortunate in other lands. $1 will send a food package through the CARE Food Crusade, New York City.

Use Imagination and Gadgets to Give Flair to your Decorations

There are a great many exciting Christmas decorations you can make with ordinary items in your home.

For example — set a box-type vegetable grater in the center of a square cake tin. Place a candle inside the grater to flicker and twinkle through the holes. Around the end, inside the pan, lay glittered pine cones or other types of Christmas "fancies." Top the grater handle with tiny tree balls, wired on.

Bottles are the beginnings of many interesting decorations too. They need not be especially attractive . . . you can make them so by covering them with pretty paper.

Use them as candle holders, vases for evergreen cuttings, or attach foam plastic "heads," which you can easily make . . . ot create a Santa Claus, an angel, or one of the Three Wise Men.

Thin aluminum pie tins may be clipped with ordinary designs. You can wrap a hat box like a drum . . . make big candles by rolling a piece of large cardboard and covering it. To form a flame, crinkle yellow or orange paper, attach with tape.

Teachers' Pays Are Due

Orlean Schools Short Of Funds

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature will find a way to pay New Orleans public school teachers, a leading segregationist legislator said Tuesday.

Rep. John Garrett, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, said at Baton Rouge: "The Legislature wants to see that the New Orleans teachers are paid. We know the vast majority are not in sympathy with school integration."

Garrett, who made his announcement on the eve of the reconvening of the 30-day special session, spoke after Dr. James Redmond, public school superintendent, said no money was in sight for the teachers' November checks.

Sen. Wendell Harris, a member of the State Sovereignty Commission, qualified Garrett's announcement by saying only teachers who teach in segregated schools will be paid.

Dismissals

Harris also said those who taught in the two integrated schools are subject to dismissal.

Dr. Redmond had urged Gov. Jimmie H. Davis to "rise above the noisy emotions of some state legislators" and make the money available.

Many teachers said the announcement of a payless November came as no surprise. The consensus seemed they would continue to work and eventually receive their salaries. Most teachers, attempting to avoid the segregation row, refused to comment.

Veteran teachers recalled the depression of the 1930s when they had been paid in scrip or bonds.

There were unconfirmed reports a group of local businessmen would advance $2 million for the teachers.

Nation Is Watching

"The nation is watching the State of Louisiana," Redmond said. "It has been made clear by state actions that Orleans Parish School Board officials cannot be considered responsible for this plight."

State banks, worried by legal claim and counterclaim, refused to loan $1.9 million to meet the monthly teacher payroll due Wednesday. The loan would have been made against future earmarked tax revenues. It is a normal procedure this time of year.

The legislature, fighting mad over federal-ordered integration of New Orleans schools last week, refused to make state money available. It didn't reply to telegraphed school board pleas last week.

The board squeezed by a $45,000 weekly maintenance payroll last Friday because a New Orleans bank, Whitney National, made available some deposited school funds. The state promptly moved to take state business away from the bank.

The payless payday will affect 4,500 teachers, principals and other school employes.

If it forces a shutdown of the city school system, 93,000 students will be affected.

The schools are closed in New Orleans this week while white and Negro teachers attend segregated state conventions in Baton Rouge.

The Louisiana Legislature resumes its current special session at Baton Rouge Wednesday. Parents of white children at William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 elementary schools—the two buildings integrated last week—plan a big demonstration before the legislature.

Pending is a ruling by a three-judge federal court on motions which would grant a recess to integration, and would upset all orders that forced school integration.

Garner Doesn't Expect Changes In White House

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner, 92 Tuesday, doesn't expect sweeping changes under the Kennedy-Johnson administration, but hopes it will compare with the Roosevelt-Garner team elected in 1932.

Although he shuns an active part in politics, Garner—the only man to hold the offices of speaker of the House and vice president in succession—has some advice for young politicians: "If you want to hold office, don't make any promises."

Garner said the only promise he made during 46 years in office was "I'll do the best I can."

The former vice president was plainly delighted at achieving his oft-expressed desire to live to be 92 so he could say he spent half his life in public service and half as a private citizen.

He chuckled happily as Cele Briscoe, 4, presented him with a cake trimmed in roses and bearing two candles. He laughed when the girl dipped her finger in the icing, licked it and turned to give him a kiss.

'Feel Young'

"God bless you," he said again and again to visitors. Most were residents of this southwest Texas town where Garner entered politics as a county judge when Grover Cleveland was president.

"You make me feel young again" he told members of a high school band which serenaded him with "Happy Birthday" in the driveway of his modest frame home.

Despite his snow-white, wispy hair and bushy eyebrows, Garner had a youthful air about him as he recalled his frequently tempestuous 38 years in Washington—a career that ended when he broke with Franklin D. Roosevelt over the issue of the latter's third term.

"I am the only man who ever walked from the most important office to one that doesn't amount to a hill of beans," Garner said of the day he swore in his successor as speaker of the House, then took the oath as vice president.

"The speaker of the House is second only to the president of the United States in service to our people," he said.

"The vice president is merely a waiting boy in case anything happens to the president, and you can't make anything else of it," he said. "President Roosevelt used to send me around the country and to places like the Hawaiian Islands, but it was just as a representative of the president."

Ike Hunts Quail Atop Mule Wagon

Eisenhower and a shooting partner, blasting away with shotguns bagged 15 of the game birds flushed into target range by outriders and hunting dogs during a 3½-hour morning hunt.

They returned to the fields in the afternoon to see if they could boost their total to the legal limit of 10 quail per man.

The President and his host, oilman W. Alton Jones, picnicked in sunny 75 degree weather on quail broiled over an open fire on Jones' 15,000-acre plantation.

Shortway Progress Is Noted

HARRISBURG (AP) — Substantial progress is being made on final design of the Keystone Shortway from White Deer, Union County, to Stroudsburg, Highways Secretary Park H. Martin reported Tuesday.

Martin said engineers are well advanced on the final design for the section of the road from the Tannersville Interchange with the Penn-Can Freeway.

He said right-of-way plans have been approved for two sections of this link in the shortway and it is proposed to ask for bids on these sections before the end of the year.

The secretary said this would bring the shortway to a connection with the Stroudsburg bypass which is under construction.

Many Clubbed And Arrested By Rampaging Congo Army

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu's victorious army roved through Leopoldville Tuesday, arresting and beating scores of United Nations officials in revenge for the death of their field commander in an all-night battle with U.N. soldiers.

With the Congo army attacking the official residence of Ghana, the world organization backed down on its pledge to protect the diplomatic immunity of Ghana's charge d'affaires, Nathaniel Welbeck, an ally of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba. Welbeck flew home on orders from Mobutu after the young colonel's soldiers had forced him from the residence that was guarded by the U.N. force.

Despite this setback, the United Nations reaffirmed its pledge to maintain order in the Congo. Machine gun units were posted at U.N. offices.

But U.N. officials fell victim to rampaging bands of Congolese soldiers. They were pulled from their cars and homes. Some were beaten savagely. One group returning late from a party — including three girls—was locked in a room all night by the soldiers. The group was released in the morning.

Twelve other U.N. officials were held throughout the day at Camp Leopold.

Despite his success in making good on the expulsion order against Welbeck, Mobutu faced the problem of subduing his rampaging soldiers, defying his orders to refrain from violence.

A U.N. spokesman said Mobutu, who is striving to maintain his role as the Congo's strong man, had issued orders to his men to halt the violence.

The United Nations found itself fighting the Congolese army after promising to protect the safety of all officials, Congolese and foreign, including Welbeck.

In the battle, one Tunisian U.N. soldier and at least four Congolese were killed. Eight Tunisians were wounded.

The acting head of the U.N. mission, Indian Brig. Indarjit Rikhye, announced that the United Nations is ready to continue carrying out its mandate to maintain law and order in the troubled nation.

But a question arose on how the United Nations could overcome the critical blows to its prestige during the past 24 hours.

Lumumba's fate was the next matter for concern to both Rikhye and Mobutu. The deposed premier remains entrenched in his official residence under a strong U.N. guard, and Mobutu assured Rikhye that he will not order any attack on the residence.

But neither Rikhye nor Mobutu seemed confident that unruly army elements, encouraged by Welbeck's departure, might not set out after Lumumba without orders.

A new 6 p.m. curfew was imposed on the tense city to prevent further outbreaks of violence. The U.N. ordered all staff members to remain in its headquarters compound throughout the day except on duty trips. Accommodation in the headquarters building was provided for officials living in outlying districts.

Welbeck first was declared unwelcome—persona non grata—by President Joseph Kasavubu in October. The U.N. Command said at that time it would not permit his expulsion by force. A diplomat declared persona non grata normally has no recourse but to leave the country, but Welbeck did not do so.

UN Assembly Gives Seat To Kasavubu

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly Tuesday night gave its vacant Congo seat to a delegation headed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

By a vote of 53-24 with 19 abstentions the assembly upheld a recommendation of its Credentials Committee that it seat Kasavubu.

The vote represented a victory for the United States and other Western supporters of Kasavubu, and a defeat for the Soviet bloc and a considerable number of Asian-African nations.

Just before the vote was taken the U.N.'s Asian-African conciliation Commission decided to delay its scheduled departure Tuesday night for Leopoldville on a peacemaking mission.

The decision to postpone the departure came after Kasavubu sent a letter to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold objecting to dispatch of the mission at this time to the violence-wracked Congo.

The assembly called upon Hammarskjold to disclose its contents, but he refused to do so on the grounds he received it not as secretary-general but as head of the U.N. Advisory Committee that decided to dispatch the Conciliation Commission.

Earlier the assembly beat down a last ditch attempt to adjourn debate pending a report from Hammarskjold on anti-U.N. violence in the Congo. Ghana made the move with support of the Soviet bloc.

The assembly voted 50-34 with 13 abstentions against a motion by Ghana Delegate J. E. Jantuah to adjourn the debate pending an official report from Hammarskjold. Jantuah said it was impossible to consider seating a government "whose militia has attacked the United Nations."

But U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth blamed Ghana for the violence.

Laos Premier To Seek Aid From Soviets

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said Tuesday his neutralist government will ask the Soviet Union for all the aid—economic, military or otherwise—it is willing to give.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander N. Abramov flew into Vientiane a few hours later and said his country will be "only too happy to oblige."

Souvanna told newsmen his hard-pressed government needs "all the aid we can get."

Asked if this would include military aid, he replied: "Yes, all the aid we can get. We are short of everything. Our goods are being held up by Thailand's blockade and we need everything."

Souvanna said he will evade the Thai blockade by flying the Soviet supplies in from the Communist North Vietnamese cities of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Regular channels through Thailand have been blocked since the Aug. 9 coup that put Souvanna into power. The Thai government has lifted the blockade for brief periods to let in emergency supplies of rice and gasoline.

Souvanna charges that American aid, poured into this Southeast Asian kingdom to the tune of $270 million since 1954, has been going in greater amounts lately to the rebel right-wing regime of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan in Savannakhet.

The U.S. Embassy here says the aid agreement is to supply the entire Laotian army, even though it is split between the general and the premier.

Phoumi is strongly opposed to any compromise with the third element in Laos' three-part internal struggle — the leftist Pathet Lao rebels, who have been fighting guerrilla skirmishes on and off for six years.

Soviet 'Copter Lands In West

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet helicopter apparently lost, plumped down near the U. S. Army headquarters in West Berlin Tuesday.

The machine was on the ground only a few minutes, according to a West Berlin police report. Then it took off and headed for Communist East German territory.

16th Annual Meeting

Borough Football Teams Clash Thursday Morning

WINLESS Stroud Union High School and East Stroudsburg High School meet Thursday morning at 10 at East Stroudsburg's Memorial Stadium in the 16th Annual Turkey Day Football game.

The Cavaliers, who enter the game with a 5-3-1 mark are heavy favorites. In its last outing, East Stroudsburg held unbeaten Nazareth to a 7-7 tie, while Stroud Union was losing to Northampton 73-7.

Some 4,000 fans are expected to watch the third meeting between Mountaineer coach Walt Bjorn and Jack Kist of East Stroudsburg. Kist has a one game edge on Bjorn in their brief series. Last year's game ended in a 6-6 tie.

Fellman Will Start

Cavalier quarterback Jack Fellman, who twisted an ankle against Port Jervis, was a doubtful starter but Kist said Tuesday night that Fellman will definitely start at quarterback but will do no punting or place kicking.

Harold (Mach 2) Myers, injured in the loss to Hellertown, will be the starting fullback. Myers is the club's leading scorer with 55 points and also tops the team in ground gaining.

Stroud Union, which will have only 22 men in uniform, mainly because of injuries, holds an 8-4 lead in the series, which began in 1945. Three games ended in ties.

Seats Left

There are very few reserved seats left for the game. The general admission sale has been moving briskly but there are still several hundred tickets available.

The stadium gates will open at 9 a.m. Both the parking lot at the stadium and the school parking lot behind Lehigh Valley Dairy, will be open. However, late arrivals are advised not to try to park in the stadium lot.

Fear 'Naked And Dead' Author Is Mentally Ill

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist Norman Mailer, 37, accused of stabbing his wife, was taken to Bellevue Hospital Tuesday for psychiatric observation. A physician said he appeared to be having a breakdown and was both homicidal and suicidal.

Felony Court Magistrate Reuben Levy ordered the mental examination after the author of the best seller "The Naked and the Dead" appeared in court on a felonious assault charge.

He is accused of stabbing his wife with a penknife during a party early Sunday. Mrs. Mailer, listed in critical condition, at first told physicians she was injured when she fell on broken glass.

Asst. Dist. Atty. William Reilly quoted a report by a Park Avenue psychiatrist in asking that Mailer be sent to Bellevue.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Conrad Rosenberg, said he believed the novelist was having an acute paranoid breakdown with delusional thinking.

Mailer challenged the medical report as "gratuitous and presumptuous."

"My pride is that as a sane man I can explore areas of experience that other men are afraid of," he told the magistrate. "I insist I am sane."

Mailer then went on to say that if he were sent to a mental institution "for the rest of my life my work will be considered the work of a man who has a distorted mind. The doctor only examined me for about 30 seconds. I was just looking down at my shoes and I felt depressed and it was all over."

New Polaris Submarine Launched At Groton Base

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The Navy's most powerful Polaris-missile submarine, which will have increased firing range, was launched Tuesday and had its first skirmish—with a group of pacifists.

Two of the pacifists swam to the nuclear-powered Ethan Allen and boarded it minutes after the gaily decorated craft slid down the ways into the Thames River. They were removed quickly.

The Ethan Allen, named for the American Revolutionary War hero, is the first of a new line of fleet ballistic missile subs that will have a firing range of 1,500 miles or more. It displaces 6,900 tons.

The $110 million craft, and the rest of her four sister ships, will carry the new A2 Polaris missile, which is expected to have a range up to 1,725 miles. The older subs have the 1,380-mile A1 Polaris.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a crowd of about 5,000 at the launching ceremony the United States must maintain and increase its military strength in all its forms.

Have Respect

"The Communist leaders have respect for only one thing—military power," he said. "I believe that the only effective restraint now or in the future on the leaders of the Kremlin and Peking is fear of the consequences in the exercise of military power."

The Ethan Allen's power will come from her 16 A2 missiles, each of which will carry an atomic payload. The A2, now undergoing testing at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is scheduled to become operational in 1962. A 2,875-mile model is planned for two years after that.

The two pacifists who boarded the Ethan Allen were William Henry, 27, of Lodi, Wis., and Donald Martin, 20, of Wellesley, Mass. They swam to the side of the 410-foot-long craft and climbed the bunting draped on the sides.

Earlier, Henry and Martin and seven other self-styled pacifists attempted unsuccessfully to interfere with the launching.

Riding two rowboats and a canoe, the demonstrators tried to enter the area directly in front of the ways at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., builder of the submarine. But two Navy and five Coast Guard vessels moved in and the pacifists were put aboard official boats.

The demonstrators had announced in advance they would seek to intervene in the ceremonies. They are members of the Committee for Nonviolent Aetion, which is protesting construction and use of Polaris submarines. The pacifists demonstrated repeatedly here in the last few months.

Henry, Martin and the seven others were arrested by officials and held for arraignment before federal authorities. Henry and Martin faced government trespassing charges, the others charges of violating a Coast Guard order closing the area near the launching site.

Kennedy Eases Activity Plans

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy relaxed Tuesday after putting off a Thanksgiving Eve labor meeting and taking a look into the Democratic party's depleted coffers.

But bearing down on the Massachusetts senator is the necessity of picking promptly the men who will serve under him in the highest posts in the White House and government departments. Eighty of these positions must be filled on a top-priority basis.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, said, though, that he doesn't know whether there will be a stream of announcements of appointments immediately after Thanksgiving. Kennedy has said there possibly would be none until early December.

Kennedy flies to Washington Wednesday afternoon and back here Thursday night, after spending Thanksgiving Day with his wife and daughter Caroline. Caroline will be 3 Sunday and the celebration of her birthday is being moved up to Thursday so he can take part.

Originally Kennedy had planned to meet with President George Meany and other AFL-CIO leaders after his return to Washington.

But Wilson said a Thanksgiving Eve session was proving to be awkward because it involved bringing in leaders, some from outlying parts of the country, who would have to miss the holiday with their families.

So by mutual agreement, Wilson said, the meeting was postponed until sometime after Meany returns from a trip to Europe.

Kennedy met with Matthew McCloskey of Philadelphia, the finance director of the Democratic National Committee. Wilson said they discussed the state of party finances, which are none too good after a costly campaign.

Nanticoke Trooper Dies

MONTOURSVILLE, Pa. (AP) —A veteran state policeman killed himself with his service revolver in the barracks here Tuesday, his commanding officer reported.

Cpl. Henry Gorka, 45, a native of Nanticoke, was found in his room by fellow policemen about 1:30 p.m. when they looked for him to go on patrol.

Capt. John C. Grey said Gorka, who transferred here from Coudersport a month ago, had been despondent and told fellow officers he was in ill health.

Gorka had been seeing a doctor in Coudersport, Grey added.

Good Morning!

New Experiment

Zoo Visits Children

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It was like no school bus anybody had ever seen before. Instead of wearing the sober orange color of the orthodox bus, this one was bedecked with sportive animal figures.

And the way the driver was behaving, giving his cap a raffish tilt and calling out: "Hey, you animals, stop acting like a bunch of kids."

He wasn't kidding.

In the back of the bus were a cockatoo, a chimpanzee, two small monkeys, a kangaroo, a rabbit, a skunk, a boa constrictor and a baby llama.

The bus was bound from the zoo to a junior high school. At the wheel was William Maloney, superintendent of the special section for children at the zoo. With him were several helpers.

It was the kickoff of an experiment based on the idea that if you can't get the kids to the zoo, take the zoo to the kids. It has the approval of the School Board's Division of Audio-Visual Education, working with the Zoological Society.

Once the lively cargo was delivered, the pupils were freed from regular classes into a special assembly. Howls of joy greeted the animals' appearance on stage, especially when the llama was let loose, the skunk allowed to scamper about, and the kangaroo brought front and center to show how its young are carried in a pouch.

The novel program lasted an hour. The first half was strictly live, the second pictorial. Movies showed lions, tigers, elephants and other animals not easily brought into a school assembly.

The zoo-to-school program—acclaimed a big success—will start officially on Dec. 1. Officials said it is booked solidly for every school day until the end of February.

Bonn Refuses To Give Aid On Upkeep Of U.S. Troops

BONN, Germany (AP) — U. S.-West German economic talks became deadlocked Tuesday night over a Bonn government refusal to contribute $600 million immediately toward the upkeep of American troops in this country.

The West Germans argued they would not deliver such a sum on short notice.

Britain was reported planning to make similar demands on the prosperous Germans.

U.S. economic negotiators temporarily brushed aside German offers of increased outlays for foreign aid, which would not release dollars to help the declining gold position of the U.S. Treasury.

The Americans maintained that Washington's balance of payments troubles can best be solved by a healthy German contribution to the annual $700 million cost of maintaining U.S. forces here on the edge of the Iron Curtain.

All told, the Americans are said to want nearly $1.5 billion from Bonn at once to pay for troops and aid the West's program to help underdeveloped countries. The Germans are offering about $1 billion—spread over four years.

As for the troop costs, the Germans offered to pay about one-quarter of the $600 million request and would prefer instead to pay a larger share of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense costs, informants said.

The talks continue for another day, and the U.S. team then goes on to Paris and London for similar discussions.

Charges Pressure Against Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Government Information subcommittee said Tuesday it has evidence that Civil Defense Director Leo A. Hoegh pressured the Army last August to suppress a scientific report on deficiencies in the nation's air raid warning system.

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss, (D-Calif.,) noted that earlier this month Hoegh denied a statement that the report had been suppressed by the Army because of Civil Defense pressure. But, Moses said, the subcommittee has a Hoegh letter urging the suppression.

There was no new comment from Hoegh.

Dud Bomb Sent To Clark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A secretary in disc jockey Dick Clark's office unwrapped a package which appeared to contain a homemade bomb yesterday but detectives quickly found it to be a dud.

The package was obviously the work of a crank, Detective Lt. Howard Dando and Postal Inspector Joseph J. McNabb Jr. said.

Wrapped in brown paper, it was postmarked from New York and delivered to Clark's office while he was or the American Bandstand television show which has made him an idol of the teenagers.

Investigators said the mechanism inside the package had all the appearances of an explosive but did not contain any powder.

Dando and McNabb said the investigation will be continued to try to determine the identity of the sender.

The PTA meeting was held Tuesday, Nov. 15, with ten members and one guest present. A Thanksgiving prayer was spoken by E. G. Wentworth. A letter from Mrs. Mabel Dotey was read in which she thanked the members for their gift of luggage, given her in appreciation of her years of service to the school. Plans for the coming Christmas party were discussed and the Cub Scouts delegated to make favors for the tables. The PTA plans to give as yet unchosen film strips to the school for Christmas. Mrs. Ryder's room won the attendance banner. The next meeting will be held Feb. 21, 1961, which will be Founders' Day.

And speaking of cats, Frances Myck has by all odds the most unusual female cat I have ever heard of. This cat is now two years old and to date has produced but one male kitten. Of course, our Dingman's cats are a highly literate group of felines. This may be her response to the current debate on the population explosion.

Dear Abby

No Rest For The Weary

Dear Abby: I drive a trailer truck for long-distance hauling. I came in off the road after a 2,200 - mile trip and the first thing my wife said was, "Let's go for a ride."

I tried to explain that I wasn't in the mood but she said she didn't care, that she and the kids hadn't been out of the house for nine days and she wanted to get out a little. Do you think I should have taken her for a ride?

TEED OFF

Dear Teed: You should have. But not then.

Dear Abby: I am writing to you with the desperate hope that you can help us with our daughter, who is 11. She is a petit mal epileptic and fairly well controlled by medicine. She is mentally and physically mature beyond her years and is exceptionally talented musically. But she is on the verge of being expelled from public school because she is absent almost every other day. She fakes illness and comes home constantly. We know she does this because she fears the humiliation of having an epileptic seizure before her classmates, although this has never happened. We can't help her at home, Abby. Is there a place we can send her for treatment, education and rehabilitation with experts in this field? We aren't rich but we would mortgage everything we own to help her.

DESPERATE MOTHER

Dear Mother: Write to the Federal Association for Epilepsy, 1729 F Street N. W., Washington, D. C. The Association sponsors the National Children's Rehabilitation Center for epileptics who, for one reason or another, cannot be educated in public schools. The Center admits children from seven to 16 years of age. The fee for your child will be based on your husband's income and family obligations.

Dear Abby: Why did you tell that woman she shouldn't shake her dust mop out the window? If it saves her walking down a flight of stairs and going out to the back yard, I can't see what's wrong with it. If she were my neighbor, I'd say, "Shake it my way, Dearie." I'm for anything that saves work.

"PRACTICAL"

Dear Abby: I see by your column that you are against secretaries going to lunch or dinner with their bosses. How about a salesman entertaining a lady buyer?

I am a salesman, and you know, Ab, a salesman has to sell himself first, and there is no better way to do it than to invite the lady buyer out for a nice lunch or dinner and talk business over a cocktail or two. It doesn't cost me anything because my firm figures this is the cost of doing business. There is nothing shady about it. It's fun for the lady and profitable for the salesman, so why knock it?

NUMBER ONE SALESMAN

Dear Number: A salesman may want to "sell himself"—but all he has to deliver is the product. "A Number One Salesman" doesn't need joy juice to sell anything.

Last British Governor Leaves Nigeria For Home

JACK GELINAS

LAGOS, NIGERIA —Recently Sir James Robertson, Governor-General of the Federation of Nigeria sailed aboard the m.s. Aureol for England, and retirement. He was the last British Governor of the Federation.

Sir James first assumed this role in the Queen's service in 1955, when he was brought out of retirement and handed the huge task of directing Nigeria, each step of the way, to her rightful place among free nations of the world.

His career as British civil servant has been a long one. For eight years he had served as Civil Secretary in the Sudan. He also saw service in Ethiopia.

Liked Him

The Nigerians liked him. In fact, they asked him to stay on in his capacity of Governor-General after independence, to fill the interim until such time as their own Governor-General designate took office.

And today is that day. In a few hours ceremonies will begin on the Lagos Racecourse, which will see the first African ever to be made Governor-General take the Oaths of Office. His name is Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe. The famous "Zik" is probably Africa's best-known campaigner against Colonial rule — but today he becomes the Queen's direct representative.

Dr. "Zik" is former president of the NCNC, the political bastion of the Ibo Eastern Region. He stepped down from politics to assume the status of Governor-General. This is significant. It is probably the most telling of all symbols of — or future indications of — Nigerian unity. It certainly will do much to further balance the more predominate elements of the vast North and the NPC, the party of the Fulani aristocracy.

Son Of Poor Clerk

He was born in 1904, the son of a poor clerk. By the time he was 20 he 'knew' he was 'destined' to agitate for changes. But first he had to get an education. He left Africa to get it. He earned degrees at two American Universities (University of Pennsylvania and Lincoln University), and was an instructor in political science at one of them. When he returned from America ten years later, he had been a boxer, miner, dishwasher and elevator-operator.

He returned to Nigeria and made money, started newspapers, became Premier of his native Eastern Region. He fought bitter fights with internal rivals, but always the main fight was against the principle of Colonial rule. As the leader of the Nationalist movement his themes were simple: Denunciation of imperialism and campaigning for Nigerian unity.

That is why his acceptance of the Governor-Generalship now means so much in terms of a united Nigeria. He is no longer the agitator and campaigner. He has become the father figure.

Erie-Lacka. RR E!-cts McInnes

NEW YORK (AP) — Milton G. McInnes, 55, Tuesday was elected president of the newly-merged Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

McInnes, who has been executive vice president, succeeds Harry W. von Willer, 64. The road said von Willer resigned voluntarily because of health. He will continue as chairman of the board.

McInnis has been with the Erie since 1930, starting as a dock clerk in the road's freight house in New York after getting out of college.

The railroad reported it had a net loss of $954,281 for October. It was the first earnings statement of the new road, a combination of the Erie and the Delaware & Western.

The figure reflects 16 days of independent operations as separate railroads and 15 days of joint operation. The merger took place Oct. 17.

Thanksgiving Day

Most of us look forward to Thanksgiving Day as a time for family gatherings, turkey dinners, football games and possibly a trip to some distant place during the school recess and work holiday.

Actually, however, the day has a much deeper meaning. As its name implies, it is a day for giving solemn thanks for a bountiful harvest and other blessings that have come to us during the past year.

That is not to say that the gaiety we have long associated with Thanksgiving Day is wrong. It does mean that each of us, in our individual way, should devote some period of the day to offering up thanks to the Almighty in grateful appreciation for sparing our lives and letting us enjoy the greatest freedoms and other rich blessings that any people have ever experienced.

But, as President Eisenhower cautions, let us not forget the less fortunate peoples of other lands on this great American holiday.

"I urge my fellow Americans," he said in a proclamation, "to support and assist the efforts which we as a nation, working individually and in cooperation with other nations, are directing toward the solution of the world food problem . . .

"Let us hope that some day, under a benevolent providence and through the best use of the world's God-given resources, each nation will have reason to celebrate its own Thanksgiving Day."

Governor Lawrence has also called upon us to share our abundance with the less fortunate people of the earth.

Significantly, he points out that the "celebration was initiated by the Pilgrim Fathers as a fitting and appropriate demonstration of our belief in the power and magnanimity of God and our gratitude for the growth of our nation and the natural abundance we enjoy."

Let us not forget this spirit of thanksgiving tomorrow as we observe the holiday with our family reunions, feasting and relaxation through sports and other events.

Chickens Come Home To Roost

President Eisenhower's order to curb U.S. spending abroad is less important for what it does than for what it says.

For what it says—painfully, reluctantly and shamefuly—is that a generation's reckless fiscal policies have at last presented their harsh bill.

The United States is now reduced to the little strategems of an improvident householder trying to stave off the bill collector. The American dollar, once our pride and our strength, must now be propped up, even at the cost of begging from the very nations we made rich.

Thus, the order to bring home the wives and children of servicemen overseas; we can no longer afford to keep them. Henceforth the military stores must "Buy American;" and so must our foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, which was founded, ironically, to pour American dollars abroad.

Missions overseas must be curtailed. And finally we must plead with Britain, Japan, West Germany and others not only to buy American themselves but to come to our rescue with foreign aid programs of their own.

The dollar remains a major currency of the world and its value, though shaken, still holds. There is a crisis only in the sense that we have come to a turning point, a decisive moment in which the illness can go one way or the other.

But make no mistake about that. No government would make the kind of statement about its currency that was made by the President unless it was compelled to do so by the force of events; Mr. Eisenhower himself said that it had been carefully considered for weeks. The U.S. dollar hangs in the balance between the preservation of its value and its devaluation.

And make no mistake in thinking that the small steps taken will alone preserve the balance; at the most they will "save" a billion dollars, and that only in time.

The ailment is rooted in basic fiscal policies of many years' duration and it can be cured only by basic fiscal policies, and that means the policies of the incoming Administration. We are going to have to cut deeply into all our spending, foreign and domestic.

The lesson of all this is an ancient one—no nation, however rich, can go on forever, abusing its financial resources with profligacy. When it does, no man can name the day but any man can be certain that one day the chickens will come home to roost.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Scared Canadians

should war occur again, it will be necessary for the United States to defend Canada from conquest.

A nation with a total population no greater than that of New York State and with an industrial establishment no greater than that of Czechoslovakia cannot hope to defend itself in a modern war. Nor can it remain neutral because it is the easiest access to the United States and therefore an enemy of the United States would wisely seek to knock out Canada first.

The first battles in an attack upon the United States by Soviet Russia or Red China or both are likely to be over Canada. The logistics of war require that both countries act as one and geography has so made it that Canada has no alternative.

Some jittery Canadians, recognizing the peril of such a situation, believe that they can solve this problem by becoming either neutral or anti-American. Were Americans to withdraw their investments from Canada, because of Canadian opposition to the United States, it could be a sorry day for both countries.

What elicits these remarks is an article by Hugh MacLennan in the Toronto "Star Weekly," which, I should say, is as unfriendly an utterance against this country as I have yet seen anywhere. Addressing the President of the United States, MacLennan says:

"It may not surprise you, Mr. President, but it will certainly surprise most of your countrymen, to be told that at the moment the United States is considered a greater threat to world peace than Russia. Such a statement, I suppose, would make me suspected of communism in many quarters. Yet it is a plain fact. Ask almost any foreigner."

This is not taken out of context. It is a bold statement, literally untrue but believed apparently by its author, who says further:

"It is impossible for the rest of mankind to accept a policy which says, in effect, that the whole human past and future must perish merely because two giant countries with big bombs refused to speak to each other save in terms of violent abuse.

"When the giant who is our friend (we admit he has been sorely provoked) says in effect: 'We will blow up ourselves and everyone near us rather than permit Russia to become the most powerful nation in the world,' we weak outsiders tremble."

Does MacLennan prefer that we say that as an extension of the Marxist-Leninist theory of world conquest, the United States capitulate to Soviet Russia and become a satellite like Poland or East Germany?

For that clearly is what every ruler of Communist Russia, Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev, has held to be necessary. I think that McLennan does mean that because he believes that in the next war, all would be wiped out.

He holds that he, quoting Lester Pearson, would "choose to live under Russia and then try to work to improve the situation."

This is precisely where we must differ. From the general character of Mac Lennan's article, it is possible to recognize that he is not familiar with the of world conquest.

The literature on the subject is voluminous and one needs only to study the subject. But the Canadian assumes that during the past 10 years, the Russian purpose has been modified, all evidence to the contrary notwithstanding. He says:

". . . the Moscow conspiracy is already beginning to founder on the familiar rocks of nationalism. Tito broke with Moscow years ago. China, which many Americans seem to regard as a mere extensive of Soviet power, is already beginning to snarl at Russia . . ."

Unfortunately the record shows that Yugoslavia votes regularly with Soviet Russia in the United Nations, From this practical manifestation of Marxist unity, it is obvious that whereas there are differences between Khrushchev and Tito, Marxist unity is not diluted.

As for the ideological quarrel between Khrushchev and Mao Tze-tung over the question as to whether war is essential to the universal success of Marxism the record establishes that this is an inner schism between fundamentalist Marxists and revisionist Marxists but that it does not affect either country's relations to non-Marxist countries.

It is unfortunate that the Canadian people are not better informed about the current situation than this article would indicate.

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

WHILE WE are in the throes of a joyous Thanksgiving Day celebration, it would be a good thing to stop and think what kind of emergency housing would be set up in case of a national disaster.

Plans are underway for a session which will deal with housing as an essential national resource and will include provision for repair and alteration of existing structures, procurement of mobile-type housing, and the erection of new buildings under emergency programs.

Emphasis at the conference which will be held in Baltimore will be on housing as a resource and not on emergency lodging problems.

Resource, as described by Webster's Dictionary, means "A new or reserve source of supply or support; possibility of relief or recovery; or to which one turns in absence of usual means or source of supply."

What it means in simplier words — Let's get ready and be able to meet the situation.

Probably no one has thought of the possible flood of travelers into the Poconos if New York City or Philadelphia happened to be a target of the enemy. It's only a stone's throw from these two metropolitan areas and our vast mountainside offers a better outlook for those who are forced to suffer the troubles of the enemy's barrage.

The Maryland conclave will bring together expert housing minds of Federal, State and Local government agencies. It will be a sincere, thought provoking meeting of officials, including Pennsylvania moguls. You can bet survival will be uppermost in their thoughts.

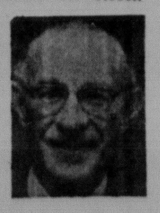
Despite our so-called resort area tag, the Poconos will be in for a great amount of conservation in the emergency housing program.

After all, what better facilities could be offered to distressed cities and areas.

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

A new United Nations commemorative stamp honoring the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development will be issued on Dec. 9 by the UN Postal Administration.



The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (often called the World Bank) was founded at the Economic Conference held at Bretton Woods in July 1944 and began operations in June 1946. Its aim is to assist the economic development of its member countries and so raise the standards of living of the peoples of the world.

The bank may lend to member governments, governmental agencies or private enterprises; if the borrower is not a government, the guarantee of the member government concerned is required for the loan.

The bank's membership consists of the governments of 68 counties, which are the Bank's stockholders, each subscribing to its capital stock in accordance with their economic strength.

The bank makes loans out of its own resources in cases where private capital is not available on reasonable terms. The bank's first loans, made in 1947, were for European postwar reconstruction — a total of $500 million was lent by the bank for this purpose.

In 1948, the bank turned to lending for development, an increasing proportion of its funds being directed to the less-developed areas of the world. By June 1960, the bank had made 257 loans totalling over $5 billion to finance more than 600 projects in 52 countries or territories.

The bank's loans are mainly directed to helping its member countries to build the foundations of economic growth. Approximately one-third of the bank's development lending has been for electric power and has helped to finance the addition of over 11 million kilowatts to the world's generating capacity.

Another third has been for transport improvement — railways, highways, air and waterways. The remaining third of the bank's loans has been for steel production; and for general development purposes.

The stamps to be issued honoring the International Bank will be printed in sheets of 50 in both the 4c and 8c denominations by the Government Printing Bureau, Tokyo, Japan, in quantities of 3,000,000 and 2,750,000 respectively.

The Allen-Scott Report

Senate Rule Reform

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President-elect John Kennedy is being asked to throw his full weight behind a bipartisan drive for sweeping changes in the Senate rules and procedures.

A determined group of liberal Democratic and Republican senators, now secretly mapping strategy for the January battle, have agreed informally to seek Senator Kennedy's backing for:

Passage of a committee "bill of rights" designed to restrict the tremendous power that committee chairmen now wield over legislation;

The bipartisan group, that includes Democratic Senators Paul Douglas, Ill., Joseph Clark, Pa., Philip Hart, Mich., and Republican Senators Jacob Javits, N. Y., and Clifford Case, N. J., will meet next month with President-elect Kennedy to warn him that the success of much of his legislative program will depend on whether their proposed rule changes are enacted at the outset of the new Congress.

The Senators will tell Kennedy that their survey shows that without his help they can muster only 36 votes, or 15 less than is needed to pass their sweeping rules changes.

However, if the proposals are supported by him, they can gain the backing of a majority of 28 "undecided" senators who hold the votes needed for passage. Their survey shows that in addition to the "undecided" senators there are 36 members who are opposed to any rule changes and their opposition cannot be altered regardless of what Kennedy does.

Russian Roulette — Already, the bipartisan group has begun circulating their proposed rule changes to the "undecided" senators with a strong appeal for support that reads as follows:

"When the 87th Congress convenes, we will be faced immediately with the problem of what changes should be made in the Rules of the Senate.

"The great difficulty which we had in passing needed legislation in the 86th Congress clearly points up the archaic and undemocratic rules and procedures under which we attempt to legislate.

"There is no other legislative body in the free world as incapable of action, when action is desired by a large majority but strongly resisted by a minority, as the Senate of the United States.

"We will be playing Russian Roulette with our national survival if we do not set our house in order before the next President presents his State of the Union Message?

"Clearly it would be most helpful if substantial bipartisan support were available for many, if not all, of these proposed changes. In any event, we would be happy to receive any comments on these proposals which you might care to make."

Bill of Rights — The bipartisan group's proposed committee "bill of rights" calls for new Senate rules that authorize a majority of each committee to (1) convene meetings; (2) set agendas, and (3) limit debate. In nearly all instances, these powers now belong to the committee chairman.

The plan also provides that a committee may meet during Senate sessions if a majority of its members approve.

Other major changes being proposed by the senators include:

Limitation of individual speeches of senators to three hours except those approved by unanimous consent;

Prohibition of speeches that are not germane to the legislation or subject being considered by the Senate;

The senators are advocating that the fight to outlaw the filibuster be made on the day the 87th Congress convenes. They propose that Senate Rule 22 be amended to provide that a majority of the senators can vote to limit debate after 15 hours. At present, a two-thirds vote of senators present and voting is required.

Unusual trends — Running counter to the usual Washington trend, the workload of one regulatory agency — the Federal Power Commission — may soon begin to shrink noticeably. By deciding that natural gas, when sold by independent producers, is a commodity and not a utility, the FPC erected a new price-setting mechanism that will make its job vastly easier. Producers price will now be figured on an area basis, rather than on a company-to-company basis. Stacks of pending rate filings by independent producers —running at 3,300 or nine-tenths of all pending rate cases—are now due for fast handling and settlement.

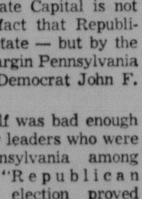
The Internal Revenue Service has eased regulations regarding extension of time for filing returns. If you have a really good reason, the odds are better than 50-50 that you can obtain an extension.

Inside You And Yours

Dear Doctor

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Dear Doctor: What's the difference between a symptom and a disease?



Mrs. T. R.

Dear Mrs. T. R.: Fever is a symptom. It may stem from an infected kidney, pneumonia or just a plain cold.

Drugs can cure the infection and pneumonia. They only relieve cold symptoms — until it goes away.

Some symptoms shouldn't be controlled. Without a cough, every cold would turn into pneumonia.

Dear Doctor: What is chemical balance in the human body?

Mrs. H. W.

Dear Mrs. W.: The body is a chemical bank. When input equals outgo your balance doesn't change. A positive balance means a growing reserve. A sinking balance is called "negative."

In the red or in the blue, you can still be in the pink—until your balance grows too high or too low.

Examination Needed

Dear Doctor: My husband has been coughing up blue phlegm for years. Should he have a chest Xray?

MRS. E. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Yes, if you want to find out what's wrong, a complete medical examination, too!

Patches Around Eye

Dear Doctor: Yellowish blister-like patches are developing around my eye. What can I do to make them disappear?

Mrs. A. S.

Too Much Fat?

You may have so much fat in the bloodstream that some has to settle out. The eyelids are a favorite spot for new settlers. Perhaps you eat too many fats, or perhaps you inherited the tendency to have lots of fat in the bloodstream.

Try eating less fat. Ask your doctor about removing these yellowish patches with "trichloracetic acid." He may even suggest surgery.

The Pennsylvania Story

GOP Problem

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg—Thanksgiving Day 1960 — and indications are that a critical shakeup may well be brewing within the Republican organization in Pennsylvania.

For Keystone State Republicans who have little to be thankful for at the moment, the rumble is a blowoff from the awkward and somewhat disastrous defeat suffered in the presidential runoff earlier in the month.

What has sent blood pressures boiling within top party circles here in the State Capital is not so much the fact that Republicans lost the state — but by the 130,000-vote margin Pennsylvania turned in for Democrat John F. Kennedy.

The loss itself was bad enough to top party leaders who were counting Pennsylvania among the so-called "Republican states." The election proved conclusively otherwise.

It also demonstrated to chieftains at long last the fact that something is wrong in their internal makeup — a fact recognized by most observers here for some time!

It is generally conceded now that Republicans were in effect, engulfed by their own wave of over-zealous "hopeful" optimism.

Effectively rubbed off by the Nov. 8 showdown, Republican leaders now are gearing for the 1962 gubernatorial race — which is bringing to a head the rumbles of the past several months.

To win two years hence they know they have no choice other than to produce a candidate distinctly other than run-of-the-mill. The trend, regardless of the degree in which viewed, was fairly well scrawled two weeks ago — and not in the Republican direction!

Most Republican leaders now are willing to concede this point. Others will not. Therein lies the conflict — and the base for the shakeup that appears to be in the offing.

One school of thought [illegible] the Kennedy sweep of the Keystone State was an almost [illegible] itable "personality fluke" — one which has little chance of recurring for quite some time to come.

The other contends the size of the sweep and the down the line loss of state and local offices is an outright warning and indication of where the Republican Party in Pennsylvania is heading.

Republican State Chairman George Bloom seemingly struck the nail fairly well on the proverbial head the other day—and in so doing underscored the "anxious blow up point" GOPsters have reached — when he commented:

"We are in a struggle to regain power in an age when the weight of the voting population is shifting predominately to the big, sprawling cities. We cannot match our opposition, and meet the real problems of these cities, if we refuse to alter our concepts of political organizations which we inherited from the era when the Court House was supreme."

Mr. Bloom — inadvertently perhaps — seemingly brought out that which too many GOPsters over recent years simply have refused to recognize: the fact that times have changed but the party has not; a fact long recognized by their counterparts on the Democratic side who today are in the saddle while Republicans are still trying to get their foot in the stirrup!

The big city vote of Philadelphia unquestionably has gone to pot — for Pennsylvania Republicans, that is — as the Nov. 8 vote should clearly indicate even to the ancient hard-headed GOP nincompoops in the big city who still insist "it isn't so!"

Thanksgiving Day 1960 most certainly is not very thanksgiving insofar as Keystone State Republicans are concerned — and at their rate of fumbling at the moment, it may not be in 1961!

Criticizes Critic

Mr. Robert Clark,
City Editor
The Daily Record
Dear Bob:

I've thought of a way to make the "punishment fit the crime" in the case of your coy correspondent, who characterized Stroudsburg's thin Maroon line as "gutless twerps."

If you can ferret out the hiding place of this spineless scrivener, just fit him out with a uniform on Thanksgiving Day and let him expose his tender hide to the ministrations of Messrs. Stann, Patella, Houck, Metzgar, et al.

Seriously, Bob, a guy who expresses such rot obviously never played the game, let alone suffered through the endless torment of a losing season.

It takes a special kind of guts to show up Saturday after Saturday to take an appalling beating, hoping only to salvage enough of a squad to show up for the next game.

I think every one of those kids who toughed out the season should have a special medal struck for him, along with all the honors usually bestowed on an all-winning team, and, though an ardent Cavalier rooter, I hope they play 'way over their heads on Thursday and give Jack Kist's boys a whale of a battle.

Bridge Opening Depends On Tests

A WAITING PERIOD in which time testings will be made, is all that remains prior to the opening of the new Broad St. bridge, Stroudsburg.

Waiting Period

A spokesman at the work site said that after concrete is poured, a waiting period is necessary to determine the strength of the concrete.

It usually is several weeks time before any definite decision can be made regarding whether the bridge can be opened or not.

Employment In Monroe Industries Up

HARRISBURG— The number of workers employed in Monroe County manufacturing industries climbed over 400 during the past year to a total work force of 4493, a State Department of Internal Affairs industrial survey of the county showed.

The number of manufacturing plants in the county also increased, climbing from 90 to 98, which in itself reflected the increase in manufacturing employment from 4083 to 4493—an upswing of 410 workers.

Major manufacturing industries in Monroe County last year, based on employment, were: apparel, fabricated metal products, cigarette and cigar lighters, printing and publishing, textile mills, electrical machinery, non-electrical machinery and leather products.

$17,533,300 Payroll

Payrolls of these 98 manufacturing establishments amounted to $17,533,300 with the fabricated metal products industry paying 20 percent of the total. Compared with 1958 wages and salaries were up by $2,526,300.

Total value of production in the county stood at $50,432,400 —up from the '1958 figure of $43,106,200.

Stroudsburg— 1204 employes; wages and salaries, $4,663,200; value of production, $14,233,900; leading industry (by employment), non-electrical machinery.

East Stroudsburg — 1902 employes; wages and saladies, $8,419,500; value of production, $25,015,400; leading industry fabricated metal products.

Westbrooks Speak At E-burg High

Peter Westbrook spoke to John Eckert's 11th grade English Class at East Stroudsburg High School yesterday morning, sharing with them some of his experiences in Italy this summer. Since many of the boys in the class will be entering the Armed Services after graduation, he spoke primarily of the advantages of Italy as a place for foreign service.

Among them he listed a perfect climate, good food, pro-American people, and the fact that American money goes a long way in Italy. Train travel is cheap and good, bus travel is cheap but crowded, plane travel is fast and inexpensive.

He described some of his own adventures on a motor scooter and some of the sports events—notably the sports car races at Modena.

"Italy has some of the world's best drivers," he said, adding that they have to be to stay alive with Italian traffic the way it's run.

Mrs. Horace Westbrook, his mother, also spoke, outlining some of the historical background of places within easy reaching distance of the American naval base at Naples and the army base at Livorno.

ESSC Junior Will Attend Mfg. Congress

HAROLD Palastas, a junior at East Stroudsburg State College, will attend the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Assn. Congress as guest of the Monroe County Mfg. Assn.

A resident of Moscow, Pa., he is a graduate of North Pocono Joint School District.

In New York

The PMA Congress will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, December 7, 8 and 9. Attendance, made up of the nation's leading industrialists, usually exceeds 3,000.

Pennsylvania will be represented at the 66th annual congress by a delegation of four educators and six students. The group will attend as guests of PMA and six of its affiliated local associations.

Educators in the delegation will be Ossian MacKenzie, of Penn State Univ.; Dr. Albert L. Bell, of Franklin and Marshall College; Bertha P. Boyd, president of Pennsylvania State Education Assn.; and William B. Herbein, superintendent of schools, Berks County.

CAB Seen Faulty, Scanty

WASHINGTON (AP)—A firm of outside consultants said Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board fritters away too much of its time and resources.

Reporting on a six-month study ordered by the Budget Bureau, McKinsey & Co. Inc. of Washington said it found that the agency's organization was faulty and its planning was scanty. It said the board should have seven instead of five members and badly needs a top level policy and planning staff.

The five CAB commissioners and the 750 staff workers regulate and promote the airline industry.

"Denial of Justice"

McKinsey said the board takes so long to decide air fare and route cases that there has been "denial of justice in some cases and economic losses in others."

Also, it said the board should be more aggressive in developing research programs directed toward the prevention of future air tragedies. It said work in this direction is hampered by the amount of manpower required to investigate past accidents.

On this point, the consultant group said 80 per cent more manpower is needed to investigate an accident involving a turbo-prop or jet plane than is the case with piston-driven aircraft.

Report Submitted

The report was submitted to the Budget Bureau and the CAB, which will decide what action may be necessary. The cost of the study hasn't been determined but is not to exceed $53,200.

Noting the heavy backlog of unfinished business facing the board, McKinsey said the CAB has failed to make full use of its staff. The report said board members spend less than 1 per cent of their time in giving administrative direction to the staff.

One-Day Off For PV Students

PLEASANT Valley Joint School System will enjoy only a one-day holiday for Thanksgiving. While most schools are off until Monday, Pleasant Valley students will return to their classes Friday.

School will shutdown today at 3 p.m. and reopen Friday at the regular time.

Bucks Indicts

A BUCKS County grand jury Monday indicted Edward B. Boyer, chairman of the county commissioners, on 19 counts of extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

Each charges Boyer with obtaining $150 from Elmer C. Vauso, owner of Butch's Market and Auction in Trevos and Butch's Bristol Market.

Water Co. Installs 10-Inch Main

INSTALLATION of a 10-inch water main to south Stroudsburg via Broad St., bridge and under the new Thruway route has been completed by the Stroudsburg Water Co. The 10-inch line replaces an 8-inch main now serving the area.

William A. Curnow, manager of the company, reported yesterday that the 10-inch main is the first of two lines eventually feeding the Stroudsburg southern sector.

He reported that the 8-inch line will be discontinued temporarily while work on the Seventh St. Bridge is completed by the Thruway constructors. The new line will be used while old one is discontinued.

To Be Reinstalled

When all the work is completed on the Thruway in the area, the 8-inch line will be reinstalled to join the 10-inch main in supplying the residents.

Curnow also reported that the water company has installed more than 17,000 feet of new mains in the area during the past year.

Water through the new main will be turned on sometime next week, Curnow reported.

Urges Building Up Sub Fund

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A candidate for president of the United Steelworkers suggested Tuesday that a wage hike due steelworkers on Dec. 1 be used to bolster the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits (SUB) fund.

Donald C. Rarick said part of the wage hike could be used to build up the SUB fund so that payments to unemployed steelworkers can be restored to normal.

Rarick suggested the USW's International Executive Board hold an emergency meeting to study the possibility of reopening negotiations with steel companies to reallocate money earmarked for the wage hike.

He said that the money could be diverted to the SUB fund only so long as large numbers of steelworkers are laid off.

Steel Spills, Blocks 4 Lanes

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A truckload of steel spilled onto the highway blocked all four lanes of the Pennsylvania Turnpike for an hour early Tuesday. The tractor-trailer upset three miles east of the Norristown Interchange.

The tractor-trailer scraped a bridge abutment, swerved across the eastbound lanes and overturned on the medial strip. The back wheels came off, and another tractor-trailer ran into them, increasing the confusion.

Clarence Klinger, 29, of Sacramento, Schuylkill County, Pa., whose rig carried the steel, was treated for minor injuries in Montgomery Hospital. The other driver, Nelson Heims, 49, of New Freedom, York County, was not hurt.

Anyone Lose Transit? Phone E-burg

ANYONE lose a transit? The East Stroudsburg Police Dept. has one—and frankly, they'd like to get rid of it.

It was found lying beside King St. by Connie Fox last Wednesday or Thursday. She didn't get around to turning it over to police until yesterday, however.

One police spokesman said that the instrument, used in surveying, appears to be valuable. It apparently fell from a truck, the spokesman added.

At Headquarters

Anyone who has lost such an instrument may claim it by making proper identification at East Stroudsburg police headquarters in the Municipal Building. Inquiries may be made by calling HAmilton 1-5500.

Return Investment

STUDIES SHOW that an investment of $300 spent to insulate a house properly with mineral wool will be paid off in heat savings alone within three to five years if the insulation is correctly installed.

Colonial Home Displays Outstanding Features

THROUGH the years the Colonial home has retained its popularity not only for its pleasing architectural lines, but also for its spacious living qualities. For example, this week's selection is a home with many exceptional features.

Social center is a tremendous "L" comprising the Family Room, living-dining room and study behind the fireplace which features an open hearth in two rooms. When entertaining you have a king size social area, however, separation may be achieved if desired through the use of a folding wall, behind the three foot stub wall planter. This would shut off the study for use as a bedroom. Guest room on the first floor is near lavatory.

The kitchen has a built-in oven and range next to the door leading to basement stairs. Cupboards, sink and broom closet form a right angle at opposite wall.

The family room has an open shelf china built-in with access to the garage. As you can see, traffic circulation in this home eliminates unnecessary steps.

The second story sleeping area is well-appointed. Bedrooms are spacious, windows placed to provide cross-ventilation and closets with sliding doors meet all your storage requirements. Front bath serves both front bedrooms — sliding doors are used throughout for added convenience. The other full bath has excellent location at the end of the hall.

Such extras as cedar closet, walk-in closet in master bedroom, a double linen closet between the two rear bedrooms and a smaller linen closet near bath and a handy clothes chute near cedar closet are just a few of the reasons for the increasing popularity of the two - story home. The more you study this plan the more you discover the convenient living facilities and dollar value in this plan.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan contains 1,089 square feet, 29,601 cubic feet, and 513 square feet for the garage. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square or cubic foot in your area.

"Complete Building Plan, including Detail Sheet, Material List and Specification Guide for Design No. H-466 may be purchased for $9.75 for first set; two for $18.25; three for $26.25; or four for $33.75. Ideal Christmas Mural For Your Picture Window

THIS CHRISTMAS Mural measuring four feet high by six feet long is a paint it yourself project. By tracing the full size painting guide on Homasote or other waterproof panelboard, anyone can make this colorful Christmas scene for less than $5. Since the pattern is full size and shows exactly where and when each color is used "everyone makes like a pro."

It makes an ideal mural for placement behind a picture window, on the outside of the house or it can be placed on the lawn. One of the nice things about Christmas is the gay spirit that seems to touch everyone who believes in Christmas. Making this Christmas decoration can provide many, many hours of complete relaxation.

Another interesting way of making this Christmas Mural is by painting the actual pattern with the colors the pattern specifies. The pattern can then be fastened to a light frame; step-by-step directions explain how to build it.

The entire mural is then sprayed with three in one oil which not only makes it translucent but also waterproof. This frame can then be placed in your picture window and by placing a bright light behind it, the illumination gives the effect of a stained glass window.

Send $1 in check or money order for Christmas Mural Pattern No. 942A to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send additional 35 cents for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other Build-It-Yourself projects.

Use It Anywhere

LUMBER and lumber paneling are excellent "mixers," as many home-owners know. They combine beautifully with stone and brick, and they lend warmth and softness of tone.

Furthermore, lumber works well in formal or informal settings, and it does much to set off the color and texture of other furnishings.

New Idea Reduces Cost Of A Gutter

THE ruggedness of asphalt roll roofing, the same material used to make asphalt shingles, has led a prominent East Coast architect to design a unique, low-cost gutter for new homes.

As the drawing shoes, 90-pound asphalt roll roofing is used to line a gutter that is constructed on the job with strips of lumber.

The asphalt roll roofing, like asphalt shingles, is impervious to water, as well as to the wearing effects of ice and snow.

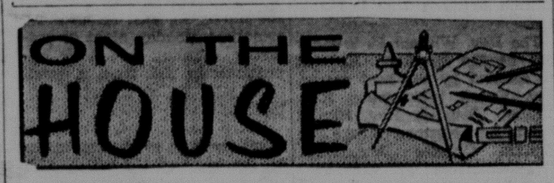
11 Kinds Of Wood

THE 11 KINDS of wood from the western pine region are particularly adaptable in building since they offer a considerable variety in their own natural characteristics — their color, grain, and knot formations. They also respond beautifully to any type of finishing treatment.

ON THE HOUSE



BUYING A POWER tool for someone for Christmas?

Please . . . please don't make it a secret—unless you're very certain you know exactly what the recipient wants or, at least, the kind of work for which the machine will be used.

Many power tools will perform a number of workshop operations. Generally, however, each tool is basically suited for a particular type of work. The following will give you some idea of the uses of many of the most popular electric tools:

Portable drill — Anybody can use it. Once primarily used for drilling holes quickly and easily, it now also will sand, buff, polish, hone, bore, saw and do dozens of other things with the aid of accessories and attachments.

Table saw—For heavy duty straight sawing. Often called the workhorse of the shop.

Drill press — Basically for drilling holes, but can be used for cutting mortises, grooves and tenons, shaping and other operations.

Wood Lathe — For making "turnings;" that is, the shaping of table legs, bowls, etc.

Bandsaw — Also a curve cutter, but handles heavier work than the jigsaw.

Portable jigsaw — Like the portable drill, it can be held in one hand while working. Blade has an up-and-down movement. Especially useful for cutting curves where the work could not be brought to a regular jigsaw.

While most of the above machines also will do sanding of a limited nature, anyone who will be sanding much wood preparatory to finishing it will treasure one of the many types of electric hand sanders on the market.

And, finally, if the budget will stand it, consider the possibility of buying a complete power workshop. This type of unit comprises five or six of the basic power tools mentioned above.

Does Two Jobs

MAGNETIC door seals on new electric refrigerator-freezers serve a double purpose; they provide a tight seal that keeps cold air in and warm air out, and they add a safety factor, opening easily from the inside as well as from the outside.

Insulate Against Cold Floors

COLD FLOORS in a home built over a crawl space usually mean insufficient insulation in the floors.

The same is true when owners of split-level houses are troubled with cold floors in the sleeping area over an unheated garage.

Fortunately, this construction flaw can be remedied quickly and easily by the home owner himself, using mineral wool batts or blankets and a few rolls of hardware cloth or chicken wire. Here's how insulation engineers say the job should be done:

Start in one corner of the crawl space or garage, securing the end of a roll of chicken wire or hardware cloth to the sill. Wedge a section of insulation tightly between the joists with the vapor barrier up and the lower side on a level with the bottom edge of the joists.

Continuing along the joists, fitting the insulation in place and stapling the wire to the lower edge of the joists so that it supports the batt or blanket. Keep this up until the opposite sill is reached, then continue the job in the other direction.

It's important to make sure there are no gaps between sections of insulation, and that it fits snugly between the joists.

Time can be saved if chicken wire or hardware cloth is purchased in 48-inch rolls. This width permits the wire to cover three joist spaces.

After the insulation is in place, cover the bare ground in a crawl space with 55-pound asphalt roll roofing lapped at least three inches between sections and at the edges of the foundation. The asphalt keeps moisture from rising out of the ground into the crawl space.

Electrically Heated Homes On Increase

ELECTRIC HEATING — the cleanest, quietest, most versatile heating known — is being installed in more homes than ever today.

This is due, in large measure, to discoveries that proper insulation brings the cost of electricity for heating down to compare with ordinary fuels.

Mineral wool insulation is available today in batts and blankets manufactured specifically for electric heating and air conditioning according to the All-Weather Comfort Standard developed by electric utilities and manufacturers of electric heating and air conditioning equipment.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

WINTER MULCHING — Few things are more baffling and least understood than the practice known as mulching. A mulch is nothing but of some material, such as sawdust, peat, straw, evergreen boughs, etc., applied at the base of a plant mainly for the purpose of keeping the soil frozen (rather than keeping it warm) and in this way protect plants from suffering from alternate freezing and thawing, the real killer of most plants.

Some mulches are added to protect plants from deep freezing, as well as heaving (which results from alternate freezing and thawing of soil). Heaving is worse in heavy, clay soils. Young plants or newly set plants tend to heave or raise out of the groud much worse than older ones or mature plants. A mulch cover keeps the soil frozen and prevents the alternate freezing and thawing which lifts the plants out.

It's better for most plants to freeze up solid if cells are wet than when dry, and a mulch helps accomplish this by conserving soil moisture in the fall.

Not All

Not all plants should be mulched. Chrysanthemums, delphiniums, iris and dozens of others will die out when covered with a mulch, mainly because a mulch packs around the base and smothers the plants. Such plants need no mulching. In fact, most perennials will die from suffocation and need no mulch cover. It's useless to mulch hardy bulbs such as tulips, daffodils, etc.., if planted at their proper depth.

Most established shrubs are hardy enough to go without a winter mulch, although a 3 inch mulch will help newly planted shrubs merely by conserving soil moisture, and by keeping the soil frozen solid which in turn prevents heaving out of the soil.

If I haven't made myself clear as to what "heaving" is, let me explain. As the term implies, it means plants are actually raised or thrown out of the soil, exposing roots to coldness and dryness, and killing many of the plants. Since heaving is caused by alternate freezing and thawing, a fall mulch prevents this.

Strawberries Need

Strawberries are one of the few fruits which need a mulch to protect the buds. Roses, mulched with soil are often saved from freezing and thawing injury. Lawns and hedges need no mulch.

A summer mulch is used to conserve moisture and keep weeds out. If you can work the mulch into the soil in fall this helps prevent winter injury from heaving, since a soil containing a high amount of humus will leave less than those with a low humus content.

There is some disagreement as to best time to apply a fall mulch, but generally from Mid-November to 1st of December is about the most advantageous time. Some apply it before the ground is frozen, some after.

Question Box

Question Of The Week— D. F. of Bangor: "I heard you can actually plant sweet peas in the fall and get better flowers than when you plant in the spring. Is that true?"

More and more gardeners are resorting to fall planting of sweet peas, mainly because they can get seed in the ground quicker. The seed can be sown now and it will remain dormant until spring when the ground warms up and starts germination.

The secret of getting good blooms is to plant early because sweet peas demand a cool soil and a cool atmosphere for best growth. They are not a hot weather crop. Dig a trench about 10 inches deep, mix peatmoss with the soil and mix well. Also use about a half pound of lime if the soil is slightly acid, or no lime has been used in past 2 or 3 years. Open a small trench with a rake handle and sow the seed about 2 inches apart, covering with fine soil.

Cover With Boughs

After the soil freezes you can cover with evergreen boughs and leave it on until spring. Support your vines early, when about 4 inches high because if they topple over, they seldom seem to grow as well as when supported early. Chicken wire or twiggy branches stuck in both sides of the row make good supports, and these can be erected now, when gardening chores are few.

Never use barnyard manure for sweet peas because manure supplies disease spores which attack the peas. For my money, peatmoss and compost are safer to use when growing sweet peas.

S. J. of Stroudsburg: "I own a Schefflera plant but do not know what care it needs. It has little specks on the foliage. What will kill these pests.?"

The Schefflera or Australian Umbrella tree makes a nice little novelty for dish gardens, which it soon outgrows. This item likes a soil of 1/3 sand, 1/3 peat and 1/3 loam. It does well in fairly dark rooms (I've seen giant specimens in dark lobbies).

Biggest complaint is dropping or yellowing of leaves. This is due to overwatering. For best results, grow Scheffleras on the dry side, and in a warm room, 70 or more.

Probably Aphids

The tiny pests you have are probably aphids which can be controlled readily by spraying with malathion or by using any of the aerosol sprayers. As with all foliage plants, the leaves should be sponged regularly to keep the dust off. A half and half mixture of milk and water makes a good material for sponging the foliage. You can use one of the prepared "shines" which give a glossy effect. Never use lard or olive oil as these collect dust.

Orders Retake Of Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos. (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma said yesterday he has issued orders for the recapture of Luang Prabang, the royal capital held by forces loyal to Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, rightist rebel.

The neutralist premier declined to say when an attack might be launched on Luang Prabang, 130 miles north of this administrative capital. But reports circulated that both sides were massing their forces and a showdown may come this week.

Bears Are Still Around Pike, Protector Notes

PIKE COUNTY has been high on the Pennsylvania bear kill list for years. These happenings, reported by Game Protector Daniel McPeek, indicate there still were bears in the eastern county.

Said McPeek:

"Early on the morning of October 6, a black bear wandered into the center of the town of Milford. After upsetting garbage cans, making dogs bark and generally causing a commotion, bruin took refuge in a large tree one block from the main street, which is also busy highways 6 and 209. People came from miles around to see the bear which eventually settled down and draped itself over a limb of the tree. Local police, Deputy Game Protectors and I kept the audience at a safe distance to prevent people from molesting the animal. At 9:30 p.m., after the people had left, the bear came down and streaked eastward, out of town.

"Toll collectors on the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge between Milford and New Jersey enjoyed a treat early one morning. A large bear crossed into New Jersey at a time when there was no traffic on the bridge. (No attempt was made to collect toll.)

"A large mother bear and three cubs attempted to cross Route 209 near Dingmans Ferry on October 22. One of the cubs didn't make it.

"On October 30, a motorist driving the same highway near Milford, suddenly found six bears in his path. The car struck and killed two of the cubs, then swerved up the side of the mountain and upset. Fortunately, no one in the car was hurt."

Ike Will End '27th' Today

The President got in a final round of golf in sunny 70 degrees weather Monday after arranging to fly to Albany, 250 miles southwest of Augusta, to test his skill with a shotgun.

The White House announced the President would fly direct to Washington Wednesday afternoon from Albany, ending a rest which began the day after the election.

Just Between Us — —

We're glib enough about our blessings: health, strength, work, enough to eat with some left over for guests; friends, some leisure, and a capacity to enjoy it. Sometimes, when we are reminded by Thanksgiving, we even get down to counting the small blessings that add up to happiness:

The extra fifteen minutes for drowsing when the morning sun wakes you before the alarm goes off; the pre-breakfast stirrings of a family home for the holidays breaking the lonely quiet; the sting of tears that always comes when the massed borough bands play "We Gather Together," at the football game;

The fact that there's nothing so serious on our minds that we can't get all wrought up about the results of the game; the fragrant warmth of a house where turkey is cooking; the delighted discovery of unexpected talents in members of the family you thought you knew by heart; and the blessings of a good digestion.

Oh we can count our blessings all right but most of us stop right there. Gratitude is a burden not easily borne. There is something of willful pride that makes us unhappy to be always on the receiving end.

One of the infuriating things about people is that the man who owes a big bill at one store will take his cash business to another store; a woman will tend to avoid the neighbor who has done her many small kindnesses which have never been repaid.

Even blessings can fester in a heart too small to acknowledge the debt and to try, however feebly, to repay some small fraction of what we have never merited.

A reception was held at the Saylorsburg firehall.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Donald Francisco. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta, made with a sabrina neckline embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with tiers of scalloped lace, and flowed into a lace-trimmed chapel train. She carried a Bible with a white orchid.

Music was provided by Mrs. Ford Warner, organist, and Miss Tanya Jean Alfred, soloist.

Part-Time Work Solved One Mother's Problem

By Anne Heywood

If you're not appreciated don't just sulk and complain about it —do something about it.

I've believed this for a long time, but the other day I encountered a wonderful example of it. It involves a mother and daughter who live in a three-room apartment in a big city.

Mom Stayed Home

The daughter has a pretty good job, and the other always stayed home and cleaned, did the laundry, marketing and cooking.

"But," the mother told me, "as far as Edith and the rest of the world were concerned, Edith worked and I didn't! People seem to think that housework just does itself!

"I was so hurt and resentful that one day I decided something had to be done.

Received Invitation

"Just about that same week, I got a letter from an old friend, a widow with no children, who lives in another big city about 250 miles away. She wanted to know if I would like to come and visit her for a month. She said she'd love to see me and we could have such fun.

"'You'll have some privacy, too,' she added, 'because I work three days a week.'

She Went

"Well, that floored me, because Madeline had no more business training than I. But I decided to go—even though my daughter looked sort of flabbergasted.

"When I got there, Madeline told me about her job. She does cleaning but, believe me, this is no ordinary cleaning woman! She gets $10 a day, and she will only take working couples, and she is treated with as much respect and affection as any professional worker.

"She told me she was sick of sitting around with just barely enough money, so she put an ad in her local paper. It said, 'Cleaning by the day—fast, thorough, careful and scrupulously honest. Only working couples need reply.'

"She got loads of replies and took the three nicest.

Money And Fun

"It gives her money and fun and a sense of being needed."

You can guess what happened.

With Mother Working, Daughter Shares Household Chores

Expected Co-Operation

She said that from then on she intended to work three days a week, and while she would be happy to do their apartment on her free days, she expected co-operation on Monday through Wednesday.

"After all," she said brightly, "when we're both working, we'll just share the cooking and marketing and dishes."

It's a much happier household today!

Mrs. Kennedy Sketches Own Ball Gown

By Frances Lewine

Washington (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy announced Monday that her inaugural gown will be made by Bergdorf Goodman of New York from her own suggestions and sketches.

The wife of the President-elect, who is known for her interest in art and her ability to sketch, said she has sent suggestions to Bergdorf Goodman on style, color and material of the dress. She also sent rough sketches of her own.

The New York specialty store will submit designs to Mrs. Kennedy in accordance with her sketches, it was reported by Mrs. Glady Uhl, Mrs. Kennedy's press spokesman.

Mrs. Kennedy expects to decide on the final model for her dress within a week or 10 days. Andrew Goodman, president of Bergdorf Goodman, declined to comment on the order from Mrs. Kennedy.

He did say his firm has done business with the Kennedy family "for many years."

There have been many inquiries to Mrs. Kennedy for information on the gown she will wear at the Inaugural Ball which will be the fashion highlight of the three-day inaugural ceremonies.

Her predecessor, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wore a Renoir pink peau de soie gown embroidered with 22,000 pink rhinestones at her first inaugural in 1953. It was designed by Nettie Rosenstein of New York. For her second inaugural, she chose a citron-yellow princess silhouette dress of lace over net and matching taffeta by the same designer.

Pocono Council GOP Women Plan Holiday

Mount Pocono — Plans for the annual Christmas party of the Pocono Mountain Council of Republican Women got underway at the November meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Halstead Ellison, Debigh Hill Day Camp in Paradise Valley.

Mrs. Ellison appointed as a Christmas committee: Mrs. Theodore Beadle, Mrs. Gray Carpenter and Miss Eloise Bryan to plan arrangements and entertainments. Humorous gifts will be exchanged by members. The newly-appointed telephone committee will go into action to make reservations.

November 29 will be "A Day in Harrisburg" for members and delegates attending the annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women. Planning to go are Mrs. Ellison, Miss Bryan, Mrs. William Seeley, Mrs. Mervin Fontanella, Mrs. John Specht and Mrs. Blan Walker Jr.

Mrs. Robert Boutilier of East Swiftwater was introduced as a new member by Mrs. Fontanella.

Master Readers, Films Add Life To Literature ES Secondary PTA Told

Some things are more "audio" than "visual," particularly poetry was one of the things demonstrated in the program for the East Stroudsburg Secondary Parent-Teachers Assn. on the use of audio-visual aids in the teaching of literature in Junior High School.

Robert Neyhart, assisted by Paul Bartholomew demonstrated the use of both for two specific poems.

Studying about Paul Revere's ride in an eighth grade history class, the film-strip of the poem "Paul Revere's Ride" was shown. In literature class the poem read by a master reader, Scourby, was played on the tape recorder, and a film-strip of the biography of Longfellow was shown, and the class studied another poem by the same author; and heard the recitation of "Evangeline" by Mary Martin.

Teaching literature in this way gives the student a better understanding of the poem, the author and the historical background of both, it was pointed out.

At the business meeting with Paul Bartholomew presiding, Mrs. Raymond Courtright reported a balance of $166.53 in the general fund of the PTA. The membership approved the payment of a bill presented by the Elementary PTA for $452.25 for the purchase of a steam table for the J. M. Hill elementary cafeteria.

Mrs. Frank Meyers, membership chairman, reported a membership of 127 members.

Coolbaugh PTA Meets At School

Tobyhanna — The Coolbaugh High School Parent-Teachers Assn. launched a membership drive at the meeting which followed open house at the school last week.

It was announced that the school nurse has scheduled medical examinations for the students after the holidays. The new dish washer and potato peeler will be installed in the church kitchen.

Stroud School Board Runs Million Dollar Business Without Pay, PTA Learns

Unpaid volunteers who devote many hours to running a million dollar business and assume all the obligations and responsibilities without recompense: that is the definition of a school board which came out in the Stroud Union Parent-Teachers Assn. program on "Let's Get Acquainted with the School Board" on Monday night.

Every seat in the music room was taken for the program which preceded the business meeting of the group. Harold Hosier, program chairman for November introduced members of the panel.

Edward Rahn explained the general set-up of the school board whose official school year starts on July 1. Board members are elected for six year terms in November and the board is organized in December.

The Stroud Union board meets the third Wednesday of every month and members usually serve on at least two committees each year such as finance, hiring and setting the salaries of teachers.

All services of board members are free, he pointed out, except the secretary who serves a one year term at $1200 a year and the treasurer at $600 a year.

"These members put in many hours of hard work and have a great responsibility in running a school district whose budget is over a million dollars a year," Rahn said.

His opinion was echoed by Edward Williams, legal advisor to the board, who explain how the board is elected: directors are elected from Hamilton, Stroud Twp., Delaware Water Gap and the Borough of Stroudsburg according to population. Stroudsburg has approximately 6,000 voters; Stroud Twp., 5,000; Hamilton, 2,000; and Water Gap, 550.

In listing the general qualifications needed to be a school director, Williams said: "someone willing to work unsparingly, devoted a great deal of their time without pay, and to become involved in the detail of committee work which involves many hours in addition to the monthly meetings.

The mechanics of becoming a director include getting a petition from the County Commissioners signed with 15 signatures and filed at the designated date before election: and then to win the election.

The duties and the powers of the board is big business, Williams said. The board sets the budget, levies taxes, and attends to any business of the school district. School board meetings are open to the public, he said. The board can go into executive or closed session at any time, he said, but added that no official action can be taken in the closed meetings.

That million dollar budget was explained by Herbert Crane, financial advisor to the board. Last year local taxes brought in $542,000 and state aid $560.00 for a total of $1,102.000.

Crane pointed out that schools in Pennsylvania cannot operate without state aid unless the residents would be willing to be taxed locally for the amount now coming from the state. He also gave detailed explanation of millage and other financial information.

Mrs. James Kitson presided at the business meeting when the PTA budget was presented by Mrs. Joan Weber, treasurer and accepted by the PTA. Mrs. Elwood German, membership chairman, reported 421 PTA memberships and announced that printed programs for the year have been distributed.

Mrs. Durrell Mader, chairman of ways and means, announced that the PTA rummage sale will be held March 9, 10 and 11 at Richards' Garage, Main St., and asked members to save items for the sale.

Robert Hellmann, publications chairman, reported that 21 subscriptions for the National PTA magazine has been sold. Ten gift subscriptions were presented to members: Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. William Wyckoff, Mrs. Lester Klass, Mrs. Norman Dennis, Mrs. Victor Koch, Mrs. Orien Relsh, Mrs. Joseph Yutz, Arthur George, Mrs. Alvin Williams and Mrs. Donald Metzgar.

Ten more subscriptions will be presented at the January meeting, Hellmann announced.

Mrs. Andrew Keiser announced that the January meeting program will be "Let's Get Acquainted with the 4 aRts": representatives from the art, music, physical education and dramatic and public speaking departments will be featured.

Chorus 'Try-Out' In Harrisburg For Local Show

The Stroudsburgs are big time as far as the Pocono Community Chorus goes. The chorus will present "This is Christmas" a program included sacred as well as secular music, on December 10 at Stroud Union High School.

The Pocono Community Chorus is composed of about 40 men and women with Howard Atwell, a member of the faculty of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, as narrator and Ethel Lynn Werkheiser as accompanist for this program.

Turkey Tips For The Bride, Which Grandma May Like

By Mrs. William Pipher
422 Colbert Street,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

By the looks of the social page the past year there will be a lot of Pocono brides cooking their first Thanksgiving turkey tomorrow.

So that they won't lose any sleep tonight worrying whether it will be done on time, here's an easy chart to follow:

Weight	Temperature	Time
8 to 10 lb.	325	3 to 3½ hrs.
10 to 14 lb.	325	3½ to 4 hrs.
14 to 18 lb.	300	4 to 4½ hrs.
18 to 20 lb.	300	4½ to 6 hrs.

Roast the stuffed turkey in an open pan (no lid); if breast gets too brown, cover with foil or a piece of cheesecloth that has been dipped in the drippings.

Some women prefer to roast turkey enclosed in foil. The high temperature and short time tends to keep turkey more moist, and it cuts roasting time in half which is nice for the mother who wants to see the Battle of the Boroughs!

Weight	Total Cooking Time
6 to 9 lbs.	2½ to 3 hours
10 to 13 lbs.	3 to 3½ hours
14 to 17 lbs.	3½ to 3¾ hours
17 to 21 lbs.	3¾ to 4 hours
22 to 24 lbs.	4 to 4½ hours

To test a turkey for doneness, wiggle the drumstick. If it feels loose or breaks, the turkey is done. Also you can feel the flesh around the drumstick; if it is soft, it's ready to take out of the oven.

What smells more tantalizing than a roasting turkey permeating every nook and cranny of the house! To make it extra special, show it off on your prettiest platter and garnish it with lemon or orange cups (cut tops off fruit, scoop out insides) filled with your favorite cranberry relish.

Apple Chutney: Slice off tops and bottoms of eight tart apples. With a sharp paring knife remove the cores and enough of the apples to leave only ½ inch thick shells. Brush cut surfaces of the apples with a little lemon juice. Chop remaining apple and combine with 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup white seedless raisins, ½ cup broken walnuts, ¼ cup chopped candied citron, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Stir in ½ cup strained honey, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill apples and chutney mixture until ready to serve. To serve, place each apple shell in a crisp lettuce cup. Heap apples high with the chutney mixture. Yield 8 servings.

Serve with a flourish, then burst with pride; have a nice Thanksgiving!

The Wyckoff Shopper
A.R. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

The big talk in our employees' lunch room, as I write this on Monday, centers around three events, two of them joyous—the marriage of Carol Kerlin, and the birth of their fifth child, a daughter at last, to the Bill Possingers: one of them sad—the sudden death of Frank Weller. When I first knew Mr. Weller he was associated with the advertising department of Wyckoff's. Later he became head of the shoe department, a position he held for a number of years before resigning to accept a county office. Mr. Weller was a brother-in-law of Cora Albertson, head of our Wyckoff lingerie department.

Speaking of Cora reminds me of all the many beautiful articles, newly arrived in her department to make a bid for an important place on your Christmas gift list. Even a casual tour cannot help but impress one with the elegance of corduroy for lounge wear, and the fact that fur fabric is just as important for casual wear at home as it is for trim on dresses, coats or handbags.

Modestly priced, but smart as the dickens and soft as a kitten, is a leopard fabric duster collared and cuffed in black washable velveteen. Another, almost identical in styling, is of paisley print, red or blue predominating. Both are 8.98, and come in sizes 10 to 18. The paisley has self collar, and both have a throw-tie at the neckline, ¾ pushup sleeves and a very full gathered back that swings gracefully from a wide yoke. All of this —and a Julliard fabric! What more could any woman ask?

I can't quite believe it's true, but it is. For 5.98 you can buy one of the most charming floral taffeta print dresses you've ever seen, from our Wyckoff budget dress department on the Main Floor. The dress, pictured before me as I write, has a rounded neck with narrow collar and self-flower, buttons down the bodice, a neat tailored belt, and a wonderfully full skirt, gathered into side draped pleats. The print completely covers the fabric, and comes with blue or plum predominating, in sizes 12 to 20 and 14½ to 22½.

At 6.98, the same budget department presents the "backbone of a wardrobe" in a shirtwaist dress of comed cotton, with butterfly sleeves and unusual tab-button trim on the bodice. This dress, in 10 to 20, comes in green, blue, or maize, ombre striped.

* * *

Cora also advises me that she has just received a new shipment of the very popular 3.98 Nip 'n Tuck dresses. These cottons are all made over the same front-zippered style with a choice of cap or set-in sleeve. Wyckoff's has carried them for a long time, and they are always on our best-seller list.

As a matter of fact, one woman came in recently and asked for a Nip 'n Tuck dress, thinking it was a maternity style in which you simply ripped out the tucks as one's tummy expanded. The idea is good—maybe we'll sell it to the company!

Teens Have Definite Plans For Early Parenthood In Suburbia

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

IF YOU'RE planning on getting married, having two to four children, and living in a big city suburb, you're a rather typical teen-ager.

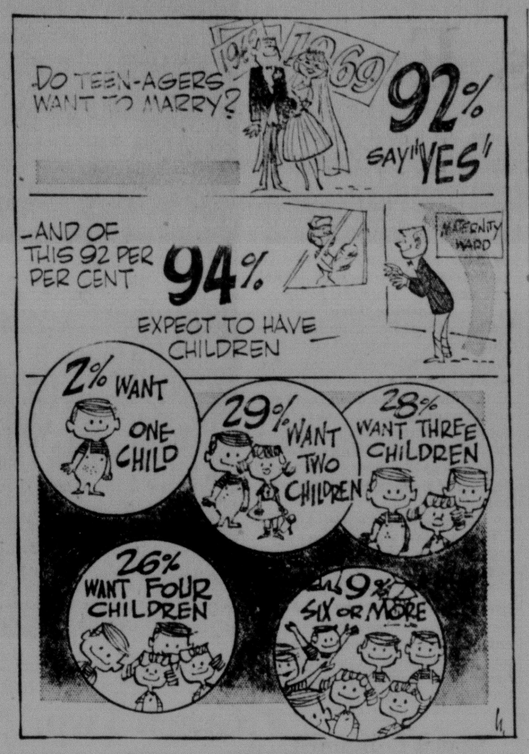
There's no question that marriage figures in the future of today's teeners. We interviewed more than 1,000 young people across the nation and asked them if they hoped to be married one day. Ninety-two percent said yes. And almost all of them thought they certainly would be wed before the 1970's end.

"Every person should have a mate in life, said Douglas Johnston, 18, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., whose comment is typical of the majority.

"I believe every girl hopes to marry someday," was the way Mary Brant, 15, of Pomona, Calif., put it.

The typical teen-ager also plans to have children. Ninety-four percent of those questioned said their hopes for the future included building a family. "What's a marriage without children?" Tom Rubel, 17, of Dallas, said. And a Dallas girl, Martha Dillard, 17, replied "That's one of the main purposes of marriage."

"A family is like cultivating a garden. With every addition one glows with pride," said Maxine Morrin, 15, of New York City.



Lone Child Not Favored

What is the ideal sized family?

Families consisting of two, three or four children were the favorites. The idea of a single child seems to run against the grain since only two percent thought this would be ideal. Only nine percent—most of them girls—hoped to have families with six or more children.

Twenty-nine per cent of the teeners went for the two-child family, 28 percent for three children and 26 percent for four children. Some of the comments:

"Four," said Jill Hankins, 14, of Indianapolis, who explained, that is not too many children and not just one to get spoiled."

"The ideal sized family is the well supported one," said Carol Baldwin, 14, of King of Prussia, Pa., expressing an attitude shared by a number of others.

One fifth of the girls want to have their first child when they are 20. On the other hand, less than one-eighth of the boys want to be fathers at 20. But the majority — 86 percent — said they want to start a family no later than the age of 28.

The Suburbs for Them

When they begin building their families, they hope to have children at two year intervals. That's the preference of 43 percent. Those favoring one year between children accounted for 27 percent of those questioned. The notion of having children three or more years apart found favor with only 12 percent.

Mary A. Tenfelder, 18, of St. Louis, said she would want her children to be one or two years apart because "if I am to have a large family, this is necessary."

On the question of preference for sons or daughters, 40 per cent of the boys said they wanted two sons and 44 percent said one daughter. The girls for the most part favored having two sons and two daughters. Forty-six percent said two sons and 45 percent two daughters.

While 30 percent of those interviewed now live in a big city suburb, 39 percent chose the suburb as the place they would like to live after marriage and starting a family. The second most popular choice was the big city itself. Thirty percent favored the city.

Though only one percent now live on farms, 6 percent thought that's where they would like to live one day. The reasons for the various choices followed lines similar to these responses:

"In a big city suburb," said Sue Anderson, 16, of Pomona, Calif., "A small town or farm is too dull and a big city is too crowded."

"On a farm," said Bobby DeAngelo, 17, of Brooklyn, who considers it a place of "peace and tranquility."

Presley Show At Grand

TODAY is the day when Elvis Presley—acknowledged monarch of popular song—comes marching back into the waiting arms of his countless fans in our town as the star of his first picture in two years, "G. I. Blues," which opens at the Grand Theatre. The Hal Wallis Technicolor musical romance, released by Paramount, marks Elvis' return to cinematic life following his period of service in the Army.

"G. I. Blues" constitutes a reenlistment in the U. S. Army for Presley in that the story concerns a G. I. in peacetime Germany in the same outfit in which the singing star served abroad, the Third Armored (Spearhead) Division. In the actual unit Presley held the rank of sergeant. For his movie role, he has been "demoted" to specalist. To give his fans an idea of how it was for their idol in the service, Producer Wallis started shooting the film while Elvis was still on duty.

Injuries, Grades Reduced Mounties Chances Early

By CURT PRINS
Sports Editor

INJURIES, scholastic difficulties and discipline problems prevented Stroud Union High School from knowing what type of football team it might have produced.

Even before the season opened the Mountaineers lost halfback Doug Wright for a month and a half because of grades.

And Lehighton used its dazzling double-wing attack to drop the Mounties 30-0 in the opener, and then the injuries began to mount.

Mountie coach Walt Bjorn lost Cleve Keller, Bob Somers, Jim Coleman, Gary Rinker, Jerry Shanley and a handful of others to injuries and Warren Loney and Gary Reish have also been on the injured list but will probably play Thursday.

Size Problem

Now a size problem is hampering Bjorn. John Taylor, Al Hennet and Jim Farry are his heaviest linemen. The trio averages about 193 pounds a man. But in the backfield, Bjorn has no heavyweights. Fullback Tom Schatzman weighs about 160 pounds, while his halfbacks, Bob Starner, Glen Bisbing and Wayne Bond barely top the 140 mark. Loney, who will probably play on defense only Thursday, weighs 140 pounds and quarterback John Baylor is a 150 pounder.

Starner, who has been out for several weeks with a charley horse, will start in place of halfback Wayne Bond. Bisbing will start at the other halfback post and Schatzman, the best runner on the club, will be at fullback.

Bjorn will have only 22 players in uniform tomorrow. The smallness of the squad has hurt the club in the second half, when there were no fresh players to substitute.

The Mounties will probably throw a great deal of passes tomorrow. Of the 50 points Stroud Union has scored this year most of them have been by passes or the touchdown set-up by a pass.

Baylor has hit on about a third of his attempts this season, with most of the tosses of the short variety.

End Ed Nevil is a good receiver along with Freddy Frantz and Bisbing and Schatzman is effective on screen passes.

The Mounties have not been able to produce an inside running game and their sweeps have not accounted for big yardage, two reasons the club has had trouble keeping sustained drives going.

Never Led

Stroud Union has never been ahead in a game this year. If the Mounties jumped in front of East Stroudsburg it could trigger the attack they have lacked all season.

Twelve seniors wind up their high school careers tmorrow but not all of them will be in the game.

Taylor, Barry Bond, Reish, Farry, Larry Heller and Deiter Roy are all seniors, who will probably play, while Somers, Keller, Coleman, Rinker and Shanley are the injured seniors.

Sophomore Don Baylor, who doesn't play too much offense, could cause trouble for East Stroudsburg. Baylor, has been outstanding on kickoff returns. Although he is not fast, Baylor, younger brother of the Mounties' quarterback, is a good faker and can follow his blockers.

Rushing Plug

The Mounties will have to plug their rushing defense. They have allowed an average of 37.7 points a game and most of the scores have been recorded on the ground. Northampton bombed the West Main Streeters 73-7 and all the Konkrete Kids' touchdowns were on the ground. The Kids rushed for more than 500 yards.

Bangor was the only team that had to go to a passing attack to open up the Mounties.

The Stroud Union kicking game has been only average. Nevil does the punting. He is capable of booming the ball but has been erratic. The Mounties have not developed a place kicking or kickoff specalist.

Bangor, Knights In 41st Renewal On Thanksgiving

By ARMON WILLIAMS

BANGOR'S SLATERS and the Green Knights of Pen Argyl High have all but completed preparations for the annual Slate Belt Classic to be staged Thursday afternoon at Bangor Memorial Park. Some 6,000 fans are expected to view the 41st renewal of a school boy rivalry that started in 1922.

After 38 years of annual contests, all of which have been thrill-packed, Bangor holds the edge with 19 wins, Pen Argyl has 18 and three have ended in ties. The reason for the 41 games is noted in the recapitulation in which two games were played in 1923 and 1924.

A few superstitions sprung into existence during the formative years. As an example, the first to score invariably triumphed. Also no school was able to hold the area title more than two years in succession.

For a time, action authoritatively supported these beliefs. After the initial eleven games, ending in 1930, it remained a neck and neck vendatta with five contests apiece and a single deadlock.

Knights Lead

The great breakaway started the following year when the regime of Levan Smith, presently principal of Reading High School, gathered momentum. His departure for other fields after the 1937 clash found Pen Argyl enjoying a 10 to 6 edge in games.

In the next ten years, during which the third and last standstill to date occurred, Bangor shaved only one game from the Green's margin.

In 1948 Pen Argyl under Fred Leonard picked up speed and made the game spread to six as well as shattering the tradition that no team had won three years in a row.

The tide turned finally for the Slaters with the arrival of the late Granville Evans on the Thanksgiving stage. In seven games under his supervision, the Slaters lost but one, that in 1956, 6-0. Bangor had won five years in a series.

Evans won again in 1957 by a 12 to 0 count, and with the coming of David "Dakey" Pritchard as head coach has spread the current win skein to three and the team is shooting for the fourth this year. The only game won by the Green Knights since 1950, was won in 1956 on a recovered kick-off in the Bangor end zone.

Two Trophies

Two trophies will be at stake in the game. The annual Ike Resh trophy, a new trophy this year since Bangor retired the other last year after three consecutive wins. The other is The Daily Record Trophy, presented for the winner of the most games between Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Bangor and Pen Argyl. Bangor has two legs at present and by winning Thursday would retire the Record award.

Eleven Bangor seniors will don the maroon and white for the last time on Thursday. They are Barry Warrick and Dick Shoemaker, ends; Jack Williams and Dennis Perelli, tackles; Bob Owens and Earl Van Doren, guards; James Rehrig, end; Bob Dawe, quarterback; Bob Collura and Bun Reimer, halfbacks and Phil Falcone, fullback.

Haynes, Wheeler Lead 72-53 Harlem Magician Victory

MARQUES Haynes, scored 30 points and Sam (Boom) Wheeler posted 300 laughs as the Harlem Magicians gagged their way to a 72-53 win over The Pocono All-Stars at Stroud Union High School last night.

Some 950 people saw the Magicians pull away from the Stars near the end of the first half and then open up with their laugh-getters.

It was the 41st straight win of the season for the Magicians, who move on to Perth Amboy, N. J. for a game tonight.

Haynes, billed as the "World's Greatest Dribbler," looked like the world's greatest set shot. He canned 11 long set shots and bagged five in a row at one stretch.

Drop Kick

Wheeler, the comedy boss of the seven-man traveling squad posted 10 points and missed by a foot on a drop-kick attempt from mid court, after a five yard "off-side" penalty moved the ball to the free throw line.

In addition, Wheeler belted a homerun with two strikes on him (he's never struck out) in the baseball sequence and his ball handling in the pivot was fantastic.

Bob Wert, Stroud Union basketball coach led the Stars with 19 points, most of them on soft arching set shots. Carl Adelman trailed with 10 points.

The game was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to finance treir local projects.

L. A. Move Off

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League Tuesday night agreed to postpone moving into Los Angeles until 1962 if the National League would expand immediately to nine clubs and consent to start unprecedented interleague play in 1961.

Washington would be the ninth club in the American League, with the new club filling the vacancy created by the transfer of Calvin Griffith's Senators to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Houston appeared to be out front as a possibility for a ninth team in the National. Both Houston and New York had been accepted for expansion to 10 clubs in 1962. However, it was believed the Houston club would be the more logical choice if it can iron out its problems with the owners of the American Association franchise in that city.

For a second team to enter New York or Los Angeles, the present major league territorial rule would have to be changed. Both leagues would have to agree or the commissioner would cast the decisive vote on an amendment.

Frick Considered

Commissioner Ford Frick's insistence on a "fair and equitable" amendment was an important factor in the American League's decision to forego moving to Los Angeles in 1961 as planned.

If the National League should refuse to go along with the nine-club idea for 1961, the American League reaffirmed its decision to enter Los Angeles that year.

Joe Cronin, American League president, said the nine-club operation would be for one year only. Each team would play a total of 166 games, 14 with each of the eight other cities (112) in its own league and six with each of the nine clubs (54) in the other league. All games would count in the regular league standing.

The American League asked the National for a decision by Dec. 5. It probably will come at the regular Natonal League meeting Dec. 5 in St. Louis with some American Leaguers invited to attend. In the meantime, the American League has been urged to draw up a sample schedule with dates.

NO TRESSPASSING

The grounds of the MONROE BEAGLE CLUB, INC. will be patrolled during hunting season. All violators will be prosecuted.

Green Twp. Law May Halt Hunters

HUNTING in Green Township, Pike County, may be seriously curtailed, if a proposed law by the Township board of supervisors is passed.

The law would prohibit hunting except with the written permission of the land owner, where the hunting is taking place. A $100 fine would be tagged on violators.

Since most of the land owners do not live in the area, the law would knock out hunting almost completely.

The Township supervisors will meet tonight to discus the new law. If passed, it will go into effect in five days.

East Coach Hopes To Use Everyone

JIM MILLER, East coach said Tuesday night that he will try to play every man on his 25-player team in Thursday's Gem City Bowl at Erie.

Two East Stroudsburg State College players, center Dick Wolslayer and guard Sterling Brown are members of the East team.

Miller will not name his starting line-up until Wednesday afternoon. The club will only have two days of practice before the game.

"We won't have any contact work," Miller told the Daily Record by phone last night, "so it's hard to find out who can do what."

Miller added that Wolslayer is one of two centers on his club. George Washington University's Joe Barbini is the other. There are only three line backers on the club, which means Wolslayer had a good chance at a defensive assignment. Brown is one of six guards.

The game will be played under unlimited substitution rules. The East club will be split into an offensive and defensive team with several players going both ways, Miller, the University of Detroit coach said.

Straight T

The East will run from a straight T formation with split ends and occasionally will use a halfback in the slot.

This will be the Third Gem City Bowl. The West won the first game and last year West Chester's Bill Shockley kicked a 27-yard field goal to give the East its first win.

Some 150 players are nominated for the bowl each year but only 50 are selected. East Stroudsburg's Jake Piatt, was picked as an alternate guard.

Bowl Picture Clears

THE No. 1 team in major college football is Navy. Not in the polls, but in the bowls.

All sights are set on the Middies —including the eyes of Texas— and all that stands between Navy and its fourth post season appearance is a victory over Army in in the service classic at Philadelphia Saturday.

That would give Navy a 9-1 record and group the Midshipmen with Washington, Arkansas, Baylor, Missouri, Penn State and Oregon as the big time teams headed for bowl play.

Oregon in Liberty

Oregon (7-2-1) Tuesday accepted a bid to face Penn State (6-3) at Philadelphia Dec. 17 in the Liberty Bowl — the only major bowl that has two teams signed.

Each of the other section committees still are in search of at least one entry in a bowl picture that breaks down like this:

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., has Washington (9-1) safely picked and Navy would be a natural opponent. The Middies were the only club to beat the Huskies (15-14). They also played a 14-14 tie in the 1924 Rose Bowl.

Minnesota (8-1) and Iowa (8-1), co-champions of the Big Ten, also are in the running. By picking Minnesota, the grandday of the bowls might be able to set up a new pact with the Big Ten.

MRS. Nora Murphy, 53, Ransberry Avenue, East Stroudsburg, took top honors and first prize money in last week's Daily Record Football Contest. Mrs. Murphy picked 19 winning teams from the list of 23, and o the four incorrected picks two were tie games.

Mrs. Frank Bocko, Mt. Bethel and Carrie Posten, RD 1, Stroudsburg, tied for second place prize money. Both picked 18 winning teams and each selected 53 to be the high score of the week. Auburn was high scoring team for the week with 57 points.

The last and final Football Contest for this year appeared i the Monday edition of The Daily Record and today 5 P.M. the deadline for entries to be submitted. The reason for the Wednesday deadline of course, is the many games played on Thanksgiving Day.

Moss Clinches Third Position

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—England's Stirling Moss clinched third place in the world automobile driver standings Sunday when he won the United States Grand Prix, the final race of the year on the Formula One circuit.

Moss earned $7,500 in prize money as he averaged nearly 100 miles per hour in his Rob Walker Lotus and finished 45 seconds ahead of Scotland's Innes Ireland, who drove a Lotus. New Zealahd's Bruce McClaren, in a Cooper, was third.

The second place gave Ireland fourth in the world standings.

First and second had been clinched in earlier races by Brabham and McClaren, respectively.

Kelso Named Best Horse

NEW YORK (AP)—Kelso, who won eight of nine races this season for the Bohemia Stable of Mrs. Richard C. Du Pont, was named 1960 horse of the year Tuesday in the annual poll of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

Kelso, a gelded son of Your Host-Maid of Flight, by Count Fleet, also was named best 3-year-old, although he did not win one of the Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown races. Kelso won his last six starts, and earned $293,310 for the season.

In the voting of 31 staff experts, Kelso received 22 votes as best of the year, while Bald Eagle from Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable got nine votes. For the 3-year-old crown, Kelso got 25 votes, Preakness winner Bally Ache received five, and T.V. Lark one.

Top Offense Helps Oilers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Houston's Oilers have defensive troubles, but their defensive deficiency is more than offset by an explosive offense.

The Texas club leads the American Football League in total offense, trails in defense—and holds a two-game advantage over the Eastern Division field.

Although the Oilers' defensive yield is a high 362.9 yards per game, they have surrendered only 207 points—lowest total in the league next to Buffalo and Dallas.

The Oiler offense leads in passing with 233.5 yards per game, rushing with 129.5 and total yardage with 363.0.

The foolproof wishbone you can buy for just 63¢ a day

Inside every holiday turkey is the opportunity to make a wish. But if it's for a new home, or college for the kids, or a nest egg for the future, you need a different kind of wishbone: a sound plan for saving.

U.S. Savings Bonds provide such a plan. As little as 63c a day buys a $25 bond a month (cost $18.75). In 40 months you'll own Bonds worth $1000 at maturity—a mighty good start toward making your wishes come true.

U.S. Savings Bonds dollars help your government pay for the Peace—another wish you can do something about. Why not get started today?

Some advantages you might think about

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. Tell your company how much to set aside from your pay for Bonds. This way you won't forget to save and your savings will add up automatically.

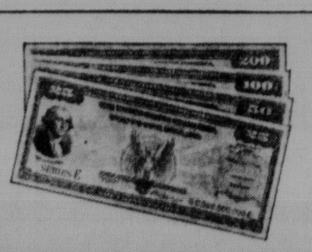
You now get 3¾% interest, to maturity. This new rate, which went into effect June, 1959, makes your Bond money grow faster. Series E Bonds now mature 14 months earlier than before—in just 7 years, 9 months. Bonds bought before June 1, 1959, earn more, too—an extra ½% from that date to maturity.

You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. Bonds are a ready reserve that you can cash any time at any bank. But it pays to keep them.

Your money is guaranteed by the U.S. Government. Bonds are an absolutely riskless investment. The Government promises you that the cash value of your Bond will not drop—it can only grow.

Your money can't be lost or stolen. The Treasury will replace your Bonds, free, if anything happens to them.

You save more than money. You help save the peace with every Bond you buy. Peace costs money for science, education, military strength. And the money you save helps keep our nation's economy strong.



Here's how you can reach your savings goal with U.S. Savings Bonds in just 7 years, 9 months

If you want about	$2,500	$5,000	$10,000
each week save	$5.45	$10.85	$21.70

The U.S. Treasury's prettiest ambassador! Mrs. Vivian Ackerman of Tucson, Arizona, was chosen "Mrs. U.S. Savings Bonds of 1961" in this year's Mrs. America Contest at Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. During 1961 Mrs. Ackerman is taking time off from her duties as homemaker and mother of three children to tour the country on behalf of U.S. Savings Bonds and Stamps.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 23, 1960

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — When matters seem to become too annoying, stop, reflect upon those in areas where real oppression, privation exist. We always have more than many; smile, but firmly determine action.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — The commonplace is sometimes necessary but never the ordinary in that higher education, respect for self and obligations are forsaken. DO abandon complacency and lack of faith.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's aspect says watch out for schemers that try to use your ingenuity against wise purposes. Go along with bright ideas (you have many yourself), but know when to say "no."

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Less favorable matters may tempt you to forget your inherent good humor and sense of fair play. Do not feel badly at discrepancies; your best demeanor will boost day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your energetic nature is sometimes taken for overaggression. We all present a less favorable side occasionally so be on guard for flaws, minor faults that could grow. Your top versatility in demand.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — One of your strongest "be careful" days this month. Heed sound hints, don't think you have all the answers or you will get into difficulty. Follow instructions thoughtfully.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Venus' auspicious position promotes your helpful attitude, general sense of awareness and how to bring a matter out of mediocrity. Don't tangle with time — or money wasters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — "To the pure all things are pure" is true, but can misguide. We must recognize dangers, subversion, not standing up against wrong opponents. This day needs YOUR strength.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — History eventually proves many things not understood now, but we are daily making that history, so we are charged with responsibility, guarding veracity, protecting, developing.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Do your primary job or chores first, then get into extra activities you may enjoy more. The irksome task usually is vital and rewards are great for it. Study situations.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be judicious in money matters, children's, oldsters' affairs. Property, possessions, work issues call for vigilance, reviewing in part. Your intuition and quick-thinking big aids.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) —Manifest throughout the good will you inherently feel at the onset of anything; remain as strong at finish of a project as at beginning. Thus does persistence carry weight.

YOU BORN TODAY: first sector of Sagittarius. Resolute character, willing to work, but sometimes streak through a matter, should tone down drive to a steadied unstained. On the other hand, you are truly sincere, often profoundly cautious. A diplomat of [illegible] sector is normally wise in speech, military in bearing. Religion, statesmanship, civic activity, personal enterprises attract your efforts. This date carries waning moon's enthusiasm to add to beginnings, meaning plenty of action, initiative, and need for restraint conserving resources. Birthdate of: Franklin Pierce, 14th President of the United States; Sir Gilbert Parker, 19th century Canadian novelist.

Give Thanks in Church on...

THANKSGIVING

. . . from our historic past comes the rebirth and reminiscence of a day of gratefulness celebrated with the Indians by our early settlers. They gave thanks for a bounteous land. It was as if all their prayers had been answered. It is, perhaps, fitting that we who have so much, in such a great land, should give thanks to GOD for it in Church on Thanksgiving.

Savings Results In Speed Up Of Road Constructions

SAVINGS through the use of new machinery and other cost cutting devices, has resulted in the speeding up of interstate highway constructions.

The money saved is re-routed back into the highway fund. In this way, the state can pay for the projects with money it supposedly did not have.

7 Percent Below

In Illinois, for instance, the interstate highway construction costs per mile now are running about 7 percent below 1959. Lower costs so far this year have saved the state $6.3 million, and it's using this money to accelerate road building.

An indext of highway building costs, compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for all Federally-aided highways, provides further evidence the trend is down. It shows new roads constructed so far in 1960 cost 134.9% of the 1946 average, down from the record high of 142.9% reached in 1957.

The interstate program is getting a powerful push, too, from stepped-up spending. The Federal government foots 90% of the cost of these roads; states pay the balance and contract for the construction. Contract awards in the first half of 1960 dropped below 1959. But awards in the third quarter jumped 45% above a year earlier, so the total for the first nine months was nearly $1.2 billion, 8% above a year ago.

The sixteen year old interstate program was started in 1956. The program this year is expected to account for 40% of the value of all road contracts under which the Federal government will pay part of the cost of contract and costs per mile on all Federally aided highways is.

Will Determine

President-elect Kennedy and the new Congress will determine how heavy a flow of Federal funds are available in the government's next fiscal year, beginning July 1. Highway builders and state officials, however, predict the new Administration won't let the program slow down and may step it up.

Motorists will benefit from the construction speedup by getting use of these super highways quicker. Taxpayers have a high state also. Lower costs will ease pressure on the new Administration for additional funds to finance the program.

The recession helped trim the highway building costs by making contractors hungrier for road construction jobs. One Midwestern contractor said that bidding is about as tough now as it has been in the last six to 10 years.

State highway departments are stiffening bidding competition and thereby trimming costs by dividing the work into bigger portions. Illinois's Ralph R. Batelsmeyer, chief highway engineer, says a big reason the state's highway costs have fallen is that a larger proportion of the work awarded during 1960 consisted of large contracts.

Increased Interest

The result was increased contractor interest. During the last three years the average number of bids per project in Illinois has increased to 4.47 from 3.66.

It has been proven that larger contracts attract more bidders, and the increased competition keeps prices down, a Western highway engineer reported.

Soviet Educators Visit Britain's Famed Rugby

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Two Soviet educators visited one of Britain's snootiest boys' schools Tuesday looking for ideas to take back to the proletarian Soviet Union.

They snooted some of the snootier traditions.

The Russians also will visit Eton and Harrow, two other schools whose graduates include kings, dukes and prime ministers.

Doesn't See

Through an interpreter, Alexseenko told Rugby headmaster Dr. Walker Hamilton: "As a teacher, I don't see any use in a younger boy having to do certain service for another. I think it should be the other way around."

Acquainted with the British school system of corporal punishment—whacks with a ruler of a birch switch — the Russian said: "It's degrading."

With that, Hamilton asked his visitors to walk through the school and meet some of its 700 students.

"Do the boys here look degraded?" asked Hamilton afterward.

"Nyet," chorused the Russians.

"Yet most of them have been caned at one time or another," said Hamilton.

Looked Impressed

The visitors looked impressed. They said the U.S.S.R. was rapidly expanding its boarding school system and they hoped to take back many ideas from Britain.

But they'll be switched if they'll go in for fagging and caning.

Crippled Children's Report

MRS. CARL B. Rosenkrans, immediate past president of the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Assn., and member of the State Board, recently attended the board of directors meeting in Harrisburg.

Reports were given on the 8th World Congress for Crippled Children and Adults held in New York City. It was also reported at the meeting that Pennsylvania Society has to date given 54 scholarships totaling $18,300.

Detailed reports were given concerning the four camps operated by the society. The camps are Camp Easter Seal; Camp Lend-A-Hand, Camp Harmony Hall, and Camp Daddy Allen.

Camp Daddy Allen

The camp most widely used by the Monroe County organization is Camp Daddy Allen, which just closed its 20th season. Some 163 children from eastern Pennsylvania, with 20 different diagnostic classifications, were represented. This year Camp Daddy Allen participated in a foreign exchange program with the Girl Scouts of America.

Monroe County was represented at Camp Daddy Allen by 5 children at a cost of $638 and two at Camp Harmony Hall at a cost of $250, all financed by the local society.

Funds raised from Easter Seals maintain the camps, but fund raising has not kept pace with program needs and planning, an official reported.

Not Too Happy

Nov. 22, 1960

Bob Clark,
City Editor.
Dear Sir:

To the gutless, individual jelly-fish, with a backbone.

The letter you have written to Bob Clark concerning our Stroud Union football team, was only written because you wanted to create a controversy, which can be a very little but usually a big thing. You don't wish for the facts, you merely wanted a controversial article started.

Thank goodness jelly-fish like you are few and far between. My only regret is that there is no appropriate award for such a gutless instigator such as you.

It is my personal hope that your conscience will repay you in due time for referring to our football team as gutless twerps.

"Win or lose,"
A faithful fan,
Mrs. John Andress

P. S. I use your word gutless as you seem to enjoy it.

Upholds Eastburg

Nov. 22, 1960

Mr. Robert Clark, City Editor,
Dear Mr. Editor:

In view of the fact that you have printed letters and parts of letters in your paper regarding the interboro game, I thought perhaps you would also oblige by printing this in behalf of the Eastburg fans and team.

I'm not quite sure just who Stroud Union High School's opponents are going to be, because it seems to me that I've been reading only about Stroudsburg's team. How poor they have been, how scrappy they are, how determined they will be, etc. This is all well and good but please let's not forget that their opponents on Thanksgiving will be East Stroudsburg High and that they too have a football team. A team that has given it's fans a respectable season, a team that has a good spirit and a fighting heart. A team that realizes it has it's work cut out for it but will "show-up" for the game ready to give out with all it's heart. A group of boys we of East Stroudsburg are happy to have represent us on any grid iron. A group of boys who have worked hard, long, and faithfully ever since August 18th. A group of boys who realize they must be at their best for this one last test in order to win. These are "our" boys, and knowing that they will scrap with every ounce of muscle in their bodies, we of Eastburg are behind them 100% always.

I now trust that everyone realizes that Stroud Union is playing a worthy opponent on Turkey Day, namely, East Stroudsburg.

Respectfully yours,
A Loyal Eastburg Fan
Mrs. Ida Gray

Editor's Note: Letters would have been published on Editorial Page, but lateness in arriving of letters caused shift.

Kennedy Election 'Hits' UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —John F. Kennedy's election as president of the United States has awakened echoes in the U. N. General Assembly, even though he will not be inaugurated until Jan. 20.

The Soviet Union, discussing disarmament in the assembly's Political Committee, has offered to enter into negotiations with his government on that subject.

When Democrat Kennedy was elected to succeed Republican Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Khrushchev cabled congratulations and said he saw "no insurmountable obstacles to the preservation and consolidation of peace."

Government Ready

Reading Khrushchev's cablegram to the committee a few days later, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said his government was ready for "constructive negotiations on general and complete disarmament with the new United States government."

Blaming the current disarmament deadlock on the Eisenhower administration, he expressed hope "the new United States government will seriously ponder the situation which has been brought about through the fault of its predecessor and that it will draw the necessary conclusions."

He said if that happened, a special summit session of the General Assembly on disarmament March or April—as proposed by Khrushchev—should be able to achieve positive results.

All Speculating

U. S. chief delegate James J. Wadsworth, an Eisenhower appointee, denied the United States was against general disarmament. He expressed regret Zorin had made remarks "about what the next government of the United States might possibly think."

Despite what Wadsworth said, Zorin was only doing publicly what other delegates had been doing privately. Nearly all have been speculating on what Kennedy's foreign policy will be.

Year-End Tax Selling

By William A. Doyle

Q. After following the stock market for a number of years, I imagine we will soon be reading about a lot of "tax selling" at the end of the year. This is a bit silly to me. Do many people really sell their stocks just to get some cash to pay their taxes?

A. Some people do. They may have earned big salaries or made a lot of money in one way or another. When tax payment time rolls around, they need cash. So, they sell some of their stocks.

But that's not what is generally called "tax selling." As that expression is used in the financial district, it is something entirely different.

If you buy some stock and the market value of that stock rises, you are not subject to Federal capital-gains taxes until you sell that stock.

And, if you buy some stock and it goes down in market value, you cannot establish a loss for tax purposes until you sell the stock.

Most people file Federal income tax returns on a calendar year basis. So during December, many will sell stocks for tax purposes.

The main idea in tax selling is to establish losses for tax purposes. Those losses can be used to offset profits. To some extent, the losses can also be used to offset ordinary income—salaries, etc.

If a person can establish enough losses, he can cut down on his tax bill.

Tax selling leads to such things as switching from one security to another. Anyone who tries it should study up on the whole situation and make sure he has good, individual tax advice.

Q. Was it tax selling that caused stock prices to fall late last year?

A. There was some tax selling late in 1959, just as there is in every year. But your memory is a little short. Stock prices, as measured by the "averages," hit an all-time high at the very end of last year. For most of 1960, we have seen most stock prices take a slide.

Q. Can we expect a lot of tax selling late this year?

A. That's a reasonable expectation. Many stocks are now trading at prices well below their previous levels. But, with stock prices taking wide moves both up and down lately, it's impossible to even try to guess what affect tax selling will have on over-all stock prices.

Q. Is it customary for a corporation to insure its top officers for twice their annual salaries—with the insurance payable to the widows or estates of the officers?

A. Many corporations do have arrangements such as that. It one way of compensating (if that's the right word) top officials. Very often companies find they must provide something more than straight salaries and bonuses, if they want to hire and keep top executive talent.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

S-Burg Man Pleads Guilty

JAMES Hilbert, of 327 Main St., Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to a charge of avoiding identification at a hearing before Justice of the Peace John Foelker.

Held on several traffic violations, Hilbert was specifically charged with turning out his automobile lights to avoid identification when stopped by the Stroudsburg police. He was arrested on Nov. 14 at 7:45 p.m. in Stroudsburg.

He was reprimanded to the Monroe County Jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Court To Hear Blue Law Plea

THE U.S. Supreme Court will hear an appeal from enforcement of Pennsylvania's Sunday Blue Laws in Lehigh County, instituted in Federal District Court by Two Guys From Harrison Inc., on Dec. 7.

The case is an appeal of the firm from a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision of last December. The company is attacking the 1794 Blue Laws and the new Pennsylvania statute passed last year banning Sunday sales of certain items and providing a $100 fine for the first offense.

Bangor Students To Participate

BANGOR — Miss Gail Teel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Teel of Lock Heights, and Kenneth Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Bangor R.D., both members of the Senior High Mixed Chorus of the Bangor Area Joint High School, have been accepted as participants in the All-Eastern Division Chorus of the Music Educators National Conference to be held in Washington, D.C., January 13th-16th, 1961.

While geographical representation entered into the picture, the ability as a performer, interest in the music program of both school and state, and citizenship were all taken into consideration when these students were chosen to represent Bangor Area Joint High School, Bangor.

Security Aide At Credit School

FRED W. WALTER, assistant treasurer of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co., and manager of the concern's East Stroudsburg office, is attending a two-week course of instruction in credit at Provident Tradesmens Bank and Trust Company of Philadelphia.

Walter will be trained in the analysis of financial statements and credit reports. He will also have the opportunity to meet with bank officers of this large Philadelphia bank to discuss other aspects of banking. He will work with these men in analyzing current problems which arise in various areas of banking.

Lancaster Cattle

Doris Day To Star At Sherman

DORIS DAY'S performance in "Midnight Lace," the suspense drama in which she stars with Rex Harrison and John Gavin, is a complete change of pace for the famous blonde actress who received her first Academy Award nomination for best actress in the comedy hit, "Pillow Talk." Doris plays a straight dramatic role in "Midnight Lace," which opens today at the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg, and is a Ross Hunter-Arwin color production, released by Universal-International.

In her 12-year screen career, Miss Day, unknown except as a band singer, before 1948, has become the top feminine boxoffice attraction of motion pictures. The former vocalist with the Bob Crosby, Fred Waring and Les Brown orchestras, she's a favorite recording soloist with disc jockeys from coast-to-coast, with her records always among the best-sellers.

Enacting a highly emotional dramatic role in "Midnight Lace," Doris Day, as the American wife of British financier Rex Harrison, is the target for terror in the most shocking game ever played with a woman's sanity.

Crash Injuries Prove Fatal

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Injuries suffered in the crash of a truck and a school bus have claimed the life of McCune Harbaugh, 58, of Connellsville.

Harbaugh died last night in Connellsville State Hospital. He was hurt Oct. 24 when his truck smashed into the front of the stopped bus on Normalville Road near this Fayette County town. No one else was injured in the crash.

BETTY and Blace Hotalen, who moved into their new home Nov. 12, were surprised a week later when 25 friends and relatives turned out for a housewarming party. Cake, ice cream and coffee, made the gathering a warm and friendly affair with good wishes overflowing for the happiness and success of the young couple in their new home.

Mrs. Fred Brombacher of Monte Rosa is back at the Orthopedic Hospital in Orange, N. J. Her friends around the village will be interested to learn where they may send greetings and wishes for a quick recovery.

Following the regular meeting, E. G. Wentworth, local Civil Defense director, and his assistant, Art Ogden, spoke on the measures families should take to provide for themselves in case of an attack. Refreshments were served by Pauline Lentz and Frances Myck.

Last week, when water was low in the village and Turtle Hall was bone dry, I let my head cat Myriah write the column while I went out of town for a bath. This week, Myriah has been receiving fan mail and it has gone to her head. I mean, I don't mind her eating at the table, but now she's demanding a fork! She has not allowed me to read her letters but has secreted them in a mouse hole which she previously depopulated and is, I believe, keeping them to use in case she gets her claws on my typewriter again.

Let Your Banker Help You Play 'Jolly Santa Claus'

Even if your list of presents is longer than your bankroll . . . you can still fill Christmas stockings bountifully. .

Banks today grant loans for almost any reasonable need — and that includes the cash to pay for the high cost of Yuletide giving.

You don't have to be a depositor of the bank of get a personal loan. Having a substantial savings account makes it easier. But all you need really show is your ability to repay the loan safely and comfortably out of current income.

Save For '61

Don't hesitate to borrow this Christmas, but don't get caught short of funds again. Start saving for next December 25 now! You'll have a year to save, a little at a time.

To help you stick to good intentions, many banks around the country now provide special accounts under programs called Christmas Clubs. They make you save for Christmas in spite of yourself: You save in much the same way as installment loans.

The big difference is that you save ahead to buy later instead of vice versa. Also, you save paying interest charges on the loan.

Most clubs require you to save on a weekly or bi-monthly basis. The amount you save depends on your final savings goal.

Remember, your banker may not look like Santa, but when you are short of cash at Christmas, he's the next best thing.

SHARE WITH "CARE"

Share your Christmas with the less fortunate in other lands. $1 will send a food package through the CARE Food Crusade, New York City.

Use Imagination and Gadgets to Give Flair to your Decorations

For example — set a box-type vegetable grater in the center of a square cake tin. Place a candle inside the grater to flicker and twinkle through the holes. Around the end, inside the pan, lay glittered pine cones or other types of Christmas "fancies." Top the grater handle with tiny tree balls, wired on.

Bottles are the beginnings of many interesting decorations too. They need not be especially attractive . . . you can make them so by covering them with pretty paper.

Use them as candle holders, vases for evergreen cuttings, or attach foam plastic "heads," which you can easily make . . . ot create a Santa Claus, an angel, or one of the Three Wise Men.

Thin aluminum pie tins may be clipped with ordinary designs. You can wrap a hat box like a drum . . . make big candles by rolling a piece of large cardboard and covering it. To form a flame, crinkle yellow or orange paper, attach with tape.
